OIL INDUSTRY OPENS WAR ON ICKES' PIPE LINE

Arabian Plan Held Unsound, Unfair.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The oil industry today threw away the olive branch and lunged into a full dress battle against the Roosevelt administration in a drive to kill the government's 165 million dollar Arabian oil pipe line scheme.

William Boyd Jr.

Promising that the fight would be carried to the halls of congress on the historic issue of whether the government shall compete with private enterprise, oil industry leaders warned that the administration was making a "fatal decision" by planning to build the pipe line.

In a hot, crowded office three blocks from the White House, leaders of the petroleum industry war council split wide open with Petroleum Administrator Ickes in a declaration that the Petroleum Reserves corporation, sponsor of the pipe line, is illegal and should be liquidated.

Ickes to Go Ahead.

Earlier, Ickes told a press conference that the government would proceed with its plans to build the pipe line but confessed there is "an honest difference of opinion" between the government and the oil industry. He said the project, which will take two years to build, is needed for this war and for future wars to provide oil for American military security.

The industry war council's resolution last night condemning the Arabian pipe line as needless and a breeder of future wars was elaborated this afternoon at a press conference called by William R. Boyd Jr., chairman. The council was created by Ickes to advise him on oil matters.

Asserting that the PRC is illegal, "shrouded in a mystery," and not authorized or provided funds by congress, George A. Hill Jr., council member, charged the government corporation was usurping the function of the state department in foreign relations and was invading the field of private enterprise by proposing the Arabian pipe line.

Invading Private Enterprise.

"The administration is making a fatal decision," said Hill, who is president of the Houston Oil company, Houston, Tex. "There is a school of thought in the government which believes it should invade the field of private enterprise. This pipe line venture by the government is a creature of this New Deal school of thought. It will have grave repercussions."

Hill asserted the pipe line will involve the government in foreign entanglements which will lead to a third World war. He noted that the pipe line will run thru "one of the most explosive areas in the world" where, he said, national rivalries are sharp, where boundary disputes are bloody, and where the United States will have to maintain armed forces to protect its interests."

State Department By-Passed.

Hill emphasized that this country's dealings with foreign nations are the responsibility of the state department, which he said is by-passed by the PRC in the pipe line scheme. He asserted that the British government has not been consulted and friction inevitably will develop with the British in our determination to protect our Arabian oil interests.

"Foreign countries will resent our undertaking of commercial projects within their boundaries," John A. Brown, chairman of the PIWC committee on national oil policy, told reporters. "The pipe line implies an invasion of their sovereignty and will have a terrifying effect on our peaceful relations."

John Williams Shot; Figure in Slaying Trial

John Joseph Williams, south side gambler acquitted last December on a charge of slaying Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk, was in Holy Cross hospital early today with several bullet wounds in the small of the back.

He was found by Patrolmen Edward Schwenn and Frank O'Farrell of the Chicago Lawn police standing wounded beside his car at 57th and Whipple sts. shortly after 2 a. m. when they responded to a mysterious report of a shooting there.

Williams declined to name his assailants or to discuss the shooting. Police said he apparently had been shot at the spot where he was found. Williams told police he was on his way home.

6 Bombs Fall Near Vatican City; 1 Killed

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—One unidentified plane, flying at an altitude of 1,800 feet, dropped four bombs on extraterritorial ground of the Vatican in Rome last night and two near the Holy City itself, killing a workman and injuring a priest, the Vatican radio said today.

Four of the bombs, said the broadcast, "fell on the papal propaganda college and two on Santa Monica, directly opposite St. Peter's. One worker was killed and an Augustinian monk, a Dutchman, was injured. Fortunately, there were no victims at the propaganda college."

The college is about 2,500 yards east of the Vatican.

The Fascist controled Rome radio said the bombs "also caused damage of the interior of Vatican City."

Vatican Territory Hit Nov. 5.

Vatican territory last was bombed Nov. 5. Berlin attempted to blame the attack on the allies but Gen. Eisenhower said no allied planes had been over Rome at the time.

Pope Pius declared in a later statement broadcast by the Vatican radio that the attack was "deliberately planned and dishonorably and unsuccessfully screened behind the anonymity of the pilot."

His statement hinted that the plane's identity was known, but its nationality never has been publicly announced.

The Berlin radio said today that windows "smashed at St. Peter's by the allied air raid Dec. 5" have been replaced.

There is no record of a Dec. 5 bombing of the Vatican.

Warns Rome Will Be Bombed.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—War Secretary Stimson warned today that the allies will have no alternative but to attack parts of Rome put to military use by the Germans.

At a press conference, he defined the allied military policy as one of taking every possible precaution against the destruction of "cultural, historical, and religious property" but of placing lives above material things.

U. S. STOPS AID TO TURKS; BACKS BRITISH ACTION

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—American lend-lease and British mutual aid shipments to Turkey were understood tonight to have been suspended in a move apparently linked with vigorous military and diplomatic preparations for the Anglo-American invasion of Europe.

The Germans have been obtaining chrome and other strategic war materials from Turkey.

Britain and the other allies apparently believe the time has come for Turkey to choose whether she should continue even these limited dealings with Germany or close her European frontiers and possibly take other steps—for example, granting air bases—which might lead her to full fledged involvement in the war.

GIVES 'MAJOR CONSIDERATION' TO SOVIET PLAN

Move for Armistice Hinted by Press.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 2 (AP).—The Finnish cabinet is giving the peace dilemma "major consideration," a Finnish foreign office spokesman said in Helsingfors tonight, but there was no official indication that the government had reached a decision on whether to accept Moscow's terms.

The foreign office spokesman, asked for official comment, said there were "no new developments." He denied that a Finnish peace delegation was journeying to Moscow. Other informed political sources predicted there would be no move within the next few days.

"Will Try to Move Along."

Meanwhile, the Finnish newspaper Social Demokratti, mouthpiece of the Social Democratic party which is the strongest in Finland's parliament, indicated in its editions dated Friday that the Finnish government intends to make every effort to negotiate an armistice.

"It is to be believed we will try to move along the road of negotiation if there is even the slightest possibility to do so with freedom and independence preserved," the newspaper said.

The Social Demokratti expressed the opinion that the Moscow terms were "meant only to form the basis for further negotiation and that Finland will have a chance to express its own views."

The newspaper said that at first glance the conditions proposed by Moscow are "harsh and even cruel."

"Inspired by Parliament."

In noting that "German reaction will have an influence on some points," the newspaper put its finger on one of the main armistice stumbling blocks—the presence of German troops in north Finland. The other touchy question is the demobilization of the Finnish army.

An informed Finnish source said the article was inspired by the majority view of Parliament, which gave the government a vote of confidence Tuesday at a secret session.

"Couldn't Be Final."

The Finnish afternoon newspaper Ilta Sanòmat said the published terms were "not suitable as a basis for final negotiations" and added, "if Russia really wants peace with us it seems that these terms couldn't be final."

Svenska Pressen, which long has been favoring negotiations with Moscow, labeled the terms "frightening" and a "bad sign."

As the peace issue was disclosed, a Finnish war bulletin reported lively activity on the fighting front with both sides attacking. It said Finnish troops penetrated Russian positions at four points on the western portion of the Aunus isthmus and that the Russians had pierced Finnish lines near Uhtua after a heavy artillery barrage.

Hollywood, Cal., March 2 (AP).—Paul Lukas, 48, Hungarian-born actor, and Jennifer Jones, a screen newcomer, tonight won filmdom's highest accolade—the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences "Oscar" awards—for best acting performances of 1943.

Miss Jones, who previously had appeared in minor roles, was presented with the small cherished statuette for superb acting in "The Song of Bernadette."

Coincidentally, this was the Oklahoma-born actress' 24th birthday.

[Mae Tinee's review of "The Song of Bernadette" appears on page 23.]

Miss Jones, who was born Phylis Isley, had her first big role as the saintly peasant girl in "The Song of Bernadette." She won the award over such other academy nominees as Joan Fontaine and Greer Garson, both previous "Ocar" winners, Jean Arthur and Ingrid Bergman. Lukas nosed out his four competitors, Gary Cooper, a previous winner, Humphrey Bogart, Walter Pidgeon, and Mickey Rooney.

Charles Coburn was adjudged the best supporting actor of 1943 for his work in the comedy "The More the Merrier," while Katina Paxinou, the Greek actress, won the award for best supporting actress for her performance in "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

The academy's high honors for the outstanding movie of 1943 went to Warner Brothers' "Casablanca," while Michael Curtiz won the Oscar for best direction for the work he did on that picture.

Competition Is Sharp.

Nominated against "Casablanca" were the films "Song of Bernadette," "Heaven Can Wait," "Ox-Bow Incident," "Watch on the Rhine," "Human Comedy," "Madame Curie," "The More the Merrier," "In Which We Serve," and "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

Producer Hal Wallis won the Irving G. Thalberg memorial award, given for the most consistent high quality of production, for his screen presentations, which included "Casablanca," "Air Force," and "Action in the North Atlantic."

The awards included:

Best two reel short, "Heavenly Music"; best one reel short, "Amphibious Fighters"; best scoring of musical, "This Is the Army"; best song, "You'll Never Know."

Tickets to the ceremonies sold for $11 each and the theater was a complete sell-out. George Jessel was master of ceremonies.

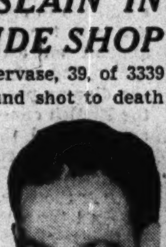
FORMER CONVICT FOUND SLAIN IN NORTH SIDE SHOP

Sam [Snakes] Gervase, 39, of 3339 Pierce st., was found shot to death last night in the refrigerator repair shop he operated at 609 Division st. He had been shot five times in the head and chest.



Sam Gervase.

Two guns were found in the shop, one beside the dead man's right hand, the other near the front door.

Charles Derach, owner of a bakery at 603 Division st., told police that an unidentified man entered his shop about 10:45 p. m. and said he had found Gervase dead in the refrigerator shop. He called police over Derach's telephone, then disappeared.

Mrs. Leslie Curtis, 46, a Negro, who lives above the shop, told police she heard several loud reports between 8:30 and 9 p. m. She said she supposed it was an auto back-firing.

The rear door of Gervase's shop was nailed shut. Gervase once served a term in Joliet prison for larceny, police said. In September, 1942, he confessed the $3,000 holdup of the Pine Tree tavern at 3504 N. Cicero av., naming three accomplices.

Lard Off Ration Rolls; 50 Million Lbs. for Soap

Because lard stocks in the United States have outgrown storage space, the office of price administration last night took this food off rationing. At the same time the war food administration freed 50 million pounds of government held lard for soap making during March.

Army Drafts Pre-Induction Training Plan

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The army said tonight that it contemplates "broad expansion" of its specialized training reserve program for men in the pre-induction, 17 year old group.

This group was not affected by the recent decision to cut drastically the size of the army specialized training program and to put the great majority of men into active service to make up deficiencies in total army strength.

The war department did not elaborate on its statement that the reserve training program would be expanded, but said that details would be announced "soon."

Affects Medical Students.

The same announcement reported procedure governing selection of medical, dental, and veterinary trainees who will be retained in the ASTP after April 1, when the reduction becomes effective.

In addition to enlisted men now taking instruction in medicine, dentistry, and veterinary medicine, soldiers currently enrolled in pre-professional courses will be continued in their studies and upon successful completion of that work will be advanced to the medical or dental phase of the program.

Assignment to training in medicine and dentistry in the ASTP for the remainder of the year will be made from among enlisted men who prior to April 1 have been accepted for 1944 classes in medical and dental schools.

Civilians now in those schools and who have been accepted for a 1944 class in an accredited medical or dental school but who did not receive a call for induction prior to March 1, 1944, will not be assigned for ASTP training in medicine or dentistry.

Qualifications Described.

Selection for pre-professional and subsequent professional training in medicine and dentistry will be restricted to soldiers who have completed their basic military training and have accomplished one of the following:

1. Passed an aptitude test for medical profession upon successful completion of term 2 or term 3 in the army specialized training reserve program.

2. Received a satisfactory score in the army-navy [A-12, V-12] college qualifying test [men in this group must have satisfactorily completed at least a year of pre-medical or pre-dental studies as civilians].

Priority will be given in the order as outlined. Any additional vacancies may be filled by soldiers selected on the basis of their proved abilities and academic background.

Divorce Yank Dad of Quads, Mother Asks

[By Wireless to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune.]

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 2.—Staff Sgt. William H. Thompson Jr.—"the best man in the whole damn army," his soldier friends say—announced today that he and Norah Carpenter, his unmarried British sweetheart, might move to Alaska after the war "to bring up our quads."

And Miss Carpenter, the 23 year old former member of the auxiliary territorial service [equivalent of the American WAC], whose plans for the future are more immediate, expressed one singular hope:

"We are planning to marry as soon as his wife will let him go."

The fact that Bill's childless bride, Mrs. Eleanor Thompson, back in Pittsburgh, refused to give him a divorce because she is a Catholic, failed to dampen the hopes of Bill and Norah.

Have Thousand Plans.

"Norah and I have a thousand plans for our future," 25 year old red haired Bill said at his army camp where his commanding officer today gave him a special leave to visit his sweetheart because "he hasn't been able to concentrate on his military duties since he became a world famous father."

"Now I must make a success of my job as a photographic printer so I can give the quads all I want," Bill said. "I'll work like hell for them and Norah. My family and I may apply for the government's settlement scheme in Alaska after the war is over."

As a train carried him to the Derbyshire mining village of Heanor and his family, the frail but attractive Norah bubbled over with joy.

"We're going on a special honey-holiday as soon as I can be up and around," she said. A "honey-holiday" is a British term for the American honeymoon.

Messages Pour In.

As she sat in bed discussing her "dear little tykes," blankets, diapers, safety pins, nightgowns, and messages of felicitations by the hundreds poured in. The Red Cross even sent a bundle down from London. And the townspeople arrived with extra clothing galore from their skimpy supplies for Michael, MacDonald, Madeline, and Maureen.

The tiny mining village of 1,300 was all agog. But Norah discussed her love affair with Bill freely.

She and the sergeant met at a dance, she said, adding: "O, how well I remember. It was the 16th of December, 1942. I had on my A. T. S. uniform, of course, and Red was, O, so handsome.

Met Quite Often.

"We met quite often after that. We soon knew we were in love and I want to make this very clear. Just the moment Red knew we were in love, he asked his wife for a divorce, but she said she wouldn't give it to him because of religious grounds.

"We do hope she will change her mind now that she sees Red has all these responsibilities."

New Death Hour Is Set Tomorrow.

Ossining, N. Y., March 2 [Special].—Little more than an hour before Louis [Lepke] Buchalter and his two "Murder, Inc.," henchmen were scheduled to die in the electric chair tonight, Gov. Dewey ordered their execution postponed until later in the week.

The brief additional span of life, the sixth delay the governor has granted the trio, was decreed to permit their attorney to appeal to the United States Supreme court Saturday noon.

Altho the stay would expire at midnight Saturday, it was indicated unofficially that another postponement might be granted if the high court did not act immediately upon the attorney's plea.

Act Just Before Death Hour.

The new lease of life was announced only 70 minutes before the slay-for-pay chieftain and his hired killers, Louis Capone and Emanuel Weiss, were to have entered the execution room in Sing Sing prison to give their lives for the 1936 slaying of Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn storekeeper.

Dewey, who had previously ordered the execution to take place during the week of Feb. 28, announced thru his attorney, Charles D. Breitel, that he had requested Correction Commissioner John A. Lyons to postpone the executions until later in the week. Thursday previously had been selected because it is the usual execution day at Sing Sing.

Breitel's statement added that "under the circumstances there is no need for a respite by the governor at this time." He said the stay would expire with the closing of the week at midnight Saturday.

Plea for Writ Arranged.

The new stay was granted, Breitel explained, after counsel for Lepke—the name used by the gang overlord altho his real name is Buchalter—advised him he had arranged for an application to the Supreme court at noon Saturday for a writ of certiorari.

Lepke's attorney, J. Bertram Wegman, seeks a review of a United States Circuit Court of Appeals approval late this afternoon of a lower Federal court ruling which denied the gangster a writ of habeas corpus.

Wegman had sought the writ on the ground the transfer of Lepke from federal to state custody last January was illegal because President Roosevelt had not granted a commutation. Lepke, who was serving a 14 year federal sentence on a narcotics charge, was surrendered to the state on condition he be returned to federal custody if not executed.

Visited by District Attorney.

The 11th hour stay followed a visit to Sing Sing by Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan and two of his chief aids who conferred for an hour and a half with Lepke in the death house this afternoon.

Lepke was said to have received news of the stay with very little surprise and to have acted as tho he anticipated some such action to prevent his death. Capone appeared to be astonished by the announcement and Weiss cried, "Fine, fine!" The three were immediately taken from the pre-execution chamber and returned to the death house.

The postponement followed by only a day reports that Lepke had made a death house statement implicating three nationally prominent persons.

Assert Statement Made.

In a copyrighted story the New York Daily News said Lepke had signed a statement naming places and names and disclosing "a tale of political intrigue so astonishing that its repercussions threaten to tear open the most sensational scandal" in more than 30 years.

The story said that Lepke, identifying three persons known thruout America, charged "one New York political faction with seeking, thru him, to fasten high crime upon another and better entrenched faction."

DIVORCE QUADS' FATHER, MOTHER URGES U. S. WIFE

town knew I was single, and it would be foolish for me to pretend that I'm not. I never claimed to be married."

The birth of the quads has not been officially recorded, and need not be for another three months. They were gaining weight today, according to the superintendent of a nursing home to which they were taken right after their birth.

WIFE IN HIDING

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 2 [Special].—The childless American wife of Staff Sgt. William H. Thompson Jr., father of quadruplets born to his English sweetheart, went into seclusion today without answering the question that has upset two nations: "Will she give him a divorce?"

The betrayed wife, Mrs. Eleanor Thompson, 25, a beautician whom the sergeant married in 1941, left her Pittsburgh home and could not be reached for further comment on her husband's international romance, but her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Jenemann, and Sgt. Thompson's parents were ready to talk.

"We are Catholics and it is against our religion to divorce," said Mrs. Jenemann, "but Eleanor is over 21 and she'll have to make her own decision."

Suffers Terrible Shock.

Mrs. Jenemann denied a report that her daughter was near collapse. "But she is suffering from a terrible shock," she said. "This is a terrible thing and she is an innocent victim. She has been crying ever since she came home from work, where she was called and told about it by a New York paper."

Eleanor's father said, "Eleanor is out of town and will remain in seclusion till this thing blows over."

Neighbors, however, said Mrs. Thompson was "in an almost hysterical condition" at her parents' home.

Sgt. Thompson's father, a bartender in a sportsmen's club, said he would do all he could to help his son.

"If it weren't for the war, I'd be on a boat in the morning to stand by his side," said the elder Thompson. "I intend to speak to Mr. and Mrs. Jenemann soon. They are very nice people. I know Bill's wife very well, and I think she is a fine little person."

Doubts Divorce Possibility.

Bill's mother, Mrs. Alice Houlihan, who was divorced from his father when Bill was a child, said she doubted her son could get a divorce. "They were married in the Catholic faith—how can they get a divorce?" she asked.

Priests at St. Joseph's church, where Bill and Eleanor were married, said no inquiries had been made there about the possibility of a divorce.

Sgt. Thompson's male friends here were loud in their praise of him.

"He's a lend-lease daddy, that's what he is," said one of them. "We're mighty proud of him. He was a quiet little red haired guy around here, but it looks as if he's doing all right in the army, doesn't it?"

Pittsburgh lawyers said Mrs. Thompson would have no legal troubles in getting a divorce.

Could Sue for "Indignities."

A simple way would be to sue on the ground of "indignities," basing her evidence on the publicity the case has aroused. The lawyers said the procedure would be to file a petition in court. Because Thompson is in the army, the court would appoint an attorney to represent him. The attorney would forward the divorce papers to England, thru the British consulate, and if Thompson certified that he did not wish to contest the suit, the divorce could be granted.

After the war, if Thompson is discharged from the army in England and decides to remain there, his wife could not sue him for nonsupport because he did not leave Pennsylvania in order to escape his responsibilities at home, the lawyers explained.

Under military law, Thompson must support his wife, but his rank as a staff sergeant permits him to set the amount of his pay allotted to her.

In Washington, D. C., a war department spokesman said the quadruplets will be eligible for dependency payments of $90 a month if Thompson acknowledges them to be his children. The monthly payment for the first child is $30, with $20 for each additional child.

Quadruplets' Mother and Parents

QUADS' DAD GETS PATS AND SLAPS FROM ALL SIDES

Chicago took in stride the arrival of quadruplets to Sgt. Bill Thompson of Pittsburgh, Pa., and his English sweetheart, and dispensed great masses of sympathy in all directions: to the soldier, to his American wife, and to Miss Norah Carpenter of England, who gave birth to the soldier's children.

Many of the men questioned thought the soldier's wife should forgive him and treat the matter as one of the hardships of war. The women thought she should divorce him as fast as she could. Judge Rudolph Desort, who sat in divorce court many years, said maybe Sgt. Thompson needed an explanation of the word "allies." The judge thought the soldier had taken it too literally, and suggested that lend-lease funds might be made available to see him thru this emergency.

Navy Takes News Calmly.

Another army sergeant, Frank De Rosa of Cleveland, O., described Sgt. Thompson as a "dumbwit." "He must be nuts," De Rosa said. "he should have remembered he was married. His first obligation is to his wife here. Let England take care of his children." De Rosa is unmarried.

The navy took the news calmly. Seaman Henry "Bud" Robinson of of Provo, Utah, said the announcement wasn't any surprise. "I've a couple of buddies overseas," he said, "and they write me newsy letters." He said the matter of divorce should be strictly the decision of the wife.

Two Wisconsin matrons, Mrs. L. A. Campbell of Clear Lake, and Mrs. Bartholomew Kunny of Baldwin, lamented the announcement, and said they hoped that the situation wasn't common. "It would be terrible," they said, "if our soldiers are going overseas and discommoding the local women to such a degree." They said this situation was certainly a good argument against war time marriages.

Opposes War Marriages.

Miss Edna Skogsberg, 6317 Blackstone av., agreed that it was, too. She said she always had a general idea that it might be better to wait until the war was over to marry, but that this crystalized her belief.

O. Thomas Feree of 40 E. Oak st., said that he believed Sgt. Thompson's wife should give him a matrimonial release and chalk up the experience as her contribution to the war. "The average girl," he said, "after some acid comments, will take the attitude that it's the children who matter, for it's they who are the innocent victims and deserving of a father's name."

Correction

An error in Frank Hughes' article on the New York Evening Post, which was published in THE TRIBUNE on Wednesday, merits correction. The Post was said to be "owned and edited by Mrs. Dorothy Schiff Backer, the pinko daughter of the late Mortimer Schiff, international banker and a violent anti-Catholic."

The passage should have read: "The Post is owned and edited by Mrs. Dorothy Schiff Backer, the pinko daughter of the late Mortimer Schiff, international banker. By the same logic that has led the smear brigade to describe as a violent anti-Semite any one who finds fault with Mr. Winchell's taste or Judge Rosenman's politics, Mrs. Backer could be described as a violent anti-Catholic in view of her paper's unconscionable attack on Sen. Walsh."

Thru an unfortunate elision, the true meaning of the passage was lost and it was made to appear that Mr. Schiff was a violent anti-Catholic. We believe, on the contrary, that he was a broad-minded and tolerant gentleman.

BY FRANK HUGHES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—While the New Dealers' favorite newspapers are ladling out the smear by the galley full, another tightly organized clique of internationalists and America-lasters are dinning the same theme into the public ear via the radio. These are the so-called news commentators and analysts, most of whom have headquarters in New York City, five or six figure incomes, and an overweening conceit about their abilities, opinions, and voices that frequently leads them to forget they are in the money because business men who may have different opinions and a great deal more ability pay all the bills.

This crowd has a temporary vogue because the public is hungry for anything that is labeled news, and restrictions the New Dealers have placed upon newsprint has prevented the newspapers from presenting war news to the public as fully as they are able to. The commentators who have joined in the New Deal plot to smear all nationalists and all those who oppose the Europe first movements are rapidly becoming recognized, however, as a bunch of loathsome shysters who are bringing infinite disrepute to their sponsors.

Sponsors Lose Business.

Not a few of these sponsors are beginning to lose business because of the un-American activities of their radio salesmen, and it is problematical how long they will permit such conditions to last. There are some persons, even, who have raised the question of whether these alleged newscasters and analysts get the larger part of their revenue from the sponsors or from lend-lease money in one way or another.

About 20 so-called public event experts are banded together in the Association of Radio Analysts, a guild founded about two years ago by Hans von Kaltenborn whose opinions and accent come sputtering out of a National Broadcasting company studio five nights a week at the expense of the Pure Oil company. Kaltenborn is the son of a minor German noble and Hessian guards officer. Another broadcaster with an alias, he has cut the "von" in his name down to a simple "V"—a symbol much more popular in the United States today than "von." He spent his early boyhood in the small town of Merrill, Wis., and began writing for Milwaukee newspapers in both English and German at the age of 19.

Wed to Baroness.

He worked as a reporter for the Brooklyn Eagle for three years before matriculating at Harvard university in 1905. During a trans-Atlantic voyage, he met Baroness Olga Nordenflycht, daughter of the then German ambassador to Uruguay, and married her in Berlin in 1910. He returned to work for the Eagle as a reporter, but soon branched out into writing editorials and interpretive articles.

He made his debut as a radio oracle in 1922, went to the Columbia Broadcasting system in 1930, and remained there until 1940 when he found a sponsor on the NBC chain. He was a league of nations advocate and in 1927 said in a magazine article that the United States should not stand alone but must act in coöperation with other nations for the preservation of peace. Kaltenborn interviewed Hitler during a visit to Europe in 1933 and said that he found him "far more capable than people abroad give him credit for."

Wined in Moscow.

On an earlier European trip, Kaltenborn was wined and dined in Moscow by the Communists. On this trip he acted as spokesman for the Russian American chamber of commerce. Some time after his return, he made a speech before the middle Atlantic section of the Society for the Promotion of Electrical Engineering in Brooklyn in which he said that the "Russian system of state socialism was a desirable economic form." He made frequent trips to the soviet, and broadcast over Moscow's powerful comintern station. Kaltenborn has been to Europe 26 times and speaks several foreign languages fluently. His income has been estimated in a magazine of national circulation at about $325,000 a year, some $200,000 of it from radio.

Kaltenborn drew his greatest audience and promptly began to mislead and confuse it when, during the German invasion of France he remained on the air about 18 hours a day announcing every crumb of news as it came off the wires and adding an interpretative patter far afield from the facts. He pretended to analyze the news, but instead he predicted it and he became what probably will stand as the greatest false prophet in radio history.

Reputation Suffered.

All thru the invasion, as the Nazi panzer units knifed into France, Kaltenborn kept telling his listeners that the Nazis would be stopped tomorrow, tonight, or in a matter of hours.

The Americans who listened to him were so lulled by his overconfidence and false guesses that the eventual fall of France, followed quickly by the British retreat at Dunkirk, was more of a shock to them than it should have been. Kaltenborn's reputation as a news analyst has never been the same since he propagandized America so erroneously.

The Association of Radio Analysts which Kaltenborn formed is now headed by George Fielding Eliot. Its secretary is Caesar Saerchinger, conductor of NBC's "The Story Behind the Headlines," and some of its better known members include Cecil Brown, William Shirer, and Quincy Howe.

This organization engaged in a controversy last fall with the Columbia Broadcasting system over what it called "freedom of speech" on the air. What the radio commentators really wanted was freedom to broadcast their own brand of propaganda and smear regardless of whether the sponsors who paid their salaries thought it was un-American and harmful publicity for their products. This dispute ended in the resignation of Cecil Brown from CBS.

Kaltenborn in Front.

Kaltenborn was in the forefront thruout this battle, having had one of his own just before the war when his smear of the America First movement sent his sponsor, the Pure Oil company, reeling under an avalanche of protesting letters and indignant demands that he cease his propaganda activities and confine himself to telling the news.

Another one in the forefront was Walter Winchell, pitchman for the Andrew Jurgens company of Cincinnati, O.; manufacturers of hand lotion, and the high priest of New Deal vilification. Winchell goes on the air almost every week prejudging the defendants in the Washington sedition cases, asserting that some one or another of them is guilty as charged. Ordinarily, this would be contempt of court in any land.

The planning and close coördination of these radio smear artists is well illustrated in a double barreled attack in which Kaltenborn and Cecil Brown, who is now broadcasting on the Mutual network for Phillies cigars, manufactured by Bayuk Cigars Inc. of Philadelphia, Pa., collaborated on the night of Feb. 16. Advertising struck a new low in this gang-up, and from the almost identical propaganda one might think that the commentators who broadcast it were paid out of a British slush fund instead of by American business men.

Hits at Tribune.

Kaltenborn said he had just returned from a visit in the middle west and had noted efforts there to "stir up dissension between Britain and the United States. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE doesn't let a day go by without making its pestiferous contribution to bad feeling among the allies."

Brown declared the contents of some American newspapers might lead people to wonder whether the United States was an ally or enemy of the soviets and British, and that "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE condemns Great Britain on just about every count." In an earlier program, Brown had declared America must reach a post-war collaboration agreement with Russia or face another war, and he repeated that statement.

Some members of the Association of Radio Analysts are reported to have met here recently and it has been rumored that a representative of the New Deal dominated federal communications commission met with them. The FCC holds life and death powers over radio stations and has been accused of high pressuring some station owners who were unfriendly to the New Deal by threats to revoke or to refuse extension of broadcasting licenses. An alliance between the internationalist radio commentators and the FCC would strengthen both the commentators and the New Deal's fourth term propaganda campaign.

Others with Foreign Leanings.

Kaltenborn is not the only radio "analyst" who has an international background which may account for pro-European and world super-state leanings. Brown and Shirer have spent many years abroad, and Saerchinger is a naturalized American citizen, having been born at Aix-la-Chapelle, France. He has been a foreign correspondent and writer and in one of his books, "The Way Out of War," he proposes a "federal union" for Europe and concludes with the thought that "the underlying cause of war will not be removed until nationalism, industrialism, and imperialism are curbed."

A newcomer to the smear brigade, but an old timer among the left wingers who are dedicated to making America safe for Communism, is John Roderigo Dos Passos. Dos Passos operates in an entirely different field, being a novelist and magazine writer, and he has given his fellow radicals considerable pain because he refuses to adhere to any one faction but merely charts a course far to the left, an unusual and unorthodox conduct for a revolutionary.

Professional Bleeding Heart.

Dos Passos is one of the most hemorrhagic of the professional bleeding hearts. He marched with the Communists in the picket lines during the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations in 1927 and was thrown into a cell with the Communist, Michael Gold. He has also espoused the cause of struck coal miners in Kentucky and Pennsylvania and of Spanish "republican" refugees whose politics was Communism.

In 1931, Dos Passos was indicted with Theodore Dreiser and eight others on charges of criminal syndicalism at Pineville, Ky. The 10 had gone there to investigate and comment on what they termed a "reign of terror" in the coal fields where the miners were on strike. It was charged they met in coal camps and sought to promulgate the "reign of terror" themselves by suggesting disorders and resistance to the state and federal governments. During the same year, Dos Passos was chairman of the national committee campaigning for funds to supply children and women in western Pennsylvania whose miner husbands and fathers were on strike. Lincoln Steffens and Upton Sinclair were on the same committee.

The volume "Twentieth Century Authors" says of Dos Passos: "Beyond Dos Passos' thick spectacles there are the eyes of a rather dreamy, scholarly man who would rather be left alone to study and write than to be forced by his conscience to stand in picket lines and be thrown into jail for his opinions."

ANTI-WILLKIE FORCES OF G.O.P. GET IN ACTION

Will Set Up Offices in Chicago Soon.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

A Chicago office will be established soon by the new National Anti-Willkie Republican club, pointing toward intense activity before and during the G. O. P. convention here. In announcing this yesterday, President T. F. McCartney, Murphysboro hotel man, said:

"We are not creating a nationwide dislike and distrust of Mr. Willkie. He did that himself. We are merely uncovering it in time to forestall disaster for the party."

McCartney recalled that the galleries at the 1940 convention were packed with Willkie boosters, who helped to stampede excited delegates with a seemingly hypnotic chant of "We want Willkie," repeated ad infinitum.

No Claque This Time.

"We will make it our business to see no such semi-pro claque is formed this time." he said. "We will be ready to offset any Willkie demonstration 10 to 1."

A goal of a million members has been set up by the anti-Willkie organization. A contribution of $1 will be asked of each. The money will be turned over to the Republican national committee if Willkie is not nominated, McCartney said. He was asked what would be the disposal of funds if Willkie were the nominee.

"The money will be distributed to help state and local candidates," he replied. "Our members pledge they will not vote for President if Willkie is nominated."

McCartney has twice served as mayor of Metropolis and is a former treasurer of the Illinois Bankers association. Before becoming a hotel manager he did chamber of commerce work for 25 years. K. L. Hollifield, secretary-treasurer of the anti-Willkie group, has been cashier of the Brookport National bank for 35 years. H. E. Jackson, vice president, is a farmer and a local school official.

Letters are pouring in from dozens of states, as far distant as Massachusetts and California, the president said. Some excerpts were:

Chicago—"The Roosevelt-Willkie combine, if once more successful, will mean subjection and confiscation."

Fremont, Ind.—"Beat this second-hand Democrat."

A New Deal Stooge.

New York City—"I am concerned over the activities of certain southern power companies toward obtaining delegates for Willkie."

Des Moines, Ia.—"I was one of the damned fools who journeyed to Elwood, Ind., to whoop it up for the barefoot orator, and I believe it is the only thing that will be held against me when I face my Maker."

Philadelphia—"Willkie and Roosevelt are controled by the same gang and if the G. O. P. is silly enough to run Willkie we might as well have Roosevelt."

McCartney concluded: "See what I mean about our not creating dislike for Willkie?"

REA CONSPIRACY TO 'ENSLAVE' U. S. FARMERS TOLD

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Citing scandals in the rural electrification administration which, he said, warrant impeachment proceedings, Rep. Boren [D., Okla.] today presented to a house appropriations subcommittee evidence of an REA "conspiracy to capture rural America and perpetuate it in economic serfdom."

Rep. Lyle Boren.

After a year's intensive study of the agency's activities, Boren said he had intended seeking the impeachment of Harry Slattery, REA head.

Recent evidence before a senate committee, however, convinced him that Slattery held his job in name only and "the real responsibility rests elsewhere."

Wickard in Control.

Altho Boren did not name the responsible officials, Slattery's agency is under the sway of Agriculture Secretary Wickard and testimony before the senate investigating committee revealed that both Wickard and the White House palace guard have sought to oust Slattery.

Jonathan W. Daniels, administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, faces a senate contempt citation for refusing to answer questions concerning Mr. Roosevelt's part in the affair.

Fearful that the impeachment process would not affect those actually guilty, Boren appealed to the appropriations subcommittee, which is considering REA appropriations for the coming fiscal year, to take action to end what he said was the wastage of millions of dollars by the agency and the "saddling of farmers with a mountain of debt."

"Callous Recklessness."

In a 7,000 word review of the agency's actions, Boren cited several examples of the "callous recklessness" with which farm coöperatives have been loaded up with broken-down electric properties, the cost of which will be reflected in higher rates for years to come.

Typical, he said, was the purchase by the Long Valley farm coöperative in Idaho, with REA funds, of the Grimes Pass Power company, supplier of power to gold mines, which became defunct when the war production board shut down gold mining in 1942. One month after the coöperative took over, the leaky old wooden dam, which was the chief source of power, washed out.

Outrageous Price Paid.

"The farmers of Long Valley paid an outrageous high price for a utility system that fell apart almost as soon as it was unloaded on them," Boren said.

"There are many other examples which should convince you that the present group running the REA is nothing more than a conspiracy to capture rural America and perpetuate it in economic serfdom, answerable only to their burocratic bosses without regard to the needs of local farm electric coöperatives."

When war came, Boren declared, the REA was "caught with millions to spend and no place to spend it."

"They well knew that if they came back the following spring with a record of funds unspent, your committee would limit them in future funds.

"The REA has become a kakistocracy [government by the worst of men]. The time has arrived for congress to deal with it."

LIBRARIAN SLAIN IN WASHINGTON'S HUGE CATHEDRAL

Bludgeoned Body Found in the Basement.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Maj. Edward J. Kelly, chief of police, reported tonight that a Negro handyman employed at the Washington cathedral had admitted fatally beating Miss Catherine Cooper Reardon, 37 year old cathedral librarian, whose body was found early today in the basement of the library. Kelly said the suspect told police he killed Miss Reardon because she had reported him for failing to clean the dust from under her desk last week.

Kelly said the suspect gave this version of the slaying: He found Miss Reardon at her desk last night and slugged her on the head with a piece of firewood. She ran and he followed, striking her again and choking her. Then he dragged the body into a steam pipe pit in the library basement.

Co-workers Find Body.

Co-workers found Miss Reardon's body when they arrived for work this morning at the library on the grounds of the $30,000,000 Episcopal cathedral, which looks down on the capital from the northwest heights of the city and which is the resting place of Woodrow Wilson and other notables.

They saw her coat and purse and, mystified, searched until the body was seen sticking out of the steam pipe pit. She was clad only in a slip. Other articles of clothing, apparently ripped from her, were stuffed into the pit. Her skull was smashed and there was a cut on the throat. The coroner's office announced that she had not been raped.

Lived with Mother.

The scene of Miss Reardon's slaying is one of the show places of Washington. The beautiful cathedral is surrounded by luxurious flowers and shrubs brought from far corners of the world.

Miss Reardon was employed by the library for eight years. Her family is one of the oldest and best known in northern Virginia and at one time conducted most of the shipping business out of the port of Alexandria. She attended the Moore academy at Reisterstown, Md., and was graduated from William and Mary college at Williamsburg, Va., in 1923. Her friends described her as "pretty and patrician" and said she was studious, inclined to be shy and reticent.

Drivers Minus Licenses March 20 Face Arrest

Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday that starting March 20 police will arrest motorists who do not have their state and city automobile license tags. The secretary of state's office has advised him that all applications will be filled by March 10, and he is allowing an additional 10 days in which car owners must obtain city licenses.

BYRD SENTIMENT GROWING AMONG ROOSEVELT FOES

Growing sentiment for Sen. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, as a possible candidate for President was reported yesterday at the Palmer House headquarters of the American Democratic National committee, anti-fourth term organization.

Harry H. Woodring, former secretary of war and chairman of the organization, announced that tentative organizations are being set up in 26 states. He leaves tomorrow for New York, after which he plans a trip to Boston, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, and then into Florida and Texas.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TWO-WEEK TOUR OF DOWNSTATE

Plans for a downstate speaking tour to cover a two week period were discussed yesterday by candidates on the regular Democratic state ticket, headed by Sen. Lucas and State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor, in the St. Nicholas hotel in Springfield.

Harry Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor in 1940, was chosen to head a downstate committee for Courtney with headquarters in Springfield. Other members are Mrs. Blanche Fritz, state chairwoman; Ward Holt of Salem, State Chairman Edward P. Allen, John C. Martin of Salem, William Worthey and Harry Wernsing of the secretary of state's office; John E. Cassidy of Peoria; C. W. Burton of Madison county, Leonard Condon of Rockford and Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis.

County Democratic candidates met yesterday in Chicago and made plans for a speakers bureau to furnish speakers for county meetings. Russell O'Brien was named chairman.

PEOPLE DROPPED REINS IN 1940, HOOSIER WARNS

Usurpation of "the reins of government" was consummated in 1940 when the people relied upon utterly false promises given by both leading candidates for President—President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie—Carl H. Mote, Indianapolis attorney, charged last night.

In a speech in Michigan City, Ind., before the Men's Republican club, Mote, a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, who has campaigned in 60 of Indiana's 92 counties, said:

"The question before the Republican party in 1944 is whether it will return to the principles of Washington, Jefferson, and Jackson. The question is whether the Republican party will return to its ancient moorings and become once more the Republican party of Lincoln."

REDS ON 4 SIDES OF NARVA; SEIZE STRONG POINTS

Improve Bridgehead; Gain in Ostrov Drive.

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—Moscow announced tonight that the Red army captured 30 communities today in a drive toward Ostrov, 35 miles south of Pskov on the trunk railroad to Warsaw, while northward around the Estonian stronghold of Narva the Russians improved their bridgehead and flung the Germans from several strong points. Narva was reported threatened on four sides.

The drive upon Ostrov was a flanking attack by the Russians cutting south of the Nazi bastion and aiming at the second of three railways by which the Germans might retreat. The first was cut Wednesday when the Pskov-Polotsk line was crossed at several points.

Among the communities reported captured were two, 11 and 12 miles northeast of Ostrov and two rail stations, 15 and 19 miles southeast.

Reach Vitebsk Lines.

The Moscow war bulletin, recorded by the soviet radio monitor, made no mention of the fighting in the Vitebsk sector of White Russia, where yesterday it reported the capture of 30 localities, including four which were 12 miles north, eight miles east, six miles southeast, and seven miles southwest of Vitebsk itself.

Dispatches from Russia, however, said the Vitebsk offensive was still to reach its climax. The Germans' first lines, protecting the almost surrounded city, were reported breached Wednesday.

Fight in Pskov.

Unofficial reports from Moscow said Red troops were fighting in the streets of suburbs around Pskov, and German broadcasts said the battle for the city was entering its decisive phase.

[The German war bulletin said soviet attacks in the Krivoi Rog area of the Dnieper area were "unsuccessful." In the Narva area it said fresh Russian forces were repulsed in hand to hand fighting and in White Russia reported that "break thru attempts" were frustrated.]

TELLS HOW JAPS RAPED CANADIAN CHILD TO DEATH

Father Risks Life to Save 2d Daughter.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 2 (AP).—The rape and murder by Japanese soldiers of an 11-year-old Canadian girl whose father is recovering in Toronto from wounds suffered in protecting another daughter, 7, were described here today by Capt. Lawrence Impey, former Southwest Pacific war correspondent for the London Daily Mail.

The family was not identified.

Addressing a Canadian club luncheon, Impey said rape and butchery had accompanied the progress of Japanese arms since the Manchurian campaign in 1931.

Girl Fatally Assaulted.

He said a Toronto home contained the remnants of the family of a friend repatriated from Singapore on the liner Gripsholm.

"My Toronto friend told me that Japs broke into his apartment when they entered Singapore," Impey said. "They saw his little daughter Dorothy, 11; attacked her in front of her father and raped her to death.

Saves His Younger Daughter.

"The father lunged to protect his 7-year-old daughter. The Japs battered him with rifle butts and he fell wounded across his younger child. The Japs did not molest this girl, who lay under her father's unconscious body."

Impey said he had seen 800 Chinese girls requisitioned by the Japs early in the Manchurian war and later had seen some of their bodies discarded in the snow after each had been attacked by a score or more troops.

NEW CHINA AIR FRONT CRIPPLES JAPS' SHIPPING

FOURTEENTH U. S. AIR FORCE HDQ. IN CHINA, March 2 (AP).—Bombers of the 14th air force, some for the first time completely manned by Chinese for a Chinese-American composite wing, have established a new air front virtually denying the East and South China seas to Japanese shipping.

Japanese cargo ships have been bottled up in harbors or rivers or forced from port to port along tedious Chinese coastal routes under cover of darkness, or have been compelled to skirt Formosa, to the east, where they are more exposed to submarine attack.

Much Done with Little.

A strong element of suicide has been injected into Japanese movements on China's inland waterways as well as at sea. To dissuade the Chinese from working on or traveling on any of these vessels is one of the prime objectives in a psychological warfare being initiated by the 14th air force as an accompaniment to intensified and broadened air attacks.

Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the 14th, is as determined to smash the Japanese shipping within reach of his bombers as he is to "interdict" the Yangtze river, the main artery for the Japanese conquest of China.

Range Farther to Sea.

A young pilot of one of the B-24 Liberators which have been sweeping farther and farther to sea with their bombs put it like this:

"I'm afraid the folks back home have the idea that the sky here is full of American planes. That's one of the results of doing a job like we are doing it."

He is 24 years old, but his face is as lined and tired as that of a much older man. He has about 400 hours of mission flying time. Once a man has learned the peculiarities of combat here, he is counted far too valuable to be relieved after 30 or 40 bombing missions, as he might be in other theaters.

KLATZCO LOSES FIGHT TO QUASH POLICE CHARGES

For the second time, the civil service commission yesterday refused to quash the charges against Louis Klatzco, suspended captain of the Fillmore st. station, who is accused, with eight other captains, of infraction of duties in connection with gambling.

RIPS R. A. F. FOR STEALING GLORY OF CANADIANS

OTTAWA, Ont., March 2 (AP).—Frederic Dorion, Quebec Independent, today asked in the house of commons if there is an "unknown agreement" under which the R. A. F. keeps its standing at the expense of Canadian airmen.

"Why must we furnish the men to do the real fighting when every day, from press dispatches thruout the world, we are told that it is the Britishers who do the job," asked Dorion, who served with the R. A. F. in World War I. "Is this not the best evidence that we are coming back to the status of a colony and accomplishing exactly the wishes of those, who, like Halifax, want the dominions to disappear as independent units?"

Ambassador Halifax last January suggested the British commonwealth should draw closer together so that its units could speak with a common voice in the international sphere and, as a unit, form a world power equal to Russia, the United States, or China.

Japs Restrict Phones to 'Essential Purposes'

New York, March 2 (AP).—The Imperial Rule Assistance association, Japan's totalitarian party, has begun a campaign to round up all telephones now being used for "nonessential" purposes, the Tokio radio said in a domestic broadcast reported today.

ARMY NOW GREAT INVASION FORCE, ASSERTS BRITON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—The British army has been reorganized into the greatest possible striking force for invasion, Minister of War James Grigg stated in the house of commons today. Turning to the far east he said recent fighting in Burma showed that the British forces had profited by the lessons learned in the Arakan campaign of last year.

The war minister revealed that a big switchover recently had taken place in British arms factories. Thousands of workers, he said, had been turned over to aircraft production.

In discussing man power problems he revealed that about 6 per cent of British army men were in a category awaiting discharge or were below the minimum standards for overseas service. Two-thirds of the total strength, he said, represented fighting troops and one-third was needed for servicing.

NIPPON CARRIER BELIEVED SUNK BY BRITISH SUBS

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—British submarines have torpedoed and probably sunk a 7,000 ton Japanese aircraft carrier in the northern approaches to the Strait of Malacca between the Malayan peninsula and Sumatra, the admiralty announced today.

In addition a Japanese cruiser was hit by torpedoes in the same waters, but "counter-measures by the enemy prevented observation of the full results of this engagement," the admiralty said.

Other British submarines sank a medium supply ship by torpedo fire and destroyed a smaller supply ship by gun fire.

Gen. Giles Heads U. S. Forces in Middle East

Ralph Royce as commanding general of all United States forces in the middle east, it was officially announced today. Giles was formerly commanding general of the 9th air force troop carrier command. Royce will leave shortly for another war theater.

M'ARTHUR LANDS MORE TROOPS ON ADMIRALTY ISLE

Yanks Rebuild Air Field for New Advance.

ALLIED HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 3 [Friday]—(AP).—Heavy reënforcements have been landed on Los Negros Island in the Admiralty Islands.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today said the original landing by the dismounted 5th cavalry regiment Tuesday caught the numerically superior Japanese force so completely by surprise that it was "outmaneuvered into dispersed positions" and the reconnaissance in force was "immediately developed into a penetration which is being exploited into complete occupation."

Ready to Press On.

The reënforcements were landed yesterday and were reported ready to push beyond the original beachhead after the first invasion troops had withstood repeated Japanese infiltration and mortar attacks Wednesday night.

The enemy attacks were against the thinly held American perimeter around Momote air field, the 5,000 foot long air strip which was captured shortly after the Tuesday landing at the seaward edge of the air field. Early Wednesday morning the troopers had thrown back a Japanese counter-attack, taking a toll of nearly 100 enemy dead.

The American beachhead is based upon a coral fringed beach at the south end of Hyane harbor, extending about a mile north and south and three-quarters of a mile inland. A few thousand Japanese still hold the rest of the island.

Bombers Support Troops.

In supporting action, bombers not only hit Japanese positions around Momote, but also ranged westward to adjacent Manus Island to strike at sources of reënforcement for the enemy.

Japanese installations and shipping were bombed and strafed also in the Madang and Hollandia areas of New Guinea, at Rabaul, New Britain, and the Duke of York Island near by, and on New Ireland and Bougainville Islands.

[A Tokio broadcast said "an enemy attempt to land on the Admiralty Islands was repulsed by the Japanese defenders" and the "enemy force was entirely wiped out." It added that later the "enemy attempted to land on Manus Island," largest of the Admiralties, and again "suffered heavy losses."]

MAYOR'S WIFE WILL CHRISTEN CRUISER CHICAGO

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of Mayor Kelly, will christen the cruiser Chicago, but the date of its launching has not been announced, James T. Mangan, member of the committee which last year raised $40,000,000 in a bond drive to replace the sunken cruiser, was informed yesterday.

In a letter from the secretary of the navy, Mangan was told the date of launching will not be announced until six days in advance.

CHINESE TROOPS CAPTURE TOWN IN NORTH BURMA

NEW DELHI, India, March 2 (AP).—Chinese troops captured the town of Makaw, north of the Tanai river in northern Burma, and west African forces, driving south in the Kaladan valley, met stiffened Japanese resistance north and northwest of Apaukwa, Adm. Louis Mountbatten announced today.

British troops yesterday stormed Japanese positions east of Htingdaw on the eastern slopes of the Mayu mountain range and killed many of the enemy, a bulletin said. Other allied forces met strong opposition when they attacked enemy positions east of the Kalapanzin river and northeast of Buthedaung. The column which occupied Makaw moved south to take Lamungzup Ga, four and one-half miles away near the Tawang river.

R. A. F. and United States fighters and bombers, ranging over north and south Burma since Monday, attacked Japanese communications, transport, and troop concentrations. Heavy damage was reported and all planes returned to their bases.

V. F. W. TO START DRIVE FOR 1½ MILLIONS APR. 1

Abraham Greenfield, Chicago attorney, has been named chairman of the Illinois campaign by Veterans of Foreign Wars to collect 1½ million dollars for veteran rehabilitation. The drive will be started April 1 and conducted from headquarters at 135 S. La Salle st. CHICAGO ACE IN SOUTH PACIFIC AWARDED D. F. C.

BY LT. WILLIAM K. HOLT, U. S. M. C.

BOUGAINVILLE [Delayed].—Marine Capt. Donald N. Aldrich, whose 20 Jap planes make him one of the leading aces now in action in the South Pacific, recently was awarded the distinguished flying cross for "heroism and extraordinary achievement" in aerial battles over the Solomon Islands last August and September.

The 26 year old airman, who lives at 1408 E. Marquette rd., Chicago, shot down five planes, making him an accredited ace, during the period covered by the citation which accompanied the award.

In one engagement with enemy fighters he was painfully wounded and his plane seriously damaged, but Aldrich remained with his formation and assisted in driving off the enemy planes, bagging one of them to boot.

ARMY BOMBS 4 JAP AIR FIELDS IN MARSHALLS

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Army bombers dumped nearly 80 tons of bombs on four air fields on Japanese-held atolls in the Marshall Islands Tuesday, the navy announced today. The text of the Pacific fleet announcement said:

"Aircraft of the 7th army air force continued to bomb enemy-held positions in the Marshall Islands on Feb. 29 [west longitude date].

"Army Liberator and Mitchell bombers dropped nearly 80 tons of bombs on four air fields, while army Warhawk fighters hit warehouses on one of the islands. Anti-aircraft fire was negligible and none of our planes was damaged."

ALLIES WIPE OUT SALIENT PUSHED INTO ANZIO LINES

Beachhead Situation in Hand, Says Gen. Clark.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, March 2 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, visiting the allied beachhead below Rome after a powerful two day attack by three tank-led German divisions, brought out word tonight that the offensive had been repulsed, that ground lost to the enemy had been regained, and that the beachhead situation was well in hand.

Infantry, artillery, and heavy bombers rolled back the third strong German attack in the 40 days since the Anzio landings.

The allies threw the Germans back with heavy casualties after they had penetrated 1,500 yards—nearly a mile—into the heart of the Anzio defenses.

Gen. Clark spent nearly all of today with his troops in the field, going far forward.

Set for Any Nazi Blows.

Upon his return to 5th army headquarters, Gen. Clark said allied control of the bridgehead is firmly established.

He told the American and British troops on the beachhead that he was confident they could repel any attacks the Nazis might now launch and said the outcome of the battle Tuesday and Wednesday was a setback for the German army.

[Thursday's German war report said the allies at several points broke into "our advanced positions gained on previous days," and described "fluctuating fighting" south and southwest of Cisterna.]

Amid a relative calm that followed the two days and nights of savage fighting, American Liberators and Flying Fortresses swung over the battlefield in clear weather and poured thousands of bombs on concentrations of Nazi troops and gun positions ringing the beachhead.

Road Hub Lost and Regained.

The Germans had struck this time with only about half the force they employed in their costly offensive down the Carroceto-Anzio highway two weeks ago.

Before the American troops and artillery stemmed the Nazi power drive, official reports indicated the enemy overran an important road junction and was shoving down a highway toward Campomorto, only seven miles from the vital allied supply port of Nettuno. The American counter-attack, launched at 7 p. m. Tuesday, regained the junction.

Instead of scattering their fire over the entire beachhead, as on preceding days, the Nazis poured a record barrage on the actual battle area once their attack was under way on a line running roughtly from Isola Bella thru Ponte Rotto to Garibaldi—all south and west of Cisterna.

Allied artillery again played a large part in halting the surge of German men and armor toward the sea. German prisoners, of whom 500 already had been taken, said the heavy casualties inflicted on attacking units by the shells of American and British batteries had been demoralizing.

'Dr.' Churchill's Patient Out of Danger, He Says

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill swung over to medical terminology today to tell the Royal College of Physicians that his "patient"—Britain—was "no longer in mortal danger." He told the physicians that "my patient has reached the stage where restiveness, fretfulness, the impatience of convalescence and weariness of long prolongation of disease—while they do not excite the same anxiety in one's breast—nevertheless require the very full measure of one's personal attention."

Secret Nazi Air Bases in Spain, Says Red Report

SET UP ALLIED AND HOME RULE FOR FREED LANDS

Unit Like AMG Will Administer First.

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—Only Washington, D. C., approval of a proposal submitted by Gen. Charles de Gaulle for governing occupied parts of France was lacking today in the framework of political organization for the invasion of western Europe.

Plans have been approved for military government in The Netherlands, Norway and Belgium.

An unofficial but reliable informant said the French proposals were believed to have been approved by Gen. Eisenhower, supreme invasion commander, and that the British had been awaiting an okay by President Roosevelt for weeks.

An allied unit known in the Mediterranean as AMG has been revamped under the title of "civil affairs for western front operation" and many features of the allied military government to which exiled governments of occupied countries objected have been removed.

The allies quickly reached an agreement with Belgium, the Netherlands and Norway. Under the new plan, AMG officers will go in with invasion troops and take charge of an operations area immediately behind the front. They will be assisted by Dutch, Norwegian or Belgian officers trained in AMG schools.

When an area is far enough behind the front to be no longer in danger of becoming a battle zone, it will be turned over to the Dutch, Belgian or Norwegian military government, as the case may be. The territory will be governed by its own country military .

Should a country be freed entirely and become inoperational, military control would be passed directly back to the civilian government.

The French lack trained officers to take over the military government and desire to move in directly with a civilian organization, equipped to execute purges. The allies objected that this might arouse the populace behind the front and endanger the military position. A compromise was reached along the lines of the other plans.

The French position is complicated politically because the De Gaulle regime never has been given full recognition as a government.

ALLIED AIR ARM PUMMELS NAZIS WITH 1-2 PUNCH

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—A strong force of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacked industrial targets in southwest Germany today with the help of possibly the largest armada of fighters ever dispatched from Britain. Another heavy bomber group blasted a Nazi air field at Chartres, 50 miles southwest of Paris.

Follow Up Stuttgart Blast.

Eighteen German fighters were shot down by the allied escort, but the bombers' bag was not announced. From the day's operations, 11 bombers and three fighters were missing.

The strong assault was the second phase of the one-two punch technique developed by the allied air forces. Exact targets were not announced immediately, but the area was the same as that in which the R. A. F. last night made a 600 bomber assault on Stuttgart with a record low loss of four bombers.

Attack Northern France.

Simultaneously, American Marauder bombers and R. A. F. Typhoon fighter-bombers raided German forward positions in northern France. They met no enemy fighter opposition, tho one Marauder was lost.

Among the Marauders' targets, in addition to the "rocket gun" coast, was a railway center at Amiens, France, where fires were started.

Counting cross-channel assaults, it was estimated that between 2,000 to 3,000 allied planes attacked German targets since the R. A. F. pounded Stuttgart last night.

BRITISH ASSERT THEIR WEAPONS ARE BETTER THAN KIND U. S. MAKES

NEW DELHI, India, March 2 (AP).—Maj. Gen. J. S. Lethbridge, head of a special British mission, told a press conference today that one of the outstanding conclusions of a tour of the Southwest Pacific front was that British weapons were better than American.

"The Australians have tried all weapons belonging to the Americans," he said, "and have gone back to their own. They have found them better. British weapons have been found superior both in quality and adaptability." He asserted British weapons were "foolproof."

His statement was challenged by both British and American correspondents who recalled how eagerly British soldiers and officers had tried to equip themselves with American colt automatics, light carbines, pack equipment, and even American canteens, clothing, and belts.

ARGENTINE CHIEF CALLS FOREIGN POLICY STABLE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 2 (AP).—Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, acting president, today said Argentine foreign policy would not be modified and that close coöperation with the other American republics was an aim of his temporary regime. Farrell, who took over the executive power from President Gen. Pedro Ramirez a week ago in a bloodless coup, indicated he intended to prepare the country for an early election, saying it was only the desire of Argentina's present military leaders that the people should not commit an error in the voting.

Farrell said he is occupying the presidency "only temporarily." He rejected the idea his government intended to change the country's foreign policy, which includes a recent rupture of relations with the axis. He said he intended to guide the country back to constitutional normalcy.

Of Argentine relations with the other American nations, he said: "We have coöperated and will continue to coöperate with America. Nothing or no one will prevent us from carrying out this elemental duty of solidarity with all the other nations of the continent."

It was announced that an exchange of Argentine and German diplomats will be made as soon as possible. No plans have been announced for exchange of diplomats with Japan.

U. S. Casualties in Italy Up to 36,771, Says Stimson

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The latest total of American army casualties in Italy is 36,771. Secretary of War Stimson gave this total today, but explained the figures are two or three weeks tardy. The casualties since the 5th army landed at Salerno last Sept. are 5,061 killed, 21,788 wounded, 9,922 missing.

COMMONS RAGES AT BRITISH ARMY PAY, THEN BALKS

Motion for Increase Is Beaten by 23 Votes.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—By a narrow margin, the government tonight weathered a stormy debate in the house of commons, in which members of all parties demanded a general increase in army pay and allowances.

Only after Foreign Minister Anthony Eden had thrice intervened to defend War Minister James Grigg and promised that the government would reconsider service pay did the members, by 63 to 40 votes, reject a motion for an all-around increase. The margin was the smallest the Churchill government has had on a major issue.

Grigg, who repeatedly was interrupted, refused even to pledge the government to discuss anything beyond the relief of certain hardships. So incensed were some members that three Conservatives announced their intention to vote against the government and a Laborite warned the government that unless it made reasonable concessions it will "get a bigger thrashing" in future by-elections than it has received recently.

Concession Offered.

When the discussion became so turbulent that Grigg was unable to keep the members within bounds, Eden offered concessions, stipulating only that the government would agree to accept the principle that army pay changes should be based on comparisons with American and dominion forces or British industrial wages.

Grigg previously had argued that to bring up the army pay to these levels would increase the risk of inflation, altho some M. P.'s said the average factory worker earns 200 per cent more than a soldier. Others said thousands of soldiers' children are undernourished and must depend on relatives for support.

Army Pay Rates Listed.

Eden agreed some families and service men are forced to live on subsidies and charity, but rejected a suggestion that British army pay standards be raised to the American level.

British army base pay, according to British official sources, is about 80 cents a day, with Australians receiving $2, New Zealanders $1.50, Canadians $1.30, South Africans $1.25, and Americans $1.66.

PUT McCORMICK ESTATE TO USE AS REST HAVEN

Los Angeles, Cal., March 2 [Special].—The 13 acre estate of the late Miss Mary Virginia McCormick of Chicago, a $1,750,000 property at Pacific Palisades near Santa Monica, was taken over today by the war shipping administration as a rest center for merchant seamen.

Possession was assumed upon the filing in United States District court of condemnation proceedings to obtain a lease on the property for the duration of the war plus one year. Under the provisions of the war powers act, the government can take possession of property upon the filing of such proceedings.

The property, which has been vacant since Miss McCormick's death nearly three years ago, includes a group of spacious Mediterranean type buildings overlooking the Pacific ocean. Miss McCormick, who was 80 when she died May 24, 1941, left an estate estimated at nearly 20 million dollars. She was the daughter of the late Cyrus McCormick, the reaper manufacturer, and a sister of Stanley H. McCormick of San Bernardino, Cal., and Mrs. Emmons Blaine of Chicago.

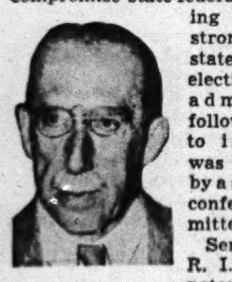
SHARPLY LIMIT USE OF FEDERAL SOLDIER BALLOT

Conferees Also Knock Out Commission Control.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—A compromise state-federal soldier voting plan, so strongly favoring state control of elections that two administration followers refused to indorse it, was voted today by a senate-house conference committee.



Sen. Green.

Sen. Green [D., R. I.], who won notoriety when as governor of Rhode Island he purged the Supreme court of his home state, and Sen. Hatch [D., N. M.] declined to vote for the new service vote plan, altho other federal ballot enthusiasts accepted the compromise.

Sen. Green, piqued over the path the conferees have taken, asserted he hopes the President vetoes the bill if congress approves it. Sen. Hatch said he voted against the conference bill "because it defeats the ends which we sought to accomplish."

Commission Plan Killed.

Yesterday, both Green and Hatch were in apparent agreement with the proposed legislation. Among the changes made in the bill today was abandonment of the war ballot commission idea, which opponents of the original Green-Lucas federal ballot bill warned might be used as an agency to influence the results of the service vote this fall. Neither Green nor Hatch expressed an opinion on the shifting of responsibility for administering the soldier vote from the political commission which the Green-Lucas bill advocated to the heads of the departments of navy, army and the war shipping administration.

Language of the bill was sharply modified today to place even more stringent controls on use of the federal ballot. As the bill stood yesterday the federal ballot could be used by overseas service personnel if they are from states which have absentee voting laws, if they had applied for a state ballot by Sept. 1 and had not received it by Oct. 1, and if the governors from their states had certified the federal ballot as "acceptable."

Certification "by Law."

Today this section was changed to read that the governors must certify that the federal ballot is "authorized by law," which is interpreted by many to mean action by state legislatures, rather than simple gubernatorial certification, would be necessary before federal ballots could be counted.

Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], one of the senate conferees, suggested the change.

Under the terms of the proposal those in military service and associated organizations and in the merchant marine would use state ballots and state absentee voting procedures to cast their votes if they are in the continental United States. Overseas servicemen would be eligible to use the federal ballot if it is approved by their states. If the state from which a soldier comes has an absentee voting law the overseas soldier must first apply for a state ballot and not receive it before he would vote by using the bobtailed no-name federal ballot. If the soldier's home state has no absentee voting law he could vote the federal ballot without applying for a state ballot.

Both Worley and Rankin predicted the bill will be approved by the house. Green and Hatch indicated they are afraid the senate will agree to the changes.

Mary McDonald, cashier, 4805 Walton st.—Eight months ago I borrowed a serving tray from my sister-in-law. Right after I used it I wrapped it up and put it on a shelf in the hall so I'd be sure to see it on my way out. I've seen her hundreds of times but always forget the tray.

Keith La Gesse, apprentice seaman, V-12, Chippewa Falls, Wis.—One of my buddies let me use one of his extra duffel bags. It has his initials on it and I've been using it for so long I hardly know my own initials. I should return it and intend to as soon as I get an extra one.

Dorothy Christensen, secretary, Neenah, Wis.—There was a time when I used to borrow books from people, but I quit it because it was too much work to return them. The same is true of the borrowed sheet music I have, but I do it anyway. I put it up on a shelf with the rest of the music and it is never returned.

Mrs. Judson A. Suber, housewife, Henderson, Tex.—I keep my husband busy buying combs for himself. He always puts them on the shelf in the bathroom and when I use them I absentmindedly put them in my purse and forget about them. It's easier for him to buy new ones than to get me to remember to return them.

Martha Putzy, student, 1535 S. Sawyer av.—Quite a while ago I borrowed a compact from a friend. I just wanted to use the mirror. She didn't wait for me to return it that day and since then I've used most of the powder in it. Rather than return it now I think it would be more polite to buy her a new one.

Court Issues Attachment for Horace G. Lindheimer

Judge John Prystalski in Circuit court yesterday issued an attachment for Horace G. Lindheimer, former county treasurer, for failure to comply fully with a $2,688 judgment. The judgment is held by Herbert S. Freehling, 30, an army sergeant now in Colorado, as the result of loans made by Freehling to Lindheimer in 1942. A confession of judgment was obtained March 29, 1943. The attachment order empowers the sheriff to detain Lindheimer for the purpose of producing him in court.

OWI HEAD TELLS HOW BRITISH GOT 4TH TERM STORY

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Director Elmer Davis of the office of war information today said the British United Press was the news agency which sent abroad a story that a $50,000,000 fund was being raised in the United States to defeat President Roosevelt for reëlection to a fourth term.

Davis identified the agency in a letter to Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], who had characterized the story as "obvious propaganda." The story, which Davis said was sent from the United States and first printed in English newspapers, later was picked up and reproduced in a news pamphlet distributed to American troops arriving in England.

Davis Explains.

The OWI previously said that was done by a local editor without the knowledge of the British ministry of information, and that its reproduction was a "mistake" in judgment on the part of the editor.

"I am informed that the agency which sent the news story about the alleged raising of 50 million dollars to defeat the President, should he run for another term, was the British United Press," Davis wrote Byrd.

"As for your question 'whether the OWI approved sending this dispatch abroad,' I am a little at a loss to understand it. We have, of course, no right to approve or disapprove any dispatches sent abroad by news agencies, nor do we in ordinary course have any knowledge of their contents until they are seen in print by our officers overseas."

Not Credited in Tabloid.

An Associated Press dispatch from London on Feb. 19 said that the following dispatch, not credited to any source, had appeared in a recent issue of a four page tabloid newspaper distributed by the British ministry of information to American troops at ports of arrival:

"Roosevelt's opponents are ready to spend $50,000,000 [12,500,000 pounds] to beat him if—as they assume—he makes a fourth term bid for President at the November elections."

Virtually the same story was published in the London Daily Express of Jan. 30, without date line but containing this phrase in its second paragraph, "says the British United Press from Washington."

Oh, Yeah?

BRITAIN ALOOF IN U.S. ELECTION, SAYS MINISTER

[By Wireless to the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 2.—The British government is not and has no intention of supporting any party in American politics, and stories purporting to show that British officials are interfering in the forthcoming United States Presidential election are "ludicrous nonsense," Brendan Bracken, minister of information, told American correspondents today.

Bracken said that nobody who was not determined to make trouble between the United States and Britain could possibly have interpreted the remarks in the recent ministry of information publication handed to American troops as "interference" in the American election.

This particular story, telling of a group of American who supposedly were raising a fund of 50 million dollars to defeat President Roosevelt in the election, had been put out by United Press, an American agency, and it was very curious, he concluded, that publication of such an article should be interpreted as interference in the election.

IT'S TELEVISION

HERE'S WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT TELEVISION ENTERTAINMENT

William H. Grubbs, Gunner's Mate, 2nd Class, says, "It's a big thrill to see sports televised. And I go for cartoons and all movies, too."

Bringing Cheering Entertainment Right into Army and Navy Convalescent Hospitals

ONE of the most thrilling and inspiring demonstrations of television is going on in the New York Metropolitan area. In all of the seven Army and Navy convalescent hospitals, sick and wounded service men are enjoying motion picture films, animated cartoons and newsreels, as well as "live" visual entertainment—thanks to 55 television receivers donated, installed and serviced by NBC, General Electric and Radio Corporation of America.

TELEVISION IS ON THE MARCH

Since the first of the year television homes in the New York area have been enjoying outstanding television entertainment seven nights a week. Regular network television reaches four states at frequent intervals: New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

These programs originate at the National Broadcasting Company in New York, and are relayed for simultaneous telecasting to the General Electric transmitter in Schenectady and the Philco transmitter in Philadelphia.

Currently, NBC is televising sports events from Madison Square Garden. Thousands have thrilled to exciting news telecasts, such as the recent showing of the U. S. Marine Corps films of the landing on Tarawa.

When this war is won, Radio Corporation of America will be in the forefront, as it has been from the start, working to bring television to the nation as a whole. This means building the finest of television receivers at a price you can afford. It means, also, building the finest of television transmitting equipment, a broadcasting field in which RCA has always excelled.

FM—STATIC-FREE RECEPTION

In both television and FM much scientific progress has been made in the application of radio in the war. Even now FM carries the sound part of television. The RCA home instrument of the future—whether radio, phonograph or television receiver—will incorporate the famous RCA-developed FM Radio Circuit.

EDUCATORS HIT HUTCHINS IDEA OF ENDING RANK

Other Schools Quick to Resent Suggestion.

President Robert M. Hutchins' proposal to abolish academic rank among members of the University of Chicago faculty was assailed yesterday by several faculty men of other Chicagoland universities as "a crackpot idea," "without merit," and "destructive of the initiative of young college instructors."

The Rev. Father Edward J. Kammer, dean of the downtown college of liberal arts of De Paul university, asked, "In what way will the University of Chicago honor those members of its faculty who attain special achievements, after it has abolished academic rank?"

Addressed to Own Faculty.

The comments resulted from a letter President Hutchins sent to members of the University of Chicago faculty proposing, in the most radical of three suggested plans, the abolition of academic distinction among professors, associate professors, assistant professors, and instructors.

Without effect on tenure of appointment or salary, the Hutchins proposal simply would designate a member of the teaching or research staff as a "member of the faculty of the University of Chicago," with possibly the added departmental classification.

The "crackpot idea" label on the proposal came from Prof. Ward V. Evans, chairman of the department of chemistry at Northwestern university.

Twenty Years to Get There.

"I am definitely averse to the idea," he said. "It takes a man nearly 20 years to become a professor, and I believe his attainments should be recognized. There certainly is a big difference in the achievements of a professor and those of an instructor. That difference should be recognized."

Prof. Edwin Place, head of the department of Romance languages at Northwestern, envisioned a "resulting chaos" in the faculty setup inevitable from application of Hutchins' proposal, "much as the kind of a chaos which would result in a business organization if the distinguishing titles between executives and the rank and file of employes were removed." He saw "no merit" in the idea.

Characterizing Hutchins' plans as "destructive of initiative," Dr. D. Herbert Abel, associate professor in the department of classical languages at Loyola university, said that the rank system stimulated younger instructors to research.

Packer Pays OPA $96,025 for Beef Overcharges

The regional office of price administration has received a check for $96,025 from the Empire Packing company, 3840 Emerald av., in satisfaction of a judgment for triple damages entered against the firm Jan. 17 by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, it was disclosed yesterday. Alex Elson, regional OPA attorney, said the amount was the largest collected in a contested action under the emergency price control act. The judgment was based on over ceiling price sales of beef.

HIGHER LIVING COSTS BRING WAR TO IRISH HOMES

Clothing Prices Are Nearly Doubled.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 2.—Altho Ireland has managed to stay out of the war, the effects of the conflict raging all around her have been felt in a sharply rising cost of living.

Much of the increase is due to the inability to import from Britain, which itself has a shortage of many essential commodities.

Fuel and Light Cost More.

Fuel and light, both of which formerly came from Britain in the form of coal and kerosene for use in the rural districts, are estimated 80 per cent higher. In an attempt to keep the price of these necessities down the government has frozen the price of peat, which now largely replaces coal for domestic use, as well as firewood and kerosene.

Food prices are up about 65 per cent, but food is plentiful and is unrationed with the exception of a few items, such as sugar and tea. The ration on tea is to be reduced from three-quarters of an ounce a week to half an ounce.

Tea Is Basis of Meals.

For the first time East African tea is to be imported to supplement the India ration, but because of its different taste it is not expected to prove very satisfactory. Tea is an important item to the Irish since the poor live largely on tea, bread, and potatoes, meat being too expensive.

Shortage of material brought about rationing of clothing, but the allowance is fairly adequate. High prices, however, restrict purchases. Altho Britain recently has eliminated "austerity" styles, they remain here and a new order by the minister of supply prohibits the conversion of blankets or rugs into articles of clothing.

Few Commodities Rationed.

Retail prices are fixed for only a limited range of commodities. In addition to fuel and kerosene, the list includes candles, gasoline, washing soda, tobacco, cigarets, matches, timber, perambulators, and dry batteries.

On the official government index the cost of living has risen from 173 in August, 1939, to 274 in November, 1943.

Meanwhile, wages have been more extensively controled. Since 1941 an increase of only $2 a week has been permitted until recently when bonuses of $1 to $2 a week were allowed in addition. The increase is estimated to affect 300,000 workers at a cost of $4,000,000 a year to their employers.

INDUSTRY OPENS BATTLE TO STOP ICKES' OIL LINE

Arabian Project Branded Unfair, Dangerous.

Post-War Fight Predicted.

Zook said the Arabian pipe line will increase middle eastern oil production from 400,000 barrels a day to more than 1 million barrels, resulting in a post-war competition with American produced oil which will depress domestic prices. He said the government is willing to expend 400,000 tons of steel for the pipe line but refuses to allow steel to American oil producers to develop new domestic sources of petroleum.

War council leaders asserted the Arabian pipe line "serves no useful purpose" in the war and is commercially impractical. They said that if the line were commercially wise, the three private companies which have agreed to build and operate it would have built it with their own funds.

The council noted that the PRC, which is completing the final draft of the contract with the three companies, has extracted an agreement covering 50 years and a guarantee that they will sell oil to the government at 25 per cent below prevailing prices. The three companies are Standard Oil company of California, Gulf Oil corporation, and the Texas company. Representatives of these companies on the PIWC did not vote on the resolution yesterday condemning the pipe line project.

Ickes Fails to Win Over.

Ickes at his press conference asserted there is no breach between him and the council on general oil policy but that the council does not see "eye to eye with him on the pipe line project. He said he explained the need of the pipe line to the council but was unable to win approval from the council. The project, he said, has the support of the joint chiefs of staff, the army, navy, and state department.

Replying to sharp criticism of the pipe line venture by James A. Moffett, former executive vice president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, Ickes castigated Moffett as a "playboy whom it is difficult to take seriously."

Moffett had branded the pipe line "an unjustified venture in burocracy" and had derided Ickes as a "superman." Ickes devoted several minutes of his press conference to lecturing on Moffett, whom he accused of spiteful motives. Ickes recalled that he had refused to give Moffett a post on his staff and said Moffett was "very angry."

"Moffett didn't rate a second or third grade job on my staff," Ickes said. "He has inherited his jobs thru his father, who was an original Rockefeller man."

Has "Post-War Value."

Asked what benefit the Arabian pipe line would have if the European war ends this year, as some observers have predicted, Ickes said he did not know when the war would end but that it would have value as a "war and post-war project." He countered suggestions that the Arabian oil could be moved by tanker with the reminder that "submarines can't sink pipe lines."

He said he did not know about future competition of Arabian oil with American products. He sidestepped a question about the value of transporting the oil by pipe line from the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean, which is controled by the British at the Suez canal and at Gibraltar.

Ickes contended the Arabian pipe line would not take the government into the oil business, and observed that the line is merely a transportation facility such as government built highways and the Panama canal.

Asked about other projects reported under consideration by PRC, of which he is president, Ickes said he knew of none.

OWI TO IDENTIFY CANDIDATES IN OVERSEAS NEWS

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Director Elmer Davis has instructed the overseas staff of the office of war information to identify Presidential candidates as such in OWI news dispatches distributed abroad. Davis told his staff to present the United States political scene as "objectively and factually as possible."

A spokesman said OWI hoped to prevent a repetition of the controversy involving Gov. Bricker, announced Republican candidate for the Presidency, in a recent broadcast in which he was identified simply as a "prominent Republican" and "governor of Ohio.'

Hereafter the status of Presidential possibilities will be described as accurately as possible, Davis said. The most recent OWI dispatch about Bricker identified him as "governor of Ohio and candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination."

Gov. Dewey of New York has been mentioned by OWI as the "Republican governor of New York state whose candidacy for the Republican nomination for President is being pushed by many supporters."

CHICAGO TAXICAB OPERATORS HAVE KEPT FAITH WITH THE PEOPLE OF CHICAGO!

For the past 17 months—despite war-time conditions—the people of Chicago have been, and right now are, enjoying the best possible and cheapest taxicab service in the history of Chicago!

Those who have occasionally experienced delay and disappointment with taxicab service may scoff at this startling statement, but the following facts and figures convincingly prove its truth.

Immediately after the declaration of war with its attendant compulsory and drastic operating restrictions and limitations on the use of rubber borne vehicles, Chicago taxicab transportation faced a struggle for its very existence. This situation was further complicated by the necessity of providing taxicab transportation for the many tens of thousands of war-workers, and those others who then were compelled to give up the use of personal cars.

After careful, intensive study of this serious problem, YELLOW CAB COMPANY OF CHICAGO and CHECKER TAXI COMPANY OF CHICAGO jointly created their now famous "Rationed Mileage Plan," and with the advice and approval of the local Office of Defense Transportation and Area Office of Price Administration, put it in operation September 1, 1942. This plan, supplemented by Educational Conservation programs, the promotion of Group Riding, and increased operating efficiency, has resulted in increased total passenger service at lower cost to the public—despite higher operating costs and critical man-power difficulties.

(Note: The pre-war calendar year 1941 has been taken as the basis for comparison.)

Increase	None	5,234,023 —decrease	3,869,315	14,468,269	7.47c or 17.73% —decrease per trip

Reduced to simplest terms, these figures show that YELLOW CAB COMPANY OF CHICAGO and CHECKER TAXI COMPANY OF CHICAGO in the calendar year 1943, as compared with the pre-war calendar year 1941, operating the same total number of cabs:

1. Decreased total mileage—5,234,023;
2. Increased total passenger trips—3,869,315;
3. Increased number of passengers carried—14,468,269;
4. Decreased fare to all passengers an average of 7.47c or 17.73% per trip.

Truly a splendid record of achievement by both taxicab operating companies, proving convincingly that

CHICAGO TAXICAB OPERATORS HAVE KEPT FAITH WITH THE PEOPLE OF CHICAGO!

However, it is true there have been many times when taxicab service—no matter how urgent—has not been available. Under prevailing conditions, little can be further done to remedy this situation; but the fine record of a vastly increased volume and safe service is offered in explanation.

We have taken every precaution and effort to prevent over-charging of group-riding passengers by drivers. So far there have been 98 suspensions and dismissals for infraction of overcharges, refusal to accept passengers, etc.

Considering the total number of passengers carried in 1943—39,535,899—and the number of drivers involved, the percentage of derelictions, although regrettable, is infinitesimal.

Chicago taxicab drivers are the best and safest in the country; are law-abiding, industrious, patriotic citizens—all desirous of doing everything they can to aid the war effort.

As a group they have up to now subscribed for a total of $1,124,761.00 in War Bonds—with practically no redemptions—a worthy record of which they can well be proud.

This, then, is our combined statement of facts and figures, which should convince even the occasional skeptic that Chicago's taxicab operating companies have not failed in their duty to the people of Chicago!

We unreservedly pledge all our resources, our facilities, and our unremitting efforts to the end that the people of Chicago shall enjoy, so far as is possible under war-time conditions, "the best taxicab service in the country!"

FOUNDED JUNE 10, 1847

MR. ROOSEVELT'S LOSS OF FACE.

It seems to have been accidental that Mr. Roosevelt was in retreat for relaxation and contemplation when Sen. Barkley split the blue. He had not run away from an expected explosion on the hill. He had done what he thought was a good job on his veto of the tax bill. He had accused congress of serving the greedy against the needy. He had implied that congress was protecting ill gotten gains and was the tool of special interests. This could be regarded as excellent fourth term provender for the masses, vitamins for their class consciousness.

The fourth term candidate had brushed the tax crust off his sleeve with disdain. He had reprimanded the legislators for illiteracy, as well as evil intent. Then, as a superior man, he had gone to take his ease. Altho the eastern seaboard no longer watches for Nazi bombers and no longer has alerts or moves about in the blackout, Mr. Roosevelt's movements are military secrets. If he is not in the White House he must be somewhere in the United States unless he is somewhere in Africa or Asia. These withdrawals give an Obersalzburg relief to the open frugality of the democratic life and replenish the dreams of greatness.

Wherever Mr. Roosevelt was on Feb. 23, the roof fell on him. For the first time the three term tenant quickly and openly repented and regretted one of his domineering attacks on the integrity of the person or persons who had disagreed with him or opposed him. A panicky side of the New Deal autocrat was revealed. He had never shown that before. He had always carried himself jauntily. Mr. Barkley had not been regarded as a particularly formidable person. He had been biddable and amiable. Nevertheless, he was the first person in three terms to throw Mr. Roosevelt into a publicly disclosed confusion.

Mr. Wilson, another autocrat, would have dismissed the erring servant with scorn and have closed the door to him forever. Mr. Roosevelt might have done better to follow his former chief's example. Instead of maintaining his position he deserted it. If he had been justified in what he said of the tax bill and of the congress which passed it, Barkley's resentment and the attitude of the senator's associates would not have made him weaken and try to placate the men he had offended so needlessly.

Mr. Roosevelt has made it a rule to denounce all opposition to him as unprincipled. The habit was congenial and it has grown on him. It may have seemed to him that this was the secret of political success. He has used the method in his messages to congress, in his public statements, and in his comments to the White House reporters. As President he has enjoyed a great advantage in such argument. He was privileged to adopt a tone and use words which men in controversy with him, in public debate, refrained from using. He has frequently abused the immunity his office gives him even in a political campaign.

When Barkley, of all persons, replied to him almost in kind, his momentary fears revealed, in a flash, his real timidity. Apparently he thought he had endangered his fourth term prospects. And, apparently, there was no one at hand to restrain him from reaching at once for an apology which would put his veto message in the light of an ill tempered bit of injured personal egotism. A great deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt thus came to light before he could take a second thought. On second thought, when it was too late, he recovered his poise and the White House reporters who sought him out wherever he was in retirement were given to understand that they had exceeded their privileges in approaching his quarters.

It has been an illuminating episode. Mr. Roosevelt created a situation and then met its consequences with little courage or dignity. He was outrageous. Congress called him. He wilted. Recovery from such a predicament is not easy. He confessed a fright and in his fright tried to square things with men he had said were callous to the national needs, had done the work of selfish interests, and were so ignorant that people could not understand what they had written. Mr. Roosevelt will need building up after that experience.

This might be a good time for another conference overseas somewhere.

A NEW FUTURE FOR THE 8:07.

America's suburban railroads have come back into their own because of war time restrictions on the use of private automobiles. The parking lots beside the railroad stations in the outlying towns and villages are packed with cars. The average driver's A card barely permits him the luxury of driving to and from the station five or six days a week whereas in pre-war days he drove to and from the city every day.

Thus, the suburban railroads have regained the business the automobile took away from them. Their post-war problem is to keep that business.

New and modern equipment is the answer. Quick starting diesel units will trim many minutes off suburban schedules and the lightweight, easy riding luxury coaches developed for transcontinental streamliners will add a comfort factor that will discourage a return to the family bus when gas and tires become plentiful. Expanded use of the skip-stop system now employed on a good many suburban lines also will help. Thru this method more trains are run, making fewer stops, and every station along the line benefits from faster service.

The railroads are making the money now that they will need tomorrow for fast, modern equipment. Congress and the government should encourage them to keep that money in trust for post-war expansion and not allow all of it to be drained away in dividends or taxes.

To keep the suburban business, the railroads will have to get their new equipment on order long before the end of the war and will have to get it delivered before an unlimited supply of automobiles again is available. They cannot do this on credit alone and they cannot do it under the reactionary management that kept the old, fly-specked, 1890 vintage coaches rolling in daily service up to the start of the war.

ALLIES.

The attention of the American people of late has been directed toward the war in the Pacific because of the dramatic events which have occurred there, but in truth Americans are fighting on every front. Our ships and the vast quantity of food and war materials they have carried to Murmansk and the Persian gulf have kept the Russians in the war. Our airmen in England are making their very large contribution to the softening up of Germany. Our soldiers in Italy have borne the brunt of the action. Our factories are turning out most of the munitions. Our farms are providing most of the food. Our shipyards are assembling most of the ships. Our mines are producing most of the metals and our wells most of the oil that are being consumed in the war.

We wish we could say that our allies are each making a proportionate contribution. The British have a lot of highly trained troops that might be thrown into the Italian campaign to turn the tide, but have chosen not to employ them there. There is no conscription for foreign service in Canada and Australian troops under dominion law will not be available for fighting outside the territory of immediate interest to Australia; they cannot be used, for instance, in the Philippines. Canadians no longer have to bother with meat rationing, but it remains in this country.

Presumably the Russians are sparing no efforts in their war against Hitler, but they have withheld the help they could have given us against Japan by providing us with bases on the Pacific. Within the limits imposed by their situation the Poles have made a large contribution; they have two divisions now engaged in Italy.

Perhaps other exceptions might be noted and perhaps there are extenuations, but in general it cannot be doubted that America is carrying a greatly disproportionate share of the whole load of the war. It is time that the people with whom we are allied accepted a full share of the responsibilities of allies.

WINNING THE WAR (HIC) IN CLEVELAND.

Leonard Adelman runs a gin mill conveniently close to the back door of the war production board's regional office in Cleveland. It must be quite a classy joint by now, since Adelman, with the belated blessing of the WPB, is finishing up a $3,400 remodeling program.

The limit on such construction without WPB permission is $200. Adelman went ahead without that permission. Only when the WPB sent a warning to his contractor did he apply for a permit. The permit was denied. He then took an appeal, and was granted the permission he sought.

WPB officials may have been unable to give their full attention to the proprietor of the neighborhood oasis because of their preoccupation with the case of Charles M. Ingersöll, owner of a war plant. The limit on war plant additions without WPB permission is $5,000 worth of construction, 25 times that allowed Adelman under the same regulations. Ingersoll started such an addition and when all the bills came in it had cost him $7,200. Altho he had exceeded the WPB limitation by $1,000 less than had Adelman, and had done so to enlarge war production facilities, the WPB took him into federal court and succeeded in having a $200 fine imposed on him.

There's nothing the WPB boys down in Cleveland won't do to help win the war. Get's them all tired out by the end of the day, probably. Nothing like a nice shiny night club to boost civilian morale.

60 EXCITING YEARS.

Mr. Frank Granger Huntress, president and publisher of the San Antonio Express and Evening News, is about to complete 60 years of continuous service with his newspaper. He started there as a newsboy and has worked his way to the top. His colleagues of the Texas Publishers' association paid homage to him at their recent convention and their sentiments are shared by all who know how much Mr. Huntress has done for his city, his state, and his country.

He is a man to be envied. He has been in the newspaper business in what must have been the most interesting 60 years that the profession has known. In his working lifetime the population of his city has grown from fewer than 40,000 to a quarter of a million. He has seen, and to some extent guided, the transformations worked by the telephone, the electric light, the automobile, the airplane, the radio, the X-ray, and a hundred other revolutionary inventions. He has known the biggest wars and the biggest depression. It hasn't been easy to find quiet in the midst of all these excitements, but what newspaper man, if given his choice, would select one of the serene eras of history as his own?

Henry Wallace claims his political future is in the lap of the gods—a very queer term for Harry Hopkins, Jimmy Byrnes, Dave Niles, et al.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Another name for the so-called simplified tax blank is the shorter catechism.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Test Your Horse Sense
By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 18.

1. Florida would be described by which one of these terms?
   Isthmus Strait Peninsula Jetty.
2. Orange Pekoe should make one think of a
   Pigment Fabric Beverage Musical instrument.
3. Which one of these bills is often regarded as unlucky? $1 $2 $5 $10.
4. The word "yen" should remind you of the monetary system of Russia Japan Germany France.
5. The adjective "red" should make one think of which tree?
   Oak Sycamore Hickory Pine.
6. Here is a True-False problem in which you are to encircle the letter T in front of a statement if you consider it true, or the letter F if you think it is false. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.
   T F [a] Cold air will hold more moisture than will warm air.
   T F [b] The amount of oxygen in the air is about one-fifth.

FOOTNOTE TO MacARTHUR.

"What are the Admiralty Islands famous for?" asked Files-on-Parade on reading Gen. MacArthur's stirring report of the invasion of that archipelago. This time the biological sciences get the nod, for it seems that the first landing of Europeans on the Admiralties was from the Challenger, cruising as a marine laboratory, in 1875. The "Challenger Report," covering almost four years of scientific study of the Seven Seas, runs to 50 volumes and forms a classic to which every biologist takes off his hat.

* * *

The Challenger was a wooden corvette of 2,036 tons, commissioned for investigations in oceanography and marine biology by the British admiralty. [Hence the name of these islands, perhaps.] She crossed the Atlantic several times; was the first steamship to cruise into the Antarctic, and ranged all over in the Pacific. Her reports were published in London from 1880 to 1895, chiefly under the direction of John Murray, who had been a member of the ship's scientific staff. The Challenger's captain was George Nares, afterward active in arctic exploration on other ships. Robert Louis Stevenson seems to have named the sea captain in his novel, "The Wrecker," in honor of Nares.

* * *

H. G. Wells writes in "The Science of Life": "The three and a half years' expedition of the British ship Challenger [1872-'76] is the classic piece of ocean exploration; it laid the foundations of the science of oceanography which many other expeditions have since expanded and elaborated. . . . The inhabitants of the deep sea were to all intents and purposes unknown until the voyage of H. M. S. Challenger. One of its objects was to discover the primitive ancestral forms of life which were suspected at that time to be lurking in the depths. This expectation was unrealized."

MARCH, THE JUGGLER.

March is a juggler, full of tricks
And laughing in his sleeve
To see how he can fool us all,
How much we will believe!
He likes to come with lion's roar
And blizzard's cold and snow,
And when we're shivering in our shoes,
Out like a lamb he'll go!

But spite of icy winds and sleet,
We know that safe and warm
In hidden pockets he protects
The little seeds from harm;
The snow he sends gives drink to them,
And when the sun shines bright
They venture out to see the world,
After their winter's night.

So March becomes the reveille
That wakes up half the world,
And starts it on its way to work
Till autumn's flags are furled!

THE INCREDIBLE ICHNEUMON.
(A Brookfield Ballad.)

Unsung, unseen, the ichneumon
Is Egypt's strangest paragon!
The only thing his mind beguiles
Is smashing eggs of crocodiles.
He doesn't eat them, once they're broke,
And tho it may sound like a joke,
We're fortunate he boasts such ways
For else the earth that meets our gaze
Would be o'errun with endless piles
Of big and little crocodiles!
So do your job as best you can,
It fills some place in nature's plan.

"I was a smarter Fuehrer than you," boasted Hitler, "because I successfully detached most of my troops from the enemy, while the enemy detached most of your army from you."

"No, no," replied Napoleon, "I was the better general because after I was chased out by the Russians I took another crack at them at Leipzig, but when you were kicked out there was no longer any Leipzig." Maxellus.

BERIBERI, A DEFICIENCY DISORDER.

OUR interest in tropical diseases has been stimulated by the presence of our armed forces in regions where numerous strange maladies abound. There is a goodly amount of curiosity about malaria with which we have long been familiar, but leprosy, plague, beriberi, and parasitic infections now claim our attention.

Natives of the orient have long exhibited a type of food deficiency caused by lack of vitamin B1 [thiamin]. As a rule, this particular ingredient is not the only missing factor. While it is the chief culprit there are other dietary failures which complicate the picture.

All rice eating people are afflicted, especially if the grain is polished. This process deprives the kernel of its outer coat, which contains B. The system needs this accessory for the digestion and absorption of starches and sugars. If these foodstuffs cannot be utilized both the nerves and the heart will suffer. A true neuritis [inflammation of a nerve fiber] is accompanied by degeneration. If this is extensive, paralysis will ensue. In like fashion, the heart muscle is weakened and in consequence the lower right chamber becomes enlarged. Thus the organ cannot function as it should because it is unable to pump blood with its accustomed power. Then it is that the liver swells and fluid accumulates.

There are two forms of the disorder, the dry and the wet. At the outset, the patient may complain of numbness of the lips, fingertips, and feet. Cramps in the legs and the well known "pins-and-needles" sensation may appear. As the ailment progresses, walking becomes difficult. A few will be unable to get about. The muscles at the base of the thumb and in certain other areas will show tenderness and wasting. In severe cases there is marked foot and wrist drop, with inability to extend the parts. In other words, if the extremity is allowed to hang down it can only be restored to a horizontal position after considerable effort, and then awkwardly.

This disease is not unknown in this country, and its victims will usually give a history of inadequate diet or perhaps such a finicky appetite that a balanced regime is not followed. Occasionally the condition will accompany pregnancy and, where excessive vomiting is experienced, nutriment must be supplied soon after the stomach has rejected its contents.

The wet form is usually not acute. A mild fever may be accompanied by signs of heart failure—shortness of breath, cyanosis [blueness], and rapid breathing.

Relief comes with the reëstablishment of nutrition by means of generous feedings with a carefully worked out schedule of vitamins and minerals. More carbohydrates [starches and sugars] are prescribed in an effort to replace the loss. At the same time, proteins and fats will be demanded. Fortunately, thiamin can be given by mouth or, when needed, it may be injected directly into a vein.

Electrical stimulation of impaired muscles will also be of value but only in the event that paralysis has begun. In the wet variety the patient should obtain complete bed rest, as the slightest exertion may lead to heart complications.

While our soldiers have been supplied with adequate rations, there may be times when proper edibles will not be available. But beriberi cannot exist in a community where every one is sensible enough to follow a balanced dietary program.

RINGWORM OF SCALP.

F. M. writes: My son has had ringworm on the head for eight months. I have tried every type of treatment, but it remains. How long does it take to get rid of this disease?

REPLY.

A fungus growing in this locality is tenacious and long lived. Treatment must be persistent and effective. Months may be required to complete the cure. Perhaps you need the help of an expert.

VISCERA COVERING.

R. S. writes: What is the difference between the peritoneum and peritonitis?

REPLY.

The peritoneum is the membrane which lines the abdominal cavity and covers the loops of the bowel. Inflammation of this structure is peritonitis.

To safeguard the patriotic volunteer. As a rule, the donor is acceptable unless the pressure exceeds 200 systolic.

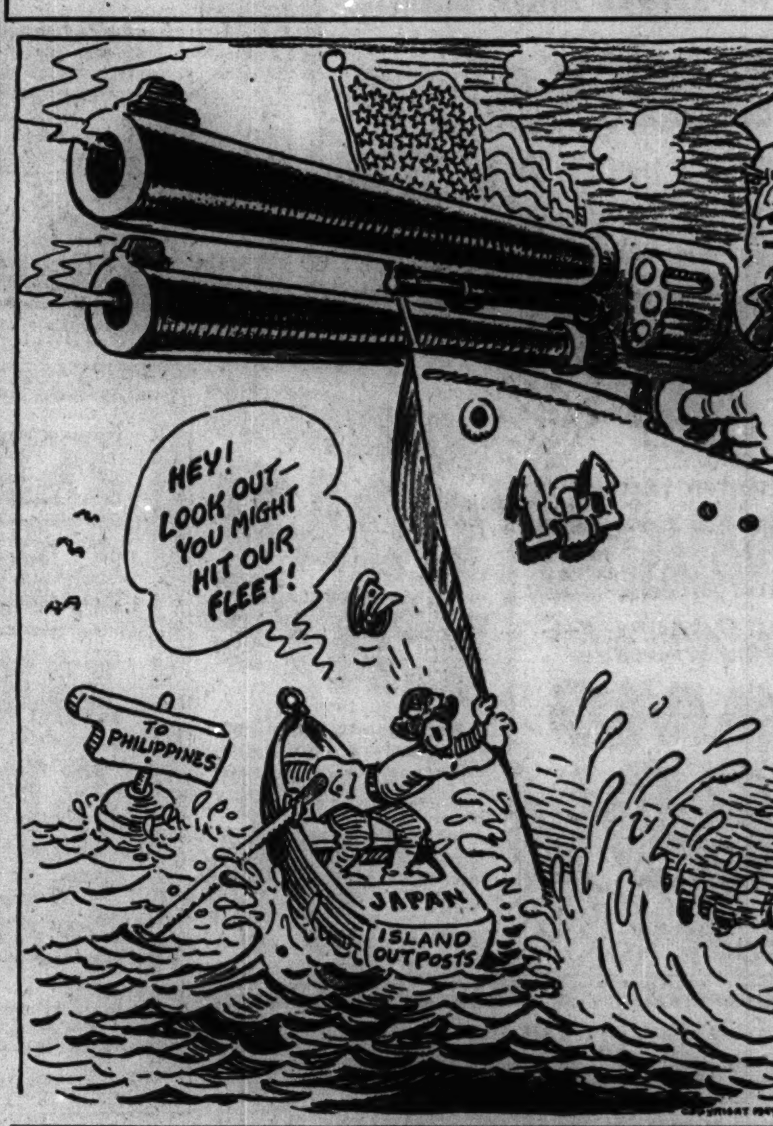
RAISING HIS SIGHTS



Front Views & Profiles
By MARCIA WINN

Motherhood.

One of the earnest young mothers in the club was telling how she had endeavored to present the Facts to her 7 year old son. A neighbor had had a baby at the village hospital the previous week, and she thought it a good opportunity to go into the matter with Sonny. She explained how the neighbor had known for a long time that a baby was coming. On the day when she knew the baby was to arrive, her husband was out of town. She was afraid to call a taxi for fear it would get stuck in the snowdrifts, so she called the police car, for it was always equipped with chains. A kind policeman then took her to the hospital, where the baby was born. About this time Sonny began squirming on his chair, and the earnest young mother knew a question was imminent. "Can I ask just one question, mom?" he pleaded. Offering up a silent prayer for guidance, she nodded her assent. "Why is it, mom," he demanded, "that police cars always have chains?"

Religious Note.

"Holy, Holy, Holy" has not been sung in a Swedish church on Chicago's north side since a lumbering Swede from Minnesota entered the church one Sunday as the choir was singing the processional.

"I like the church very much," he later told friends. "When I came in, they all called my name: Ole, Ole, Ole."

Soon the story had made the rounds of the congregation, causing such delight that whenever the hymn was announced thereafter the worshipers looked at one another with suppressed laughter, finally reaching near-hysteria. The minister in desperation has banned it.

Total War.

The girl got off the train at the La Salle Street station, hopped in a cab, and told the driver to take her to the Union station. The driver turned around and regarded her brightly. "Here for long?" he asked. "Just two hours between trains," she told him. "Like to drive around and see the city?" he asked. "Why . . ." she hesitated. "No extra charge, miss," he added hurriedly. "All I want you to do is just sit tight in that back seat. Then when people try and stop to get me to take them on one of those five mile hauls to the north or south side I'll say, 'Got a customer, see?'" The girl, enraptured, consented. She had a wonderful time and was returned to the Union station 10 minutes before train time. Fare: 60 cents.

Well, Well!

The church bulletin of the Glencoe Union church contained a list of baptisms during the week. One was listed as:

"The little sin of Mr. and Mrs. ——."

Learning.

A scout, D. D. B., stationed at Seymour Johnson field in North Carolina, noticed that the word "handkerchiefs" was misspelled on a card at a display counter in the post exchange. He called this to the clerk's attention. The next day a new card appeared—"Hankies."

Locomotion.

Alberita Semrad waited for the elevator on the third floor of the storage warehouse. Beside her, casually licking its fur into satin, stood a tortoise shell cat. When the elevator door opened the cat stalked daintily in before her. "Modern," the operator offered in explanation. "She won't walk up the stairs, and she won't walk down. Waits for the elevator both ways."

CENSORING TELEGRAMS.

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 27.—The other day I sent a telegram to Sen. Barkley and the Western Union refused to send it. I had to take it up with two of their officials before they would send it, and then I had to remove three words from my telegram before they would consent.

My telegram read: "Congratulations on having extricated yourself from the evil, domineering, and bewitching influence of Franklin Roosevelt."

Finally, after several amputations, the telegram read: "Good work in having extricated yourself from the domineering influence of Franklin Roosevelt." SAMUEL STEINLAUF.

SOMETHING AMERICAN.

Lake Forest, Ill., Feb. 24.—We don't have to look at Barkley's reply to the President with clear-eyed innocence, but cynics be hanged, there was something American and wonderful about it! Without any lumps in my throat, I want to say that it renewed my waning confidence in our government and people.

Just when it would seem that "they" were having it all "their" way in Washington, and the people seemed anesthetized, the senator from Kentucky with one beautiful and surprising act of independence reminded us that in America there always have been and always will be men in government to rise above themselves and serve their country in time of need. And, as our government is of our people, it is now to be assumed that the people, too, will rise and assert their independence when election time comes.

POWER POLITICS.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—It appears to any intelligent reader of the news that the boundary question is not the primary issue in the Polish-Russian controversy. The real issue is the right of Poland to a free and independent existence. The meaning of the Russian statement criticizing the Polish government in London seems to be that the only Polish government with which Russia would be prepared to have discussions is a puppet government. A puppet government could not discuss the differences, but only accept terms.

This is not the spirit of the Atlantic Charter and the Moscow and Teheran conference declarations. This is not the way to build peace in Europe. This is power politics—naked and unashamed.

VOTES FOR SHUT-INS.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Would it not be well to amend the election laws so as to permit shut-ins to vote, including patients in hospitals, and especially the Hines hospital?

This is a matter of personal solicitude. My legs are out of commission, but my head is going strong. I would like to vote for a good Republican candidate for President. This is the first time in 50 years that I will be unable to vote. PHILIP YARROW.

FUN AT THE INDUCTION CENTER.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Last Friday, Feb. 18, I went down for my "physical" at 166 W. Van Buren st. I wonder how many of the fellows enjoyed hearing the sailor who made us feel at home while waiting for our examinations? He did a good job of introducing us to Uncle Sam. ARTHUR HAUBERG.

TRIBUTE TO BLIND TOM.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—In checking the voting record on the tax bill I see our upstanding Congressman O'Brien's name is listed as usual in the New Deal's do-or-die column.

A few years ago Mr. O'Brien, as sheriff of Cook county made an ass of himself while testifying before a grand jury which at that time was conducting an investigation of the gambling and vice conditions rampant thruout the county. About all the investigation revealed was the fact that Mr. O'Brien was a terrifically incompetent sheriff, and that any intelligence he might have had at one time he conveniently discarded somewhere along the way—probably in 5th grade. However even a 5th grader can be trained to say "Yes," all the time, so the local pols decided he ought to go back to congress which is conveniently located some distance from the 6th Illinois district.

Mr. O'Brien is a fitting example of the kind of government we don't want. In all his dubious career as a political hack and ward heeler, he has consistently proved himself a tool of the grafters whose strangle hold on local governments is milking the life blood from Chicago and Cook county. The people of the 6th district can certainly be proud, for outside of Half-a-Congressman Sabath, Mr. O'Brien is the best unrepresentative in the business.

D. W. SCULLY.

GRABBING THE BALL.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—Friends and critics of Mr. Roosevelt both admit he is the shrewdest vote seeker of this age. This ability was never better exemplified than by his recent grabbing as his own the previously introduced bill of Rep. Starnes to give war veterans exclusive chance at certain jobs. No one quarrels with that idea, as we are all out for helping discharged soldiers.

But note Mr. Roosevelt wants this, he says, "restricted to veterans' examinations for such positions as the chief executive may from time to time designate." In other words: "Mr. Service Man, vote for me as I hope to be the only authority to get you a job." With two boys in the service, I prefer to leave this matter to congress.

V. C. B.

IT MIGHT MAKE SENSE.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—I read in yesterday's TRIBUNE where Churchill rebuked one of his ministers for a long, nonsensical report. I am surprised that Mr. Churchill hasn't dictated a less complicated income tax report for us here in America, especially since we do as he says in so many other ways.

RAPS SPENDING OF U. S. CASH TO REFORM WORLD

Rep. Chiperfield Opposes Lend-Lease Growth.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—A warning that congress should not tolerate the continued spending of lend-lease billions to "reform the world" after the war is over was sounded today by Rep. Chiperfield [R., Ill.] at a hearing of the house foreign affairs committee, which is considering legislation to extend the lend-lease act one year beyond its present expiration date of June 30.

Rep. Chiperfield.

Chiperfield, a committee member, remarked while questioning Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley that lend-lease was originally voted by congress as a move to "promote national defense." Since then, he said, the scope of the act has been broadened to such an extent that it has resulted in furnishing 20 billion dollars' worth of goods and services to the allies.

Opposes "Reform" Idea.

"From a defense measure," Chiperfield said, "the lend-lease program grew, following Pearl Harbor, into a war measure. Then, in North Africa and elsewhere, it has been expanded to give food and medicine to peoples freed from enemy occupation.

"My concept of lend-lease is that it is strictly a war emergency measure which will end when victory is won, and is not to be used to reform the world."

Crowley's testimony showed that "reverse lend-lease" to the United States has amounted to 1½ billion dollars in the form of goods and services, and that almost the entire amount has come from the British empire.

Urges More China Aid.

Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.] told Crowley he was disappointed in the relatively small lend-lease aid to the Pacific war theater, especially with the meager help sent China. He observed that only 10 per cent of total lend-lease has gone to the Pacific.

A request for a complete list of goods being exported under lend lease was made by Rep. Rogers [R., Mass.], who said some of the items are "silly."

Undersecretary of State Stettinius, who served until recently as lend-lease administrator, urged that the act be renewed without amendment.

Committee members were virtually unanimous in predicting that congress will vote extension of the act, but said they want a full accounting of what has been done before recommending favorable action.

Tell Horrors of ODT 'Relief Train.'

New York, March 2 [Special].—Rescued from the south by the office of defense transportation, 500 men, women, and children arrived at Pennsylvania station tonight after what they described as a "miserable" 34 hour trip in straight backed chairs in day coaches. Most of them, however, said they were "glad to be back."

The arrivals were the first to obtain relief thru the intervention of the ODT which authorized two all-coach trains daily thru March to return persons stranded in Florida.

Complain of Gouging.

Altho the travelers complained of crowded conditions, dirty coaches, and other discomforts on the trip north, the principal gripe was that they were gouged outrageously at the resort points when they were forced to stay longer than planned because of inability to secure train accommodations.

None of those returning on the relief train, officially the second section of the Tamiami Champion, could estimate how many persons were stranded in Florida. They asserted police were kept at resort railroad stations to preserve order.

Mrs. Charles Sandborn of Ossining, N. Y., said she had been stranded in Florida for five weeks, solely because no Pullman accommodations were available. She described her return on the all-coach train as "very uncomfortable."

Like a Picnic Ground.

Others described the old style cars as resembling a picnic ground after a week-end—"strewn with paper cups, sandwich wrappers, and cardboard plates."

The cars had been out of service for some time but passed ODT inspection. The Atlantic Coast Line will operate one "relief train" daily and the Seaboard Air Line will run the other.

ARMY CASUALTY MISTAKE MIXES UP A MARRIAGE

'Missing' Yank Back; Finds Wife Rewed.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 2 (AP).—A mistake in reports on two army sergeants of the same name resulted in a marital tangle here, but it apparently has been unraveled. Judge Judson L. Stark said the story ran like this:

Sgt. Walter W. Barr, with 13 years service, entered foreign duty in August, 1940.

In January, 1942, the army notified Mrs. Barr her pay allotment was being discontinued as her husband had obtained a divorce, had remarried, and was missing in action.

They Get Married.

Mrs. Barr took in boarders to augment her income. Among the boarders were Robert E. Utley and his daughter, 10. In June, 1943, Utley and Mrs. Barr were married.

A few days later, the Red Cross informed the new Mrs. Utley that Sgt. Barr was not missing and had not obtained a divorce. A second army sergeant of the same name was the missing man.

Then, a day or two later, Sgt. Barr arrived here on furlough, followed by two large packages of letters written to Mrs. Barr by her husband. Postal officials said the delay was caused by a mixup.

Annulment Suit Filed.

After a conference, Utley moved from the Barr home but his daughter remained. A suit to annul the Barr-Utley marriage was filed in Judge Stark's court.

On Feb. 17, Sgt. Barr left again for foreign service, after approving the return of Utley to his home as a boarder.

Judge Stark granted the annulment and approved the arrangement whereby Utley and his daughter will live in the Barr home as boarders.

WARNS CHICAGO TO PREPARE FOR TYPHOID WAVE

Hewitt Blames Indiana District for Danger.

Chicago was warned yesterday to prepare for an epidemic of typhoid fever, inevitably on its way thru contamination of the city's supply of drinking water from the lake.

The warning came from Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt who told members of the Chicago Association of Commerce waterway committee that the disease will unquestionably be carried to the city from northern Indiana where within 50 miles of the lake it has claimed 221 victims and killed a dozen or more.

Calls Escape a Miracle.

"It is a miracle," Hewitt told the association of commerce members headed by Col. Robert Isham Randolph, a famous engineer, "that we haven't had the epidemic already.

"It is in my opinion bound to come. When one considers the proportions the disease has reached in Indiana in mid-winter it is hard to understand why it hasn't reached here. Each person who recovers from typhoid down there is a carrier and it remains only for them to spread it near the lake for it to reach the water.

Wind Will Carry Germs.

"After that it's only a matter of how soon the shifting winds will carry the deadly germs directly into the south side crib from which our drinking water is pumped into the city."

The commissioner pointed out that Col. H. J. Woodbury, war department district engineer, next Monday in the city hall at Gary, Ind., will conduct a hearing on "modification of the Calumet river-Sag navigation project" involving projected sanitary district works to halt the pollution. Horace P. Ramey, sanitary district engineer, joined Hewitt in asking that the Association of Commerce help seek remedies.

RED SETBACKS IN STUDEBAKER VOTING HAILED

Beat One Communist, Demote Another.

One Communist was denied return to office, another must stake her fate on a runoff vote, and a third was reduced from chairman to plain member of the bargaining committee in the election held by local 998 of the United Automobile Workers union, whose members are employes of the Chicago Studebaker corporation.

Anti-Communist workers were elated over the results which they believe breaks the Communists' power in the union. The election began Tuesday morning and lasted until 3 a. m. Wednesday. More than 24 hours was taken to count the 2,434 ballots.

Miss Selig Beaten.

The Communists holding office in the local are Carl Swanson, chairman of the bargaining board; Gertrude Selig [alias Giles], recording secretary, and Evelyn Fargo, a member of the bargaining board.

Miss Fargo was defeated for reelection, Swanson was reëlected to the board, but not as chairman. Neither Miss Selig nor her principal opponent, Fred Weed, right wing candidate, received 51 per cent of the votes, and a run-off will be held with two other candidates excluded.

Foe of Communists Wins.

Frank Jordan, president of the union, and Joseph Balas, vice president, were reëlected. Frank Berg was elected guide, and Frank Gray, Steve Edwards, Phil Bruno, Darrell Updegraff, and William Johnson also were elected to the bargaining board.

Run-off elections also will be held to choose between Arthur Pearson and Henry Wawrusiewicz for sergeant at arms; William Newbauer and Ike Sears for three year trustee, and William Witkowski and Frank Russell for financial secretary.

Superior Court Business Picks Up After Publicity

Henry Sonnenschein, clerk of the Superior court, reported yesterday that business had increased in his office during the first two months of 1944. In that period, 2,736 suits were filed as against 2,138 during January and February of 1943. The increase was attributed in part to an announcement that the Superior court has the same authority as the Circuit court in hearing cases involving changes of name and adoptions.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Mrs. W. H. writes: "My son was inducted into the army several months ago. I have been receiving a family allowance of $50. Since that time I have obtained a position and wonder if my checks will be stopped."

ANSWER: Dependents of service men who are receiving a family allowance are expected to report any change of financial status, and both the service man and the dependent are liable if such reports are not made. Mothers must be at least partially dependent, and if you are employed you are no longer entitled to the amount of money permitted those who are completely dependent. I would suggest that you report your change of status immediately else your son and yourself may be liable to severe penalties.

Mrs. C. C. writes: "My husband has been in the army for more than a year, and we have two small children. I am receiving the family allowance, but due to the fact that our 2 year old daughter recently contracted a severe infection, it necessitates the care of a specialist and the daily care of our personal physician. I find it most difficult to meet our expenses. I understand that the state has some plan for the pediatric care of children of service men. Can you advise me about it?"

ANSWER: It is true that the government provides free pediatric care for the children of service men, but it is limited to children under 1 year of age. However, I would suggest that you contact your local chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. E. P. writes: "My husband is a technical sergeant in the army air force now serving overseas. We are expecting a child this month, and he has written me saying he understood that I can apply for an allowance of $30 a month for the baby after its birth. Is that correct? Can you give me definite information on this and how to go about obtaining it?"

ANSWER: If you are now receiving a family allowance, after the birth of the child you can obtain an additional $30 by writing to the Office of Dependency Benefits and submitting a certified copy of the child's birth record. However, if your husband is receiving a quarters allowance for his dependents, it will not be increased after the birth of a child. Previously, men of his rank had to accept the quarters allowance and were not entitled to the family allowance. Due to recent changes in the law, your husband may now cancel that and apply for the family allowance, if he wishes. That would entitle you to apply for the additional amount after the birth of your child.

CITY 107 YEARS OLD TOMORROW, NO CELEBRATION

Chicago as an incorporated city will be 107 years old tomorrow but the volume of its war production will have to mark the day for posterity in lieu of an official city celebration.

In the absence of Mayor Kelly who is vacationing in Florida, an office spokesman said no observance had been planned to recall the March 4, 1837, when the village government of a board of trustees and a president was replaced by a city charter providing for the election of a mayor, high constable, 10 aldermen and four assessors.

In the intervening years, the city has grown from 4,170 persons and 10 square miles to an estimated 3,452,825 persons, as indicated by requests for war ration book No. 2 late in 1943, and 211.3 square miles.

Ex-Convict Held to Jury in $500 Insurance Killing

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Joseph Kruml, 63, held to the grand jury for the slaying of his common law wife, Mrs. Grace Kennedy McShirley, 53, of 16 W. Superior st., whose battered body was found on a dump at the rear of 849 N. Franklin st., last Saturday night. Police said Kruml confessed while under a lie detector test that he beat her head against a loading platform and choked her to death in a plan to get her $500 insurance. Kruml once served five years in Joliet prison for manslaughter, police said.

SYNOPSIS: James Paradine asks Elliot Wray to come to River house. Blueprints are missing. The family assembles for New Year's eve dinner—Grace Paradine, sister of James; her adopted daughter, Phyllida Wray; Mark and Dicky Paradine, cousins, and nephews of James; Frank Ambrose [Paradine's stepson]; his wife, Irene; his sister, Brenda, and Lydia Pennington, Irene's sister. James joins the family with his cousin-secretary, Albert Pearson, and Elliot Wray, estranged husband of Phyllida. James accuses one of the family of disloyalty. He will remain in his study until midnight prepared to make terms. The party breaks up early. Albert and Elliot remain. Phyllida visits her uncle's study. Elliot sees the front door move and hears sounds from the upper floor. Just after 12 Phyllida is awakened by a cry. Next morning James Paradine's body is found on the ground below the parapet. Maud Silver, detective, engaged by Mark, finds Paradine had several callers. She recognizes Aunt Grace's antagonism for Elliot and feels Aunt Grace could have replaced the blueprints while getting her gifts—her motive, a desire to widen the breach between Elliot and the Paradines. Mark believes he, as chief beneficiary, will be the first suspect. However, he finds out Lydia is in love with him, not Dicky. Elliot confronts Aunt Grace with her deceptions, and Phyllida tells her she and Elliot will start all over again, she is infuriated. Frank Ambrose visited his stepfather at 10:30 p. m. The jewels are appraised. Some of the stones are copies. Albert disclaims any knowledge of the substitution. Police tell him he had time to visit Mr. Paradine after leaving Elliot, because he had tampered with Elliot's clock, and his fingerprints are found on Paradine's bathroom window. Then Albert calls upon Frank to tell what he saw. Frank saw James pushed over the parapet, but refuses to name the guilty person, so Albert reveals it was Miss Paradine. Aunt Grace's appeal to Frank to save her is in vain. She asks for a chance to prove he is mistaken and they go to the terrace.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

THE LETTER.

All those on the terrace looked toward the windows of Mrs. Paradine's room—two large windows and a glass door forming a bay.

They all saw the curtains move and shimmer. A dark gap appeared in the middle. The handle of the glass door moved, the door opened, Grace Paradine came out. She came half across the terrace, and looked first to her right where Frank Ambrose stood by the nearest of the drawing-room windows, and then to the left where Albert Pearson leaned from the window of the bathroom. Her glance swept the family group outside the study, and she turned.

Phyllida wasn't there. But Phyllida must be there. The dark dominant eyes went seeking till they found her, just inside the study. But she must look—she must see—she must remember. If they would give her time. But the young constable was at her elbow. Vyner was coming up. She called out in a ringing voice:

"Phyllida!"

She saw Phyllida move.

Vyner said, "What is it, Miss Paradine?"

They all heard her say, "It's nothing."

Now—

Phyllida had made no more than one movement toward the terrace, when Elliot pulled her roughly back, turning her head against his shoulder and holding it there.

So she did not see what Grace Paradine had meant her to see—the quick step on to the parapet, and the quick step over it and down—but she knew.

Late that evening three people sat with Miss Silver in Phyllida's sitting room—Mark Paradine, Lydia, and Elliot Wray. Phyllida was not there. She lay on her bed in the room beyond, her tears all cried away, her thoughts not taking hold of anything yet, but knowing that Elliot was there just on the other side of the door, and that he wouldn't leave her again.

On the other side of the door Mark said:

"I've been with Colonel Bostock and Vyner. They've fairly had the wires humming. It's like you said, Elliot—the ministry wants everything soft-pedalled as much as possible. The blueprints are not to be mentioned. Everything is to be done to avoid publicity. There'll be a lot of talk, but it will go by. I suppose she was insane."

Miss Silver coughed.

"Not in the usual sense of the word. She knew what she was doing, and she was in control of her actions. But she had, I think, for many years allowed herself to be governed by a most fatal and inordinate desire to absorb the feelings and emotions of anyone she cared for. Her engagement to Mr. Moffat was broken off not because of a moral recoil, but because of that desire to be the first, in fact the only one, in his affections. From what your wife told you of their last interview, Mr. Wray, I think this is quite clear."

Lydia was in one of the big chairs, her face paler than anyone had ever been allowed to see it.

Mark sat on the arm of the chair and kept a hand upon her shoulder. You could not look at them without seeing how much they were aware of one another, how deeply they were at peace between themselves. Mark said in a difficult voice:

"I went on and saw Frank. He's terribly cut up. He told me all about it. I said that I should tell you three. No one else. It was like this. When we went back the first time—he says he told the police about th[illegible]."

Miss Silver coughed.

"Yes, Mr. Paradine—I was there."

"He didn't tell them very much, I gather—only that he went back, and that they talked. Actually, Uncle James told him all about it. He thought a lot of Frank, and Frank thought a lot of him. He told him who had taken the blueprints. He saw her from Aunt Clara's room—he was just opening the door to go back into the study when she came in. He stood where he was because he didn't want to meet her. His attache case was on the table. The cylinder with the blueprints was in it, right on the top. She went straight to the table, opened the case, took the cylinder, and was out of the room again in a flash. He let her go. Then he sat down and thought out how he could score her off. He told Frank just what he thought about her—said she had separated Elliot and Phyllida and was doing her best to smash up his marriage with Irene. He told Frank she had taken the blueprints because she thought that would make a final breach between Elliot and the firm, and so keep him away from Birleton. And he said he was going to show her just where she got off. Frank was awfully shocked and upset. The thing he was most anxious about was to prevent an interview between them that night whilst they were both worked up. In the end he got Uncle James to write to her giving his terms. Uncle James gave him a copy of the letter, and he handed it on to me. Here it is. I'm going to read it, and then we'll put it on the fire. The police have taken a copy, but they won't use it."

He spread out a sheet of the firm's paper and read aloud,

"My dear Grace:

"I saw you take the cylinder with Elliot's blueprints. I note that you have found an opportunity of replacing them, but that does not close the account between us. I think perhaps it is best that we should not meet tonight. I am, therefore, letting you have my terms in writing.

"[1] You will cease to stand between Elliot and Phyllida. Whatever their differences have been, they are deeply attached to each other and should be allowed to settle their own affairs without interference from you.

"[2] Within a reasonable time—not more than a couple of months—you will discover a desire to have a flat or a small house of your own. I shall offer this house as a hospital for the duration, and move into a flat in Birleton.

"If you still wish to see me, I shall be in the study until 12. But the terms are quite irrevocable."

Lydia drew in her breath sharply.

"He sent her that letter? How?"

"Frank took it up and slipped it under her door. I was coming in as he went out. We passed each other in the drive."

"O! You never said—"

"Nor did Frank, darling."

He got up, went over to the fire, dropped the sheet of paper on to a tilted log and watched it burn.

JURY TOLD CHIEF ACCUSED NOXON OF KILLING CHILD

Suspicions Aired in Early Questioning.

Pittsfield, Mass., March 2 (AP).—Police Chief John L. Sullivan indirectly accused John F. Noxon Jr. of killing the six month old mentally deficient Noxon child the day after the baby died, a police witness testified today in Noxon's murder trial.

The witness, Police Capt. Camille Marcel, testified before Judge Abraham Pinanski and a Berkshire county jury that the accusing statement was made when Noxon, undergoing questioning about his son's death, suddenly turned to Sullivan and said:

"You talk as tho you think I killed the child!"

"I suspect you did!" the chief replied.

Calls His Wife.

At this reply, Marcel continued, Noxon called his wife, Mrs. Margaret Noxon, into the room, and informed her of Sullivan's suspicion. She turned to Sullivan and said:

"I suspected that you thought that this morning."

Marcel testified to the conversation with Noxon after the jury had gathered in front of the witness stand while Marcel, using a metal tray and pillow taken from the Noxon home, showed how the wealthy corporation lawyer had demonstrated the arrangement of pillow and tray as he said he found them with the body of his child.

Demonstrated by Noxon.

Noxon gave the demonstration in the bookroom of his home just before Sullivan told Noxon he suspected him of infanticide, Marcel said.

Earlier a quantity of extension cord wire and an assembled extension "trouble light" had been introduced as evidence. Noxon had been quoted as saying he had been "fussing with" a radio when the baby met death by electrocution last Sept. 22.

LONERGAN CASE MISTRIAL ASKED BY PROSECUTION

Judge Considers Motion; No Jurors Selected.

New York, March 2 (AP).—The murder trial of Wayne Lonergan produced its greatest surprise today when the prosecution suddenly asked for dismissal of the special talesmen amid defense accusations that the state was "quitting" in the case.

Jacob Grumet, assistant district attorney, asked dismissal on the ground that defense counsel Edward V. Broderick's conduct in the examination of talesmen made a fair trial impossible.

The young cafe society man accused of slaying his wealthy, 22 year old wife, Patricia, appeared bewildered by the speedy turn of events that General Sessions Judge John J. Freschi said might result in a mistrial.

Plans Ruling Today.

Freschi abruptly adjourned today's session a half hour after it had begun so he could study legal precedent in the snarl.

He will rule tomorrow whether the case will proceed or whether the request will be granted. If it is granted, the prosecution would set a new trial date and call a new panel of talesmen—a procedure that might delay the case for an indefinite time.

The slim, mustached prosecutor said Broderick, after court hours, inspired newspaper stories which the defense counsel intended to show to prospective jurors to determine their attitude toward Lonergan.

Broderick Objects.

Grumet's action was in the form of a request that the judge reconsider a defense motion, which was denied last Monday, for dismissal of the panel on the ground that possible prejudice existed.

Broderick's refusal to consent to reconsideration led to Freschi's decision to study legal precedent.

"If Grumet had an ounce of manhood he would make a direct motion for dismissal of the talesmen," the husky voiced Broderick shouted.

The defense lawyer, in an emotional address, declared that the prosecution knew its case was lost and that it wanted dismissal of the talesman so a different assistant district attorney could be appointed to prosecute.

"Lie," Grumet Shouts.

"That's a deliberate lie," shouted Grumet.

The judge said:

"If I have the authority in law to grant the motion, in view of what has occurred from the very beginning of this trial up to this minute, I shall grant that motion and declare a mistrial.

"If I have no authority in law I will deny the motion."

POLICE BREAK UP AMUNDSEN HIGH VENGEANCE RAID

An amateur boxer from Crane High school who was struck in the face in a fracas following a basketball game between Crane and Amundsen at Crane on Wednesday led a group of 50 boys to Amundsen at noon yesterday for a renewal of hostilities, but Summerdale police rounded up the invaders and sent them home.

Acting Capt. John J. Walsh of the Summerdale police said the youth thought he might arrange a fight in the Amundsen gymnasium with the boy who hit him Wednesday. He had gathered a following from Crane, McKinley, and Wells high schools. They went by bus, street car, and hitch-hiking to Amundsen. About 30 got off a street car at the school corner, Foster and Damen avs., and were met by police. A few ran but were caught after a brief squad car chase.

Capt. Walsh and Robert Raschford, Summerdale juvenile officer, separated the group, including half a dozen Amundsen boys, into age sections, and lectured them on good citizenship. Most were 14 to 18 years old. One, 20 years old, was not in school.

GUNMAN ROBS HOTEL OF $210.

An armed robber took $210 from the Circle hotel at 4308 Sheridan road yesterday. He forced the clerk, Miss Geraldine Davis, 29, to give him the money from the safe.

Kellogg's All-Bran Brought Relief!" Says Ex-Sufferer!

If you, too, are a sufferer, be sure to read this unsolicited letter!

"My system was sluggish, after I'd been sick, and I couldn't stand harsh laxatives. I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, and found it was grand. We have a box of it in the house all the time. Just for variety, several times a week, we mix a small portion of other cereals with the ALL-BRAN! It's delightful! And we still get the benefits from the ALL-BRAN." Mrs. Joseph W. Poutie, 86 Englewood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

What's the secret of such amazing relief for so many? Simply this! KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can "get at" constipation due to lack of certain "cellulosic" elements in the diet—because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements! They help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural elimination! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is this kind, eat ALL-BRAN, or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't praise its welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

20 LEGISLATORS TOOK BRIBES, HEARING IS TOLD

Charge Money Paid in Lansing Hotel.

Lansing, Mich., March 2 [Special].—A charge that 20 members of the 1939 Michigan legislature, indicted in a mass grand jury warrant, took bribes in a Lansing hotel bathroom from Maj. Charles F. Hemans, former Democratic regent of the University of Michigan, was made a part of the record today at the hearing for 21 of 26 conspiracy respondents.

Kim Sigler, special prosecutor, made the charge while he questioned Claude Marshall, Lansing attorney, who was retained by a group of small, independent finance and small loan companies to assist them with their legislative program during the 1939 session. Marshall had testified he knew nothing of the alleged lobbying activities of Hemans, who previously had been identified in testimony as having been hired to "buy votes" for the same group.

13 Attorneys Protest.

"Didn't you know," Sigler asked Marshall, "that at the same time you were working so hard to get your job done the whole group was going up to Rooms 516 and 517 [of the Olds hotel here] and taking money from Charlie Hemans in the bathroom?"

Marshall denied the charge as the 13 defense attorneys chorused objections. Sigler then made the statement, which was allowed to stand in the record, that "before I get thru I'll prove the whole group of them [the indicted legislators and former legislators] went up to Hemans' room and got money in the bathroom."

Judge Leland W. Carr of Ingham county Circuit court, who is sitting as magistrate at the examination, also conducted the one-man grand jury investigation which resulted in the mass indictment.

Marshall, who followed Ralph W. Smith, executive of two Niles finance companies, to the stand, testified regarding his duties in behalf of the small loan companies involved.

Prepare Amendments.

Marshall said he was retained to "prepare amendments to the 1939 small loan bill, watch the bill's progress in the legislature, and to meet with the committees handling the legislation." He said no legislator solicited bribes from him and "never did I see any money change hands."

Smith, whose disclosures have made him a key state witness, testified that bribery was "the only thing to do with certain members of the legislature" to assure their position on pending legislation. He earlier had named Hemans, now attached to the provost marshal's office in Washington, as having been employed primarily as a vote-buyer.

Smith also had described how more than a score of independent small loan and finance companies operating in Michigan had banded together to combat proposed regulatory legislation and a reduction in interest rates chiefly sponsored by a rival company operating on a nation-wide basis.

Smith, who is not among the six small loan company officials named in the mass indictment, said in answer to a question from Joseph W. Planck, Lansing, a defense lawyer, that he had received no promise of immunity from the prosecution in exchange for his testimony.

Sigler read into the record a list of purported payments to Hemans totaling $6,245 for special fees and expenses.

CONFESSES PLAN TO LURE GIRLS, GETS PROBATION

Edward Konetzke, 18, was placed under supervision of the Holy Name society for a year yesterday by Judge Mason S. Sullivan in Boys' court, on a charge of loitering in the basement of Trinity parochial school, 1116 Noble st. Police said he had told them he had planned to lure girl pupils to his room. He once was committed to the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, on a charge of attempting to rape a 6 year old girl.

COAST 'DANCE KING' BEGINS HIS JAIL SENTENCE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 2 [Special].—Jail doors closed today on Harry A. Schooler, 25 year old "swing shift dance king" as he began a 90 day sentence for a morals offense.

Superior Judge Edward R. Brand ordered the dance hall promoter to serve the term and placed him under probation for two years after a jury on Feb. 9 found him guilty of seducing Patricia Anne Frey, 17.

After studying a probation officer's report Judge Brand suggested the dance hall impresario begin supporting his two children, Frederick, 7, and Shirley Ann, 6, if he intends to prove he has a good moral character.

ZERO HOUR... EVERY MINUTE

EVERY MINUTE brings Zero Hour . . . the hour of attack . . . to some New York Central train crew. Every minute, day or night, a freight train starts out over the busy wartime rails of the Water Level Route. And from now till Victory, that pace must never slacken.

Slacken? It must increase . . . not only on New York Central, but on all American railroads! Because offensives have vast appetites. The brief Sicilian drive used hundreds of carloads of 105-mm. shells, alone. Many troops wore out shoes in three days; and it takes two carloads to shoe one division!

More arms, more equipment, more food and clothes to back the attack. More fuel and materials to feed America's racing production lines. And virtually no more cars . . . no more manpower . . . to handle the extra load.

That is why every piece of railroad equipment must work 10% harder in the months ahead. That is why shippers and railroaders, who have already raised freight car efficiency to an all-time peak, must now make a final, prodigious effort.

Shippers Advisory Boards and railroad management, working with the armed services and the Government, will plan the general strategy. But in the end, it will be a personal, hand-to-hand struggle . . . a battle of men against minutes, men against miles. Every railroader who does his daily job a little better . . . every shipper who loads cars a little fuller or faster . . . every freight receiver who unloads and releases cars a little sooner . . . will play a decisive part.

Zero hour in the great offensive ahead must come weeks, perhaps months earlier on the transportation front than on the battlefields. It is here right now for the shippers and railroaders of America.

Ten percent more freight car efficiency is their objective. It must be won . . . and held . . . to support the world-wide Victory drive that alone can bring enduring peace.

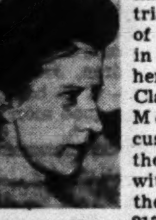
MOTHER HALTS TRIAL TO PLEAD GUILT IN DEATH

State Asks 2 to 4 Years for Poker Slaying.

Mrs. Mildred Merkel, 22, pleaded guilty late yesterday after a jury had been selected in the Criminal court for her trial on a charge of manslaughter in the death of her daughter, Claire, 2. Mrs. Merkel is accused of beating the child to death with a poker in their home at 2133 North av. on Jan. 3.



Mrs. Mildred Merkel.

Charles A. Bellows, attorney for the young mother, moved for dismissal of the jury after the noon recess, during which he conferred with Assistant State's Atty. James A. Brown, and won the prosecutor's promise to recommend a sentence of 2 to 4 years.

Judge Gives Warning.

Judge Francis B. Allegretti dismissed the jury, and Mrs. Merkel pale and tense, was brought before the judge's bench. Asked how she wished to plead, she whispered "Guilty."

Judge Allegretti warned her he was not bound by any recommendation of sentence to be made by the state, and explained that he could impose any term up to 14 years in prison. He asked her if she understood this and still wanted to plead guilty.

"I do," she replied.

The judge then heard testimony from Policeman John E. Reed, who took a statement from Mrs. Merkel under the lie detector.

"She said Claire didn't want to go to bed and that she struck her three or four times with the poker," the policeman testified. "Then she said she patted her and told her she was sorry and sent her to the bathroom, and that then the child fell from the toilet seat. Also, she said that when she was carrying her to the front room she bumped her head against the door jamb."

Excerpts from Test Read.

Q.—Did you deliberately hit Claire? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why did you hit her? A.—I was nervous, and she was temperamental.

The poker was introduced in evidence, and handed up to the judge.

Mrs. Merkel took the stand in her own defense, relating that she was orphaned at 11, and lived in a series of farm homes, in an orphanage, and in a charity boarding school until she was 16. She said she occasionally had fainting spells, and for brief periods lost her memory.

Mrs. Merkel's husband, Fred, 40, a machinist, testified on cross-examination by Atty. Bellows that his wife often had moody spells and sometimes would sit for hours staring into space.

After the defendant's testimony the hearing was adjourned until this morning, when Dr. William H. Haines, head of the county behavior clinic, who examined Mrs. Merkel, will testify in her behalf.

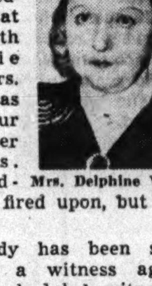
DRAKE INQUEST CALLS DAUGHTER FOR 2D QUIZZING

Two Who Saw Slayer Flee to Be Heard.

The mysterious murder of Mrs. Frank Starr Williams in the Drake hotel Jan. 19, will be reviewed today at the resumption of the inquest. The hearing is scheduled to start at 11 a. m., with Coroner Brodie in charge. Mrs. Williams was shot by a fur clad woman. Her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, also was fired upon, but was not hit.



Mrs. Delphine Ward.

Mrs. Goodbody has been summoned to be a witness again. Among other scheduled witnesses are Stanley A. Cook and Clyde P. Brewster, who saw the slayer flee, police, a hairdresser, and Mme. Marguerite Pick, a modiste at 127 E. Chestnut st., who for years had fashioned gowns for Mrs. Williams.

Meanwhile, police last night were questioning Mrs. Delphine [Babe] Raynor Ward, 43, of 1060 Ainslie st. She apparently had no knowledge of the crime, but was brought into the case because she reputedly had said she knew something about it. Police said that Mrs. Ward was questioned in 1935 about the strange murder of Louis K. Straub, which is still unsolved. He was shot Feb. 3, that year, in the Saddle and Cycle club where he worked as a bartender. Mrs. Ward also was brought into that case because of unfounded reports she had knowledge of the crime.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Another New Deal army of pay rollers—2,900 strong is patroling the United States for the OPA, Price Administrator Bowles revealed today. Their job, according to Bowles, is to wipe out the black markets.

Bowles emphasized that his patrol is still short of averaging one for every county in the nation, but said he will add to it if he can induce congress to appropriate larger funds for OPA enforcement. There are 3,100 counties in the United States.

Bowles revealed that in addition to this force of paid investigators who are concentrated in metropolitan areas, he has under his control 39,000 volunteers supervised by paid OPA employes.

Mexico a Lure to Vacationers from Chicago

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Herbert E. Bradleys, whose travels have taken them to some of the most exotic corners of the world, are leaving tomorrow for their first visit to Mexico. Accompanying them will be Harry Bigelow, who was with them on their African safaris. During the Bradleys' absence some of their New York friends, the Albert Blivens, will be coming thru Chicago and occupying their apartment.

Mrs. Bradley recently returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., and New York, where she saw her daughter, 1st Lt. Alice Bradley Davey of the WAC. Lt. Davey now has been sent to an advanced training school in Harrisburg, Pa., where she will be graduated the latter part of this month.

Also headed for Mexico next week will be the Alfred E. Hamills, who expect to be away for a month. They will wait over to see their daughter, Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr., who is returning next week from Stockton, Cal. She joined Lt. Barnes there a month ago while he was awaiting new duty.

The Nathaniel Owings, who have been vacationing in Mexico since Jan. 19, are expected home today. They found Mexico the restful place they had expected, according to word received by Mr. Owings' sister, Mrs. Louis Skidmore, who came from New York to be with the Owings' children during their parents' absence. Mrs. Skidmore brought her little son, Philip, to provide company for her nieces, Jennifer, Natalie, and Emily.

Here and There.

One of the most unusual war time tasks undertaken by a woman to relieve the man power shortage is that of training dogs, a job Miss Judy Waller has held for the last few months. Dressed in her oldest clothes and devoting her full time to the task at a professional training kennel in E. Erie st., she has won the admiration of dog fanciers hereabouts.

Now Miss Waller is taking a well earned holiday in Palm Beach. She and her mother, Mrs. William Waller, departed Wednesday to open the Waller house there. Mrs. Waller's sister, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, is leaving tomorrow to join them. Mrs. Wheeler's son, Lt. Robert T. Wheeler, is stationed at Buckley field, Denver, Colo., where he and his wife have taken a house.

Being welcomed to Chicago for a short visit are Lt. and Mrs. James Otis and their three children, who arrived yesterday from Lt. Otis' navy post at Ottumwa, Ia., to be with Mrs. Otis' mother, Mrs. Edwin Love, until Lt. Otis reports for duty overseas. When he leaves, Mrs. Love and the children will return to Ottumwa until the end of the school year, after which they probably will give up their house there and return to Chicago.

Sometime next month Lt. Garrett Le Van will come from his navy post in the east to see his new son, Peter Houghton Le Van, who was born Feb. 16 in the Evanston hospital. During Lt. Le Van's absence his wife and their children — Garrett Julian, Katherine, Andrea, and the new baby—will be staying with her parents, the Julian Armstrongs, in Lake Forest.

The Eugene A. Howards are leaving today for Pinehurst, N. C., to stay with friends.

Today's Events.

Members of the Arts club and the Cliff Dwellers are anticipating a pleasant afternoon following the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert today. The Arts club is entertaining at tea to open two exhibitions, paintings by Grigory Gluckmann, who is here from New York, and photographs by Herbert Matter. The Cliff Dwellers are entertaining for Cellist Edmund Kurtz, a fellow member, who is soloist this week with the symphony. As Mr. Kurtz and Mr. Gluckmann are old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz will go to the Arts club late in the afternoon. Mrs. Paul Butler is arranging the tea table there.

This is a day for cellists, for tonight in Mandel hall at the University of Chicago, Gregor Piatigorsky, also a good friend of Mr. Kurtz, will

7 Illinois Cities Winning War on Delinquency

In sharp contrast to the rising spiral of juvenile delinquency prevalent in Chicago and thruout the greater part of the country, seven Illinois communities have succeeded in reducing delinquency as much as 40 per cent since last July.

Awakened interest among citizens and a juvenile court policy of punishing parents for their children's delinquency are believed by Samuel R. Ryerson, superintendent of the division for delinquency prevention of the state of Illinois [outside of Cook county], to be the principal reasons for this brightening picture.

Forty per cent decreases in juvenile delinquency have been realized by the cities of Danville and Springfield. The other Illinois cities reporting a lessening in delinquency are Peoria, Waukegan, Rockford, Bloomington, and Decatur.

In Springfield, following the organization last year of the Sangamon Youth council, a citizens committee worked with police, municipal and school authorities to solve the problems peculiar to young persons arising from the war. They called in bowling alley and tavern owners and impressed on them that they should discourage youthful patronage.

An educational committee worked with school officials to determine the causes of truancy and to examine the curriculum. A legislative committee coöperated with federal, state, and local authorities in studying ordinances relating to youth, and a public relations committee undertook to acquaint the public with local conditions contributing to delinquency.

In the other six Illinois communities where results have been achieved the youth councils assumed the form of Big Brother and and Big Sister movements, with interested citizens agreeing to sponsor wayward boys and girls. Visits are made by them to the homes and schools of their proteges, and a youth program of healthful activity is mapped.

Judge John Kincaid of Charleston has sentenced 10 mothers of delinquent children to the Dwight reformatory for women in the last few months. Judge Junius P. Califf of Rock Island recently sentenced a father to 90 days at the state farm at Vandalia and his wife to 30 days in the county jail, when it was learned that, altho both parents were working, they neglected their children and left the care of them to the county. A decrease in juvenile delinquency was noted in both communities thereafter.

Thru the Looking Glass

We've been quite intrigued and impressed by a makeup base that came to our desk recently. We're intrigued by its nature—it's really not like anything in its class that we can recall. Something of a semi-cream, packed in a jarlike container, a few drops of water must be kept on its surface to maintain proper consistency. The water is important, for if the cosmetic is allowed to become slightly dry its efficiency and good results are impaired.

However, kept properly moist, the makeup base can do really remarkable things for the complexion. It's in the category of bases that give an opaque, powdery finish, but requires no fussing with a sponge or cotton applicator. Rather, it's to be applied with the fingers, and a few dots on forehead, cheeks, chin, and throat can be spread around in a jiffy to cover face and throat. You'll have to work rather swiftly, but should the cosmetic set before it's completely worked around, moisten the fingertips and continue blending.

The finish imparted to the complexion is not a little flattering. The skin has that nice, smooth look and minor blemishes are covered up most effectively. You can work or play hard for hours after using this base with never a worry about renewing makeup. The velvety finish clings to the skin unbelievably long and powder and rouge stay right with it. Incidentally, there's a powdery finish left with this base that some users who prefer to dispense with powdering will find sufficient and much to their liking.

The cosmetic comes in five complexion and fashion right shades and, while we wouldn't recommend this version for the dry skinned woman, those with normal skins will be delighted with it. However, this same house makes a cream base for dry skins that we can recommend as worth investigating.

Vestees Supply New Suits with Bit of Frosting

BY REA SEEGER.

Extras as frosting for dark and strong colored spring suits are the new vestees and sleeveless blouses of exquisitely sheer material. The sugar white affairs are tremendously popular and effective, whether severely plain or lavishly trimmed with lace and embroidery. Dainty shell pink arrivals are telling alternatives for the white. They're getting a sudden rush because they are easier to keep clean than the pristine white models.

You'll find double layers of sheer white organdy in vestees that stress a simple, tailored look, the softly rolled collar, and circular cut chest frill, unadorned but still filmy and feminine enough for the most elegant silk suit. Vestees of white with a double fluted jabot ruffle have exciting piped edgings of either scarlet or emerald green. Primly tucked bosom vestees come in white or flesh color with vertical tucks and a demure little tape bow of the same organdy under the chin.

Among the more elaborate models are some breath-takingly beautiful vestees, some made of filet lace, some of Irish crochet, and others of exquisite thread lace, all skilfully combined with fine stitchery and sheer plain materials to make very feminine frills and froufrou.

The unusually fine embroidered vestees from Puerto Rico are as dainty as embroidery on baby dresses. These vestees and guimpes or sleeveless blouses are the last word in sheer beauty and needlework, providing delectable accents for jacket and gilet dresses. Collections of such filmy sheers are at peak, with prices for all budgets.

City Churches Set to Mark Red Cross Day

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Beginning tonight in the synagogue and continuing thru Sunday, the American Red Cross will be owned by the spiritual forces of the Chicago area as one of their finest manifestations. Without the light of the Menorah, the teaching of the cross, and the leadership of deep religious faith, the Red Cross work of mercy and relief would never have been organized.

The chancery of the Roman Catholic archdiocese has asked pastors to stress the importance of the Red Cross in all churches Sunday, and the pastors of all Protestant, Lutheran, Episcopal, and Orthodox churches plan emphasis Sunday on the Red Cross either in sermon or announcement. The Red Cross campaign to raise $12,000,000 as the Cook county quota of the country's goal of $200,000,000 will continue thruout March.

"It is certainly appropriate to have a Red Cross Sunday, and in all the churches in this area on this day the Red Cross appeal for funds will be announced," said M. H. Kennelly, general campaign chairman, in a message to the 2,000 churches in the chapter area. "All nationalities and all creeds can follow the banner of white with the cross of red.

"The campaign for funds this year really takes on a religious aspect, for it is to provide blood for the wounded, care for the sick on the battlefields, and security for the families of soldiers who are away from home."

Of the $12,000,000 quota allotted to the Chicago chapter area, $8,388,000 will be used by the national organization. Of the $200,000,000 national goal, $140,000,000 will be used for overseas forces and $60,000,000 by the 3,756 chapters.

For operation of clubs overseas, $27,000,000 has been set aside for welfare and recreation of soldiers on duty and on leave, and for air clubs at every airport. A total of $35,000,000 has been allotted to military posts and naval stations and $25,000,000 to army and navy hospitals.

"The national goal," explained Mr. Kennelly, "must be subscribed by individuals with incomes of less than $5,000 a year, as large gifts comprise only about one-fifth of the total contributions."

Expansion of the home services division is shown by the increase in the home case load. Immediately before World War II. cases interviewed in Chicago averaged 1,200 a month; for January, 1944, the total was 46,853.

The synagogue is preparing for the annual observance of Purim, beginning at sundown Wednesday, which recalls the first recorded Hitler, who, under the name of Haman, tried to exterminate the Jewish people 24 centuries ago. The biblical book of Esther tells the story and is read at Purim services. Rabbi Louis Binstock of Temple Sholom, who will preach tomorrow morning on "A New Purim," calls attention in his Sholom bulletin to many special localized Purims thruout the world. He cited the Purim of Shiraz, Persia, the Florentine Purim, and the Purim of Rhodes. The Henry Horner post of the American Legion will attend services tonight at Rodfei Zedek, 1022 E. 54th pl.

Foresighted Easter paraders who wear junior sizes are snapping up ensembles which modify the tailored theme while retaining all the practical aspects of the time honored suit.

Spun rayon with the illusion of soft wool fashions the striking bolero suit [left]. The black and white checked skirt is slim and straight as an arrow. The black jacket is trimmed with the skirt material. A white faille weskit has smoked pearl buttons which are edged in metal. This ensemble is available in sizes 9 to 15.

A brown striped bengaline suit [center] is smart for the wearers of sizes to 15. The jacket has a center panel of the material with the white stripes running horizontally. It is collarless, has wide lapels, and is trimmed with a dainty lingerie bow and dickey. Three large decorative plastic buttons mark the front closing.

A black and white plaid taffeta suit [right] rustles for spring. The smoothly fitted peplum jacket has a rich black velvet bow and buttons. Narrow black velvet ribbon is plaited and set on to create a most unusual flange treatment. This model is available in sizes 9 to 15.

White Collar GIRL
BY RUTH MAC KAY

Women at Work.

The Jewel Tea company at present has women on about one-half of its 1,600 retail routes. Three years ago nary a route was handled by a woman. As you can imagine, this sudden switch from man power to woman power has produced a shining array of personnel problems such as slacks, ornate jewelry, high heels, and makeup.

To cope with these new problems the personnel department publishes an illustrated, verse booklet to serve as a handbook for the girls, entitled "Women at Work." The amusing, tho informative, tone of the booklet is another indication of a fact more generally recognized every day—that women can't be treated in business by the same methods which are successful with men.

Suggestions on how to dress, timely hints [about regular hours and an early morning start], and suggestions about sales programs fill the pages. For instance one cautioning verse begins:

Your sales will be much bigger
If you've got a well-dressed figger.

The booklet, "Women at Work" was written by Joseph W. Story for the company and is a jewel.

Typewriter Drawing.

Here is my friend called Milly White,
She looks this way both day and night . . .
When working on her income tax
She wishes she had joined the WACs!

Women's Signatures.

It was a pleasure to see a contribution on the subject of women's signatures. It is true that women's jobs and women's names tie in all right; however, in men's jobs, the boss often prefers that a woman sign her initials only to let the recipient think he is hearing from a man.

As a matter of fact, what difference does it make? I have been addressed as a man thousands of times and nine times out of 10 it is better for the company that way. I know that if some of my letters went out over a woman's signature, the information they convey would be considered worthless. It is still, as Silent Sal remarks, a man's world.

Post-War Planning by Employes.

Much has been written and said about post-war planning by industry. . . . The wise employe also is thinking along the same lines. At no time for the last 26 years has an employe had a better time to establish himself in the confidence of his employer by loyalty and efficiency. These traits stand out like a beacon light under present conditions and often will be the deciding factor for promotion or a key position.—From the National Restaurant Association News Letter.

Eggs are a bargain at any price, for they can be used in hundreds of dishes which range from the simple "fried" egg for breakfast to the de luxe dessert—a feathery angel food cake. Lunchbox packers and toters are aware that a hard-cooked egg, deviled or stuffed with salt, pepper, butter, a little mustard, and vinegar, or with leftover minced ham or chicken, can lend new interest to the otherwise monotonous noon-day meal.

Eggs also are doubly economical in substantial main dishes which save meat points and provide an excellent substitute for meat. Don't take the dependable egg for granted but let it prove its worth in some of the following ways:

Chinese Omelet.
[Serves six.]
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
6 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups boiled rice

Make a white sauce with the margarine, flour, and milk, cooking until thickened and smooth. Beat egg yolks until thick and light; add seasonings, white sauce, and cooked rice. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into greased skillet or omelet pan and cook over low heat from 3 to 5 minutes, or until omelet puffs up and is browned on bottom. Place in moderate oven [350 degrees] for 10 to 15 minutes, or until top springs back when pressed with finger. Crease down center and fold carefully by slipping spatula under half of omelet to fold over. Slip onto hot platter and garnish with parsley. Serve at once.

Scalloped Eggs and Noodles.
[Serves six.]
4 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups chicken broth or milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups diced celery
6 hard cooked eggs
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives
1 4-ounce package noodles

Cook noodles in salted water until tender. Make white sauce of 2 tablespoons margarine, flour, broth or milk, and seasonings. Brown celery in remaining 2 tablespoons margarine. Put noodles, celery, sliced olives, and sliced eggs in alternate layers in greased baking dish. Pour white sauce over all. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Heat in moderate oven [350 degrees] until lightly browned. Serve at once.

Diced Eggs Tartare.
[Serves six.]
4 tablespoons margarine
½ cup minced onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup hot water
1 bouillon cube
Salt, pepper, mustard
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
6 hard cooked eggs
Buttered crumbs

Melt the margarine and cook the chopped onion in it until tender. Blend in the flour and then the water in which bouillon cube has been dissolved. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season, add the vinegar and parsley, and remove from heat. Dice the eggs, place them in greased baking dish, and cover with the sauce and buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven until crumbs are browned.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES.

War Time Food Special

These days we're serving cabbage, the current war time food special, almost daily. Cabbage cooks up tastily with meats and goes into stews, soups, and escalloped dishes. It may be combined in salad with many other foods—carrots, pineapple, bananas, celery, green pepper, peanuts, and so on. Here cabbage quarters, carefully cooked for only 10 to 15 minutes, are elegantly dressed with egg sauce. Eggs, another abundant food, also are being served frequently now.

Probe Causes of Child's Poor School Work

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Your child's school troubles may be smoothed out, or they may never have existed. But that happy state is not true of all children by any means. And perhaps at this moment you and your child are in the throes of unhappiness over lessons, teacher, or both.

Even if promotion occurs only once a year in the school that your child attends, there still is a feeling of break and a fresh beginning with the midyear. How are things going or how were they from September to January?

If school has not gone well for your child during the past half year, or if he doesn't eat or sleep well, look into it. Try to prevent that state of affairs continuing during the second term. If you've approached teacher and principal and they haven't solved the difficulty, try to clear up the mystery yourself; because it is a pity for a child to mull thru term after term miserable, or chronically at odds with the teacher, just because no one has tried to find out what the trouble is.

Now there may exist several causes for this state of affairs.

The cause may be that the teacher and your child simply can't work as a team. In some of our progressive public school systems the principal, after a fair trial and using a practiced eye, sees that a certain two personalities, child and teacher, can never achieve harmony together. So he changes the child to another teacher in the same grade.

The reason for your child's inability to be happy in or adjust to school may on the other hand originate at home. Perhaps your management is wrong, or things are awry in the home atmosphere among the adults, especially father and mother.

The school trouble may, as another thought, have a physical origin. A child whose sight or hearing isn't adequate, one who is always tired, or actually has some physical defect, just can't carry on his school work cheerfully and well. These causes of poor results in school are overlooked to a surprising degree by both teachers and parents.

These are some of the causes of your child's classroom troubles. Look sharp, put your mind to work and find out the reason why your child isn't doing well in school.

Orange Coffee Cake—Meltingly Tender—So Easy to Make

Sift together 2 cups of flour (sift flour once before measuring), 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, and ½ cup sugar. Grate the outermost yellow from the rind of 1 orange and add 1 tablespoon of it to the flour mixture. Add ¼ cup Star Lard and cut in as for biscuits. (You'll find Star Lard mixes faster and easier because it's texturated—an exclusive Armour process that improves Star Lard. Star Lard is easier to measure, too, because it comes in the self-measuring carton. Just cut along dotted lines to get ¼ cup—this saves waste and mess!)

Beat 1 Cloverbloom egg. Add juice of 1 orange mixed with enough water to make ½ cup. Add to flour, mixing just enough to moisten the flour. Spread in oiled 9 or 10 inch layer cake pan. Brush top with melted butter and sprinkle with mixture of 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon or allspice and 1 teaspoon orange rind. Bake at 400° F. for 20 to 30 minutes. Cut and serve hot or cold.

These undesirable coffee acids can be "cured out" by aging the coffee in hot, humid, tropical climates. Richelieu pays the price to get coffees thus properly cured. Then blends them with a skill gained through 82 years of experience.

On the Beam? Yes, but Think of Future, Too

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the SOLID side

There comes a time in every gal's existence when she wants to make a change. Everything may be going her way, mild and mellow, strictly on the well buttered side; life may be in the moonlight and roses department with nothing to worry about just because she has long shiny hair, two extra sweaters, and a smooth date for every Friday night. Her grades at school are just below ceiling, the teachers think she is wonderful people, she has at least three boys believing she's out of this atmosphere and all the local honey-chiles like her, too—but there's still something missing.

She wants to make a change; the time has come for some serious thinking. To her, Harry James is something to rave about, she's got Robert Crumm marked down in her books and, of course, there are a few neighborhood joes she likes more than somewhat who keep life interesting. She's well satisfied with the present, but she now wants something more than a mere date-to-date existence—she's beginning to worry about the future. This particular young character begins to realize that she can't sit around listening to Sinatra recordings all her life and she'd better wake up and put the show on the road. She wants to be more than just an extra on the hit parade, a real 20-20 little squab who knows the score!

So the gal gets to thinking. She mulls over what she would like to do when she finishes school, where she is most apt to fit, and what she can do best. Maybe she is efficient on the typewriter or feels most at home in art class with paints and brushes. Maybe she's got a touch of footlight fever, an urge to be in on the post-war aviation field, or a future picture of herself in a nurse's uniform. She realizes that a smart gal puts in the ground work, the walking around work while she's still young. Now's the time to start!

So just to straighten out the thoughts of those gals who haven't yet made up their minds about careers, we're going to run some inside facts on the main queens, a few big time characters who have turned on the bright lights in their particular fields. You may find your own ambitions pattern after theirs and a few hints from these on-the-beam women may help you find your own groove.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

The question of whether to make a penalty double or to try for game is much harder to decide at duplicate than at rubber bridge. For example:

East, dealer.

NORTH.
♠ K J 6 3
♥ J 10 8 5
♦ 3 5

WEST.
♠ 8 5
♥ Q 9 2
♦ K 10 4 2
♣ K Q 6 3

EAST.
♠ Q 7 4 2
♥ A K 6 4 3
♦ J 7
♣ A 2

SOUTH.
♠ A 10 9
♥ 7
♦ A Q 9 8 3
♣ J 8 5 4

The bidding:

East	South	West	North

West has a difficult decision to make when South overcalls with two diamonds. At rubber bridge, since defeat of two diamonds seems certain whereas game for East-West is highly problematic, the expert West would simply double and let it go at that. If it turns out that he could have made a game, he probably will not be much the loser, because he will have picked up 500 points, or at least 300, on the double, and still have almost a 3 to 1 chance for the rubber.

At duplicate, however, no such philosophy applies. If West settles for anything short of a 700 point penalty he will get a bad match-point score if game was possible for his side. Yet, even at duplicate, the double is the best action. Certainly, West cannot afford to pass with so much strength. If he bids, however, he can say nothing more constructive than two hearts. He scarcely can venture two no trump with a worthless doubleton in spades; a three club bid would be atrocious, and his heart support is not great enough for a jump raise.

It is dangerously likely that the two heart bid will not prove sufficiently encouraging to East and that he may have to pass—as indeed he would in this specific case. Thus, if West does bid two hearts, he is apt to find that he has traded the opportunity for a double for nothing more than a part score.

appear in a concert which is the first step in the establishment of the Gregor Piatigorsky fund for promising young American composers. The Composers' seminar of the department of music, which arranged the concert, will begin activities next fall. Some of those who have taken boxes for tonight's performance are the Charles B. Goodspeeds, Harold Swift, Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Miller, and the John U. Nefs.

The Cordon also is entertaining after this afternoon's concert, with Frederick A. Sweet, associate curator of painting and sculpture at the Art institute, as guest speaker. An exhibition by women painters and sculptors who have won prizes at the institute will be opened simultaneously.

The English-Speaking union will serve tea this afternoon, too, with Mrs. Harold C. Smith as hostess.

Another tea is one which Mrs. Gordon C. Thorne is giving at 4 p. m. at home for the women's auxiliary of the Augustana hospital. A new room at the hospital is being dedicated to Mrs. Thorne's son, Montgomery Ward Thorne.

Mrs. Jack Cookman Hand is giving a farewell tea today for Miss Martha Schueler, who leaves Sunday to be married in Los Angeles March 11 to Hamilton Herman of Highland Park.

The next to the last in the series of Evening Parties for juniors and seniors along the north shore will be a roller skating party tonight at the Arcadia rink. From 11 to 12 p. m. the rink is reserved for an exhibition of roller skating and the teaching of waltzing especially for that group.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

A new billet, occupational therapist, has been added to the long list of interesting jobs awaiting women in the WAVES. Women, to be eligible, must have attended an approved school of occupational therapy and have had two years of recent experience, in addition to other qualifications. Accepted recruits immediately enter officer training at the navy school at Smith college, Northampton, Mass., and receive the rating of ensign upon graduation.

Other officer candidate openings in the WAVES are those for women who can qualify in radar-radio, aerology, and work in the supply corps. Lt. Margaret H. Cecil, senior WAVES recruiting officer for Illinois, reports the navy needs women urgently in these fields, as well as in occupational therapy.

Candidates for radar-radio training must have had a college major in advanced mathematics, including calculus and physics. The same requirements apply to aerologists, women in navy blue who chart the weather at naval air stations. Supply corps candidates must have commercial background, with training in statistics, accounting, and market analysis.

Women filling the requirements and who are between 20 and 35 are urged to contact Lt. Cecil in her office, room 300, Board of Trade building.

Navy, marine, and coast guard women will share with men the benefits to be derived from the opening of a new office of the Navy Relief society in room 1025 at 333 N. Michigan av. The Great Lakes auxiliary of the society announces the new unit has been set up to assist naval personnel and their dependents in the Chicago area in obtaining aid from the auxiliary.

Headquarters of the auxiliary is at Great Lakes naval training station and serves 13 states in the 9th naval district. Raymond G. Mulcahey, welfare specialist 1st class, will be the Navy Relief society's representative in the Chicago office.

Families of navy men and women are invited to present their problems, either by personal visit or by phone. The number is Andover 5130.

The Chicago unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services is sponsoring a preview showing this evening of the Russian film, with English dialogue, "No Greater Love," at the World Playhouse. National headquarters of AWVS selected the film, which depicts Soviet women's work in behalf of the war, as a factor in the organization's efforts to help recruit women for both military and volunteer services.

Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh, first vice chairman of AWVS, will give the address of welcome to the audience, which will be admitted by invitation only. She also will introduce the guest speaker, Alvin J. Steinkopf, news analyst. Chicago representatives of the women's uniformed services are expected to make short talks.

Ensign Lillian M. Pimlott will speak for the WAVES, Capt. Roma Scott for the WAC, Lt. Mary K. Daly for the SPARS, and Lt. Florence Bailey for the marine corps women's reserve.

Donations totaling $5,500 for the benefit of wounded veterans who will receive care at the new Vaughan general hospital at Hines, Ill., were accepted from two women's volunteer war organizations this week by Brig. Gen. Percy J. Carroll, commanding officer of the new military, medical installation. Mrs. Gilbert L. Jones, treasurer of Bundles for America, presented a check for $2,500, and Mrs. Nelle H. Bosworth, commander of the Women's Defense Corps of America, gave $3,000 from her organization.

Cellist Kurtz Shares Success with Orchestra

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw conducting; Edmund Kurtz, cellist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, March 2, 1944, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:

Symphony No. 4, D minor....Schumann
Concerto for Violoncello, D minor..Lalo
"Don Quixote," Fantastic Variations on a Theme of Knightly Character ....Strauss
Solo Violoncello, Mr. Kurtz.
Solo Viola, Milton Preves.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Edmund Kurtz, principal cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, appeared as its soloist at Orchestra hall last night, under the direction of Désiré Defauw, and achieved what was in several ways his major success in Chicago. Mr. Kurtz is a reliable musican, but his solo playing has not invariably possessed the richness of tone or style to carry stellar billing. Last night he twice repudiated such limitations. In the intermezzo of the Lalo concerto he played with a glancing verve and charm that caught both the Spanish backbone of the music, and its elegance of French style. And in the death scene of Richard Strauss' fabulous "Don Quixote" he played with a tenderness, an understanding, and a projection worthy of the score.

On the whole, this was an interesting, often a fascinating, but not a completely convincing "Don Quixote." Mr. Defauw made it a theme and variations, often beautifully played, but he lost the character of the Don by depriving the music of its sustained, almost breathtaking drama. It had no suspense, save at the very end, but it had some brilliant episodes, a few in the full orchestra, but more of them held for the solo interludes of Mr. Preves' viola, which made Sancho Panza a fine fellow indeed, and for Mr. Weicher's violin and Mr. Vito's cascading harp.

The Lalo Concerto, an aristocratic work of great charm, was agreeably played, particularly in the intermezzo, which earned a spontaneous outburst of applause. The rest of it would have profited from greater variety of tone and a clearer view of the music's patrician profile, but it was a clean performance and made agreeable listening. Not quite so much could be said for Schumann's Fourth Symphony. It was by no means the fiasco that marked Mr. Defauw's performance of the work at Ravinia last summer, but it was undistinguished. The orchestra took on a rough, unfocused quality of tone, and there was a whiplash ending that anticipated the coda. It was a singularly undramatic performance, altho its major aim was the theatrical.

Screen's 'Song of Bernadette' Is Work of Beauty and Dignity

"THE SONG OF BERNADETTE."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

For those who believe in God, no explanation is necessary. For those who do not—there is no explanation.—Foreword to "The Song of Bernadette."

Audiences are very quiet as the story of the peasant girl of Lourdes, unto whom appeared "the beautiful lady in a white veil, a blue girdle, and with gold roses on her feet" and thru the medium of whose faith was eventually established the shrine of Lourdes, unreels with dignity, beauty—and a great deal of suspense.

The author has said that he is delighted with the manner in which his material is presented, and well he can be. The picture embodies a masterly job of assembling a canny choice of cast, direction of true discernment, and photography that is hauntingly beautiful.

You have read a great deal about the young unknown, Jennifer Jones. You will want to read a great deal more about her after you have seen her as Bernadette. She opened up to the requirements of the role as naturally as a rose to the sunshine. She is completely and exquisitely natural both as the rapt mystic and the rather stupid child.

It is an inspired performance, magnificently buoyed up by the other portrayals. Most notable are those of Charles Bickford as dean of Lourdes, Vincent Price as imperial prosecutor, and Anne Revere as Bernadette's mother.

The varied predicaments into which Bernadette's vision, her unvarying affirmation of it, and the massing of the town's people to her defense, throw high officials of church and civic government provide episodes in richly humorous contrast to the generally quiet whole.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 2.—We talk about the miracle in "Song of Bernadette," but not much about Metro's miracle. Her name is Margaret O'Brien. I'm hoping we won't overwork this miracle. We want her to remain with us a long time, and if she's put in too many pictures, even the public who worships her may tire. She's so natural, adorable, and coöperative I'm afraid we're treating her like another child. She isn't just another child. She's something extraordinary. And let's not forget it for one second. . . . Before Rosalind Russell gets herself so involved that nobody will believe her, she had better stop making statements about the Sister Kenny picture. Both Roz and R. K. O., after getting a million dollars worth of publicity on Elizabeth Kenny's name and good deeds, turned the picture down, altho everybody was standing by at the studio to build sets, make her costumes, and go into production. Nobody's had greater respect for Roz than I. But lately she's allowed her manager to announce her for half a dozen different pictures, which in Hollywood is a sure indication that you're slipping. I hope for her sake she isn't. But if she keeps on making alibis about Sister Kenny, she will.

Health Comes First.

Merle Oberon was en route to catch a train for New York when Mike Levee said, "Merle, you look as tho you had a fever." They stopped at a drugstore, borrowed a thermometer, and sure enough, she had. So she went home. Now Alexander Korda, if he can get a plane out, will come here for a day before his big huddle with Nick Schenck and Louis B. Mayer in New York. . . . Carlyle Blackwell, looking mighty well, lingers longer in our town. He's taken a house. Two studios want to sign him. . . . At Orson Welles' radio show, you get two performances. Before he goes on the air he does a complete magic show. I see David Selznick has bought Houdini's life for Joe Cotten. Joe not only sounds like Orson, but Orson's taught him all his magic tricks as well.

A Bit of Predicting.

I'll lay a wager that when "Blithe Spirit" opens, Peggy Wood, Clifton Webb, and Mildred Natwick will be offered movie contracts. And the first one signed will be Mildred Natwick. Walter Plunkett throws a cocktail party for Peggy Wood and Paul Clements Sunday. . . . Gregory La Cava finally found a story he likes. He'll be getting into harness in a few weeks. It's about time. He's one of our finest directors, and we can ill afford to let his talent go into discard. . . . Jimmy McHugh and Frank Adamson have a new one, "How Many Times Do I Have to Tell You?" for Gale Robbins. She sings it in "In the Meantime, Darling" for Twentieth Century. . . . We'll welcome Joe E. Lewis at Slapsie Maxie's March 14. I hope he and Slapsie have a routine worked out together. . . . Yvette has recovered sufficiently from that Lisbon crash to come to Hollywood and open at the Clover club soon.

It's an Oft Told Tale.

Last week only one WAC picture was announced. That was "A WAVE, a WAC, and a marine." Now Metro's got one coming up. Warners has one under consideration, and Otto Preminger has signed Anne Baxter and Bill Eythe for "All Out, Arlene." . . . Carlos Ramirez, singing at the Clover club, is making himself many friends here. . . . Ann Dvorak advertised for a housekeeper, and thought she had a good one until the woman said, "One thing—I'll have to have much time off." "Why?" asked Ann. "I'm an artist and am arranging a one woman exhibition." . . . A hungry girl applied to Lana Turner for a job. She didn't get a job, but left with a bill large enough to take care of her for a month. . . . John Warburton tries to land Lana in "Marriage Is a Private Affair." She doesn't go for his type of love-making, so he proposes to her mother, played by Natalie Schafer. . . . The way "Junior Miss" has been tossed around here reminds me of when Sam Goldwyn tried to buy "Life with Father." There were so many restrictions on its sale that Sam said to Oscar Serlin, "I love you—but, O, those Ten Commandments of yours!"

No Greater Compliment.

Laird Cregar told me a funny one. The day "The Lodger" opened in New York, he was riding to his floor in the elevator. He was the only one in it. Girl handling the controls said, "What floor, please?" He gave it. Then she turned around to look at him, and let out one horrible scream. She'd just come from the theater and watched him commit murder. . . . Ran into Fred Astaire at Metro and was he smiling! He's already perfected three routines for the Ziegfeld picture, and is purring about the coöperation he's getting there. . . . "Ave Maria" is a strange tune for the dance Pancho and Diane do at the Troc. . . . Marlene Dietrich is on her way to New York and her overseas jaunt with a packet of new clothes, made featherweight. She can take only 55 pounds along. But if those black lace nighties that have become evening gowns don't make our soldiers gasp, I'll miss my guess.

HAWKS TOP BRUINS, 4-2; TIE FOR THIRD PLACE

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE fractured vertebrae which cost the Chicago Cardinals the services of big Floyd Rhea, former Oregon guard, last season, have disabled him for army duty, too. . . . Floyd, with a permanent 1-C rating, is seeking a coaching job on the Pacific coast. . . . Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman would like to see Alabama and Minnesota meet annually on the gridiron after the war. . . . When you consider that the major leagues could operate with a total of 320 players, that is, 20 to a club, this talk of possible discontinuation sounds more absurd than ever. . . . John Intlekofer, a pretty good Southern association pitcher, has been discharged from the army and will be back with Little Rock this season. . . . The Dodgers had a player named Bill Terry in 1888. . . . The Shipstad brothers and Johnson, owners of the traveling Ice Follies, have bought a controlling interest in the Portland, Ore., ice arena and a franchise in the dormant Pacific Coast Hockey league. . . . Umpire Bill Kelly of the American association has been dropped by the army because of his age—43—and will be calling them again, come April. . . . Bill Hulse, who is winning fame as a mile runner, began his athletic career as a high jumper. . . . Lt. Don Budge is the only tennis player ever to sweep all the major championships, from England to Australia. . . . George Barton of the Minneapolis Star-Journal and Tribune, who has been recording American association activities since 1904, has seen five no-hit games. . . . The one he remembers best occurred July 13, 1913, when the late Jim Baskette of Toledo hurled a no-hitter and lost it, 1 to 0. . . . Jim regarded "13" as a hoodoo forever afterward. . . . U. C. L. A. will have no spring football practice this year, but that does not mean the Uclans will not be ready for the 1944 campaign. . . . Because of the new three term program Coach Babe Horrell will hold his practice session in July. . . . Dolph Camilli, Oakland's new manager, hopes to pitch a few games this summer when not covering first base. . . . Dolph did a lot of chucking in batting practice for the Dodgers.

Dolph Camilli.

Floyd Rhea.

They tell this one on Lt. Comdr. Jimmy Crowley: When Jim was a sophomore at Notre Dame he showed promise as a sprinter before Knute Rockne decided the football team needed him more than the track team. . . . Jim was downtown in South Bend late one night, two and a half miles from the campus, when he met the university's prefect of discipline. . . . Glancing at a nearby clock, which read 11:58, the prefect remarked: "James, do you know you are due back at school in just two minutes?" . . . "Yes, Father," replied Jim. . . . "Do you think you can make it?" was the next query. . . . Crowley pondered for a moment and then drawled: "I'm afraid not; not against this wind."

To the Lilacs.

Deep was the snow where the lilacs had bloomed,
The winter wind was howling thru the park,

A relic of the frolic of the spring—
Still pointing "To the Lilacs," as in May,

The sign points "To the Lilacs" as before,
The snow will melt and spring will come again.

—W. J. Griffith.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks, local standard bearers of our hockey colors, last night gratified a crowd of 11,913 ice fans by trimming the Boston Bruins, 4 to 2, in the Chicago Stadium. The victory was so satisfying that Manager Paul Thompson's gents went out of the west side amphitheater confident that they are going to accomplish the job that they didn't last year—that of making the Stanley cup playoffs.

Last Sunday, in their battle against the New York Rangers, the Chicagoans failed to produce any scoring achievements by their best line—Clint Smith, Doug Bentley, and Bill Mosienko. Last night that threesome turned in their best work of the now dwindling season against the Bostonians, who always have been one of their worst hexes. The victory restored the Hawks to their third place tie with Toronto, and left the New Englanders stranded in fifth position in the standing, four games back of our boys.

First Line Delivers.

Cully Dahlstrom, the old timer who pulled the hat trick against the Rangers on Sunday, wasn't up to that three goal trick last evening, but the high scoring line of Bentley, Mosienko, and Smith, one of the sharpest forward sets in National league history, did deliver.

Clint began scoring in 90 seconds of the opening period, driving in just in time to pick up a pass from Baker Art Wiebe and thereby beat his old goal guardian, Bert Gardiner. That goal looked very handsome until Norman Calladine of the Bruins, a young blond who might have fitted in nicely with the old Boston Sauerkraut line, darted out of a Chicago rush with the puck and transferred it to Pat Egan, the former Detroit defense man. Pat, somewhat amazed at his reception of same, thought it timely to bat the disc past Mike Karakas of the Hawks.

Blackhawks Go Ahead.

The Chicagoans moved into a 2 to 1 lead after Smith and Wiebe had maneuvered the puck into shooting space for Mosienko, who collected his evening goal in the ninth minute of play. Calladine then decided, about four minutes later, to get a goal for himself, accomplishing same with the coöperation of Bill Cowley and Busher Jackson. Then Doug Bentley, the hardest working citizen of the night, waited until only 10 seconds of the second period remained before he accepted a pass from Smith and fired it past Gardiner from the right side.

Frank [King] Clancy, the old Toronto bane of the Hawks, who was referee, ran into a small collision in the 17th minute of the first period, which caused that stanza to be reduced to 17 minutes and the second extended to 23 minutes. The king wasn't too hard pressed in the jurisdiction department, being forced to assess only one penalty, a holding charge against Egan in the sixth minute of the third period. That also saw Chicago's Smith fire the finishing goal on assists from his two line mates, Mosienko and Bentley. The threesome gave the customers hope that they are up to carrying out a Stanley cup assignment.

HAWK IN ENEMY TERRITORY—AND ALL ALONE

Cully Dahlstrom of the Blackhawks makes a sortie into Bruin territory with no friendly sticks to aid him. He has just slipped to his knees after taking a shot at the Boston goal. Goalie Bert Gardiner passes the puck (arrow) to Norm Calladine (at left). Bep Guidolin, Bruin left wing, is behind the cage and Pat Egan, Bruin defenseman, is in back of Dahlstrom. The game, played in Chicago Stadium last night, was won by the Hawks. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

CLEVELAND AND PEORIA LEAD IN GOLDEN GLOVES

Team Standings

Cleveland	4	Chanute Field	1
Peoria	4	Columbus	1
Fort Worth	3	Fort Wayne	1
St. Louis	3	Los Angeles	1
Chicago	2	Memphis	1
Gary	2	Minneapolis	1
Kansas City	2	Pensacola	1
Milwaukee	2	Sioux City	1
Omaha	2

While the echoes of the most sensational Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions were still bouncing off the far reaches of the Chicago Stadium early yesterday morning, the older watchers in boxing's top show were discovering that the cast for next Friday night's finals in the same ring will include a few perennials in the argument for the team championship.

Out of the Wednesday night program which had brought the best boxers from 24 states, shone the familiar maroon and gold colors of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The Ohioans already hold six out of town trophies, and the workmanship of four of their lads Wednesday night has convinced all except another foursome from the Peoria Journal Transcript that the Plain Dealer squad annually comes up with the best men in the tournament. The Peorians this year returned to the final lists with a quartet of boys who will be hard to beat.

Chicago Has Bratton, Brown.

The 14,150 spectators who cheered the Tournament of Champions conclusion until 12:36 yesterday morning found a few dissenters against the anticipated supremacy of Cleveland and Peoria. Chief among these were the Fort Worth Star-Telegram team, which qualified three, and the St. Louis Globe Democrat, which also sent a trio into the battle which will line up the Chicago crew for the intercity bouts against New York in Madison Square Garden on March 27.

Chicago't own team, which had gone into Wednesday's scrimmage with a record of six qualifiers, found its final personnel pared to two, but that pair was the two who had proved themselves the strongest of the home town kids when the local finals were held in the Marigold Gardens on Feb. 14. They were Johnny Bratton, as efficient a lightweight as you will run across in the long record of Golden Gloves, and Collins Brown of the Catholic Youth organization, the Negro postal employe who has one of the most potent right hands in the field.

Heavyweights Have That Punch.

The heavyweight foursome in the finals next Friday will bring together one of those combinations capable of putting on a fistic jam session anywhere. All of them are service men, and all have been in Golden Gloves before. The pairings for the semi-finals and the results thereafter may not work out to the satisfaction of their immediate followers, but put together names such as Pvt. Ragon Kinney of Camp Callan, Cal.; Sgt. Eddie Sims of Cleveland; Aviation Cadet Orlan Ott of Fort Worth, and Corp. William Gilliam of Peoria, and you have the ingredients for three of the most smashing bouts of this or any other season.

Flyweights Can Punch, Too.

Jumping down from the heavier class, the clientele next Friday will witness a grand flyweight set in Mike O'Leary of Omaha, Tommy Nate of Gary, Frank O'Hern of Minneapolis, and Ralph Riess of St. Louis. Then they won't have to wait for further excitement until they get into the 118 pound set, where they will see two knockout practitioners in Pvt. Frank Tunstill of Columbus, O., and Clayton Johnson of Sioux City, Ia., and a durable pair of lads who can take and give—Virgil Zakhi, the Fort Wayne fireman, and Corp. Dick Roche of Pensacola.

PREP WINNERS TO MEET APRIL 8

2d Annual Title Game Is Set for Stadium.

The junior and senior champions of the City league and the Catholic league will meet in the second annual high school basketball benefit double header in the Chicago Stadium on Saturday, April 8, Director Jack Anderson announced yesterday. The announcement followed a meeting of the Rev. James E. McDonnell, C. M., president of the Catholic league; August Pritzlaff, physical education director of the public schools; Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, and Anderson. Proceeds will go to the service men's centers.

Play-offs Have Started.

The meeting came after a week of rumors during which various sources reported the game either would or would not be held. Some 19,000 jammed the Stadium last year to see Mount Carmel's senior team defeat Kelvyn Park, 48 to 24, after Marshall High school had defeated the Mount Carmel juniors, 21 to 12, for its 81st consecutive victory.

Play-offs in the City league now are under way, not only to determine the champion in both the junior and senior divisions, but also to name Chicago's representative in the state tournament which will be held at the University of Illinois on March 16, 17, and 18. Members of the Catholic league will close their league schedule tonight with Mount Carmel and Weber already assured of the senior crowns in the south and north sections, respectively.

Open Sale Next Week.

Weber also has captured the north section junior title for the third year, while the winner of the south section crown depends on tonight's game. Mount Carmel and Joliet Catholic both have a chance to win.

Tickets for the benefit double header will be on sale next week, Room 1033, 33 N. La Salle st., for adults. Student tickets probably will be on sale at the varous schools thruout the city, using the same plan as last year.

BEAU JACK 1 TO 2 CHOICE TO BEAT MONTGOMERY

New York, March 2 (AP).—Beau Jack, holder of the world lightweight championship [New York version], has been installed 1 to 2 favorite over Bob Montgomery for tomorrow night's fight in Madison Square garden.

Jack, ex-bootblack from Augusta, Ga., was a pound under the 135 pound lightweight limit after today's final workout while Montgomery weighed 136¾.

The bout will be the third between the two. Montgomery won the first one last May, and Jack took the second encounter in November. Gate receipts exceeding $90,000 are anticipated by Promoter Mike Jacobs.

De Paul to Battle Wisconsin; Irish vs. Camp Grant Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The program of Stadium double headers ends tonight with the 10th presentation which sends De Paul university, midwestern champion, against Wisconsin and Notre Dame against Camp Grant's Warriors. DePaul is seeking its fifth victory in six games played this year with Western conference opponents.

By their 61 to 49 overtime victory a week ago over Ohio State the Demons prepared the way for their claim to midwestern honors. This claim can not be denied if DePaul finishes tonight with a conquest of the Badgers, who are assured at least of a share of third place in the final standings of the conference race, ending tomorrow night. DePaul has beaten Indiana, Chicago, Purdue, and Ohio State, but was whipped by Illinois for one of three defeats in 21 games.

Badgers Upset by Purdue.

Wisconsin has lost three conference games, an upset by Purdue preventing the Badgers from still seeking to share conference honors with the Buckeyes who have finished their campaign with 10 victories and two defeats. Iowa can tie Ohio State if it sweeps the series with Northwestern, but since Ohio State holds two victories over the Hawkeyes, Ohio State generally is rated the superior team.

In Notre Dame's last appearance in the Stadium the Irish defeated Great Lakes, 54 to 51, in the most surprising game of the season. Notre Dame had been beaten in the first contest of the series at the naval training station, 84 to 48. Notre Dame returns for the Camp Grant game with the distinction of having whipped Iowa last Saturday night, 66 to 42.

Klier Can Tie Record.

Leo Klier, Notre Dame's dependable forward, has scored 271 points in 18 games. If he can get 20 points tonight he will tie the university record held by Johnny Moir. The latter played in 21 games, however, to establish his mark.

The Camp Grant-Notre Dame game starts tonight at 8:15. Lineups:

Camp Grant.		Notre Dame.
Hogan	F	Klier
Niemiera	F	Kivisto
Davis	C	Kaufman
Rottner	G	Lujack
Szugala	G	Kelly
De Paul.		Wisconsin.

Japs Shout, 'To Hell with Ruth;' Marines Fan 30

CAPE GLOUCESTER, New Britain [Delayed]—(AP).—This will be news to the Babe, but Staff Sgt. Jeremiah A. O'Leary, a marine corps combat correspondent, reports that Japs, evidently eager to display their impoverished English vocabulary, charged marines lines shouting the strange battle cry, "To hell with Babe Ruth!" The charge was scored as an error. Thirty Japs were struck out for good.

Babe Ruth.

Alsab Thru with Florida; He'll Race in the East

Miami, Fla., March 2 (AP).—Albert Sabath announced today that his horse Alsab will not race in Florida, but has been entered in a series of stake races at the eastern tracks this spring and summer.

BREWERS LOSE HERNANDEZ TO HORNSBY'S CLUB

MEXICO CITY, March 2 (AP).—Catcher Salvador [Chico] Hernandez of the Milwaukee Brewers has signed a contract to play with Vera Cruz in the Mexican league season opening March 16, according to Jorge Pasquel, president of the club which Rogers Hornsby will manage.

Pasquel said Hernandez will receive 5,000 pesos [approximately $1,000] monthly and will arrive from Havana next week to start training.

Hernandez was traded to the Milwaukee club by the Chicago Cubs in a deal involving Third Baseman Don Johnson last fall.

TEMPLE FIVE TO PLAY IN N. C. A. A. MEET IN GARDEN

New York, March 2 (AP).—Temple university today accepted an invitation to compete in the eastern eliminations of the National Collegiate Athletic association basketball tournament in Madison Square Garden March 24-25.

Temple's choice means that undefeated Army will not compete. Both are in district 2. Dartmouth, eastern intercollegiate champions, will represent district 1; Ohio State, Big Ten leader, district 4, and Duke, Southern conference winner, probably will be chosen in district 3.

WILDCATS PLAY IOWA TONIGHT

Hawkeyes Must Win to Keep in Race.

Iowa City, Ia., March 2 [Special].—Seeking their first share of the Big Ten basketball title in 18 years, the Iowa Hawkeyes will meet Northwestern here tomorrow night in the first of a two game series.

Recalling that before the season opened they were rated a second division club, the Hawkeyes boast a conference record of eight victories and two losses. A double triumph over Northwestern would give Iowa in a title tie with Ohio State.

Iowa Has Power.

As usual, the Iowans will look to Dick Ives and Dave Danner for the heavy scoring needed to beat the patched but dangerous Wildcat team. Ives, currently the Big Ten's leading pointmaker, and Danner, in fourth place, have a chance to finish first and second, a feat which last was accomplished by two players from the same team in 1933.

Against Iowa's offensive average of 51 points a game, Northwestern will throw the Big Ten's No. 1 defense which has allowed opponents only 40 points a game.

Leave at Noon Today.

To abide by the navy's 48 hour travel rule, the Northwestern players will not leave Chicago until tomorrow noon, arriving in Iowa City just two hours before game time.

Probably starting lineup:

Iowa.		Northwestern.
Ives	F	Schumacher
Danner	F	Anderson
Herwig	C	Felt
Postels	G	Schadler
Spencer	G	Clawson

NAVY SHIFTS 2 ILLINOIS STARS TO NOTRE DAME

Champaign, Ill., March 2 [Special].—Don Lesher and Rudy Krall, Illinois freshman football prospects, received orders today transferring them to Notre Dame for training in the navy's V-5 program. Lesher, 205 pounder from Lake View High in Chicago, and Krall, 195 pounder from Wallace High in Gary, were all-state full backs in Illinois and Indiana, respectively, during the 1943 prep season.

Angott Bout Postponed Because of Coast 'Mist'

Los Angeles Cal., March 2 (AP).—The state athletic commission today announced postponement of the N. B. A. lightweight championship fight between Juan Zurita and Sammy Angott, scheduled for Monday night in the Hollywood baseball park for two days, until the following Wednesday night. The commission said the playing field will be covered with canvass in an effort to dry out the ground, drenched by recent heavy rains.

Cubs' Mr. Jim Gallagher Remains Unruffled.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bill Nicholson, the Cub fly chaser, yesterday was revealed as trying to put on the squeeze play at the expense of Vice President James Gallagher. Nicholson, who is farming in Maryland, informed inquirers he hadn't signed his contract, altho not sending it back. He added he had written headquarters as to the possibilities of a slight boost in the ante. Nicholson was given a raise last year, and his 1944 contract is supposed to have provided another increase.

Nicholson's eagerness to put on the pressure thru the newspapers failed to ruffle Gallagher's disposition. Gallagher doesn't even admit there is such a man. He knows nothing of Nicholson's attempting to grub for bigger stakes. In fact, Gallagher, who regards signings as routine, refuses to worry mainly because the season doesn't open until April 18.

The only item Gallagher will admit, and then only under pressure, is that he has a lot of signed contracts on hand. But he's not naming names, not even admitting Lou Novikoff's acceptance, which the Mad Russian personally rushed to the newspaper offices a month ago.

Harry Grabiner, White Sox president, dipped into his contract bag yesterday and fished out two more documents duly signed by Pitcher Al Epperly and Infielder Cass Kwietneski, the latter a Detroit semi-pro who joined the Sox late last season. Epperly, who had a trial with the Cubs, was recruited from the Pacific Coast league.

Nothing may be said about it until later, but the presumption is that Thornton Lee, the Sox's left handed giant, who was in Chicago yesterday, will begin the season on a $1 per year basis. Lee started that way last spring due to the uncertainty about his previously invaluable left arm. During the season he was put on a regular wage basis, but subsequently experienced a recurrence of trouble which led to surgical treatment last fall. Whether the shoulder hitch has been corrected will be known definitely only after he has done some serious pitching. This attempt may not be made until after summer weather arrives.

IDEA POT BOILS FOR INDUSTRY'S POST-WAR AIMS

Research Goal: Get Jump on Rivals.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The competitive spirit of American industry is churning up new ideas that promise to bring surprises in the manufacturing field when the war ends. Results of the present competition are not visible but will be apparent to all when civilian production gets under way, it is predicted.

Under normal conditions the advantage that a manufacturer gains by a striking improvement in his product may be short lived. It is quickly known to his competitor who can copy or improve on it.

Today every alert manufacturer is studying the opportunities and problems he will face when the war ends. He is working by himself and is under no necessity to share the results of his work with competitors. Nor does he know what his competitors are doing. He hopes to have surprises to spring on them after the war and in turn may be on the receiving end of some surprises.

May Gain Advantage.

A manufacturer may be a year or two ahead of his competitors on development work on a particular product when the war ends, an advantage that will not be lost quickly.

Manufacturers whose engineering staffs are fully occupied with the problems of war production are farming out development work to independent designers, engineers, and development men. This is an innovation for the larger manufacturers who in the past have customarily carried on this type of development work exclusively within their own organizations.

Some industrial consulting firms are doing a flourishing business because they offer engineering brains, expert designing help, and other services which are difficult to obtain under present war conditions.

Post-War Research Increasing.

One Chicago firm, Barnes & Reinecke, has a staff of 107 specialists who are busy on development work for industrial concerns. Much of the work is in connection with war production jobs but an increasing share relates to post-war products.

Such firms not only submit suggestions for improvements in established products; they offer ideas for entirely new products which a manufacturer may produce with his existing equipment.

James F. Barnes, one of the partners of the firm, predicts that many upsets will occur in the manufacturing field after the war. Many companies, he points out, have acquired new equipment and manufacturing skills which they hope to turn to profitable use after the war production jobs ends.

New Experience Valued.

Some companies have acquired a knowledge of precision work that they did not possess before the war. They hope to capitalize on this knowledge by branching out in fields in which they did not operate before the war. Other companies which have had a mushroom growth under war conditions will struggle to maintain their position, giving older established manufacturers new competition.

The notion that competition has been suspended for the duration of the war, an idea fostered by some spokesmen for industry, is not shared by the manufacturers themselves, according to Jean Reinecke, partner of Barnes. Manufacturers large and small are keenly aware of the situation in which they will find themselves after the war. The knowledge that their competitors may be getting ahead in development work in the present period of invisible competition is itself a spur to greater activity, he observed.

Department Store Sales Show 17 Per Cent Decline

Sales of department stores in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district dropped 17 per cent in both the week and the four weeks ended Feb. 26 from sales in the corresponding 1942 periods.

Retailers Give Vote Advice to Congressmen

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Illinois congressmen, up for reëlection this year, tonight got some advice from back home about what to promise in campaign speeches if they wish to win votes of Illinois storekeepers.

The Illinois Federation of Retail Associations gave a dinner at the Statler hotel for the state's delegation in congress. Senators Brooks and Lucas were out of town, but most of the Illinois congressmen turned out. Only five representatives of the retailers came to the capital to be hosts. J. T. Meek, executive secretary, told the congressmen most storekeepers don't have enough money to get out of town.

Letter Tells the Story.

Nobody made any speeches, but Meek slipped into the pocket of each lawmaker for later reading a letter urging more civilian goods production, less emphasis on a policy of scarcity, less of government in business, less red tape, a housecleaning of the government to permit supply and demand principles to function, and a lessening of controls that destroy incentive.

"Retailers must have goods to market," the letter said. "We need more emphasis on production, and far less on scarcity. We have got to have goods to sell. Making goods makes jobs, and making more goods makes lower prices. Controls that destroy incentive will have to be slackened as war permits.

Warn of Hollow Victory.

"Everything we do, and everything you do must be aimed at winning the war. But just as great an effort must be made to retain our system of free enterprise if we are not to have a hollow victory. One of your biggest jobs will be to get government out of private business. Don't let any one talk you out of a real need for controls as a war measure, but see that these controls are tapered to actual needs. There's too much red tape. What is needed is simplification in government, and to us simplification means cleaning a lot of government houses, eliminating overlapping."

The letter urged the congressmen to work for a policy that will facilitate the reconversion of industry to peace time production at every opportunity as a means of avoiding a long period of stagnation after the war.

FEBRUARY AIRPLANE OUTPUT IS INCREASED TO RECORD 350 A DAY

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Aircraft production climbed to a new peak rate of 350 planes a day in February, putting the total deliveries in the month ahead of schedule with a total of 8,760 planes accepted, Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the aircraft production board, announced today. Emphasis on heavier and longer range aircraft resulted in a 4 per cent increase in tonnage produced.

Wilson commended the entire industry on the February output, particularly on the uniformity in meeting or beating schedules. Forty-three aircraft plants equaled or exceeded their scheduled output by a small amount, which Wilson said indicated "sound scheduling and excellent achievement."

Lost Time Pay Urged as Aid to Job Shifting

Joint action by the regional war labor board and the regional war man power commission yesterday made it possible for employes shifting from less essential to war industries to receive full pay from the time they apply for new jobs.

Government agency heads said the action should remove one of the most serious barriers to transfer of workers from stores and offices to war industries, which must have 75,000 to 100,000 new workers within the next six months, WMC estimates.

Aid for Workers Urged.

Edgar L. Warren, WLB chairman, and William H. Spencer, WMC director, in a joint statement urged employers to "make it as easy as possible for a patriotic worker to give up his less essential job and take one where he is needed more."

In approving the plan, Warren said:

"If an employer desires to place an accepted employe on the pay roll from the time he originally reported seeking employment, and to pay him for the time the accepted employe spends filling out the necessary forms, taking his physical examination and being investigated by the army or navy, the war labor board would have no objections. Such a pay policy would not need WLB approval."

It takes an average of two full days from the time a prospective employe applies for work until he is finally accepted or rejected. This results in a loss to the new worker of at least 16 hours' pay unless his time card—when he is at last accepted—is dated back to the morning he applies.

Officials Indorse Program.

Army, navy, and other procurement agency officials said they believed the transfer of workers to war plants would be speeded materially if employers adopt the joint proposal. They themselves are making efforts to shorten the time required to investigate the applications for security approval, they said.

"Because it costs as much as $100, or even $500 or more, to employ and train a worker, I am sure the added cost of paying the new employe from the time he reports to ask for a job will be negligible," Spencer said.

NELSON TERMS COST-PLUS BAN BRAKE ON WAR

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—WPB Chairman Nelson today told congress a flat prohibition against cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts would hamper the vital aircraft and ship repair programs upon which an early military success depends.

Urging Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] to make more flexible the provisions of his proposed resolution to abolish the cost-plus system in favor of a fixed-price procedure, Nelson testified before a military subcommittee:

"I don't know how you can adopt a fixed price for airplane construction and allow for thousands of modifications that sometimes are necessary on the basis of actual tests of planes in battle. The same situation is true when you consider ship repairs. Repairs on battle-damaged ships are ordered before the ships get into port in many instances."

Yanks in Italy Build Rail Line to War Front

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, March 2.—Working close behind the firing lines, veteran American railroad men are writing new chapters of ingenuity and courage in the history of rail transportation.

Brig. Gen. Gray.

As part of the allied forces, they are doing essentially their usual railroading jobs and have put together in record time a virtually new Italian railroad system from the wreckage left by the retreating Germans. The project already is costing American taxpayers something over 20 million dollars, invested in new rolling stock for military purposes, plus millions for material, equipment, and overseas shipping costs.

North Western Man in Charge.

However, the expenditures are providing American and British forces with vitally needed transportation facilities to move troops and supplies, as well as comfortable and speedy evacuation of the wounded by special hospital trains.

Today, with a network of 2,400 miles from the toe of Italy to various points within enemy shell range, both the 5th and 8th army fronts' military railway service compares well with many top domestic companies, according to its commandant, Brig. Gen. Carl R. Gray Jr. of St. Paul, Minn. Before the war Gen. Gray was executive vice president of Chicago and North Western lines.

When the 4,000 mile railway system put together by the allies under similar circumstances in Africa also is taken into account, military railways in the Mediterranean approach the status of American lines developed over several decades.

95,000 Men Are Used.

A total of 95,000 men is working the African and Italian systems, including 6,000 experienced American railroaders, 1,500 Britons, and 1,000 Italians. The others are native laborers and maintenance men directed by a skilled crew chief.

It is the largest project of its kind in history, Gray said, and one in which a segment of democratic free enterprise is able to demonstrate its value in time of crisis.

The volume of traffic is a military secret and has increased steadily since the invasion of Italy. The Africa system handled peak loads of more than 250,000 tons a week. In view of this, it is not hard to understand the recent statement of Lt. Gen. Clark, 5th army commander:

"This headquarters well realizes that no satisfactory substitute for the rail supply of the army exists and congratulates the military railway service for its fine work for the army under extremely trying conditions."

Lines Ripped by Nazis.

The necessity for this little publicized side of allied overseas operations arises from the Nazis' talent to destroy other people's property. The German rear guard crippled the Italian railroads, using a special wrecking car, "the scarifier," which weighs several tons and has a huge hook which rips and breaks the ties and spreads the rails. At the same time, a dynamite charge blows out a section of rails every few hundred feet.

This machine, bridge demolitions, and track obstructions enabled the enemy to destroy more than 50 per cent of the pre-war rail lines in southern Italy.

Today, however, new and rebuilt lines cover all the territory held by the American and British forces.

[Another report on railroad building in Italy will be published soon.]

CHARGE PRICE CONTROL USED TO NULLIFY LAW

Chicago Rails Fight for Fare Boost.

Washington, D. C., March 2 [Special].—Chicago railroad attorneys charged today that two New Deal agencies, in opposing a recommended fare increase, had interpreted the war time price stabilization act as superseding the Constitution and authority granted by congress in the interstate commerce act.

The attempted usurpation of rate-making authority was attributed to the office of price administration and the office of economic stabilization in a hearing before the interstate commerce commission.

Robert E. Quirk, representing two Chicago electric railroads — the North Shore and South Shore lines —attacked the agencies' stands in his arguments for ICC approval of a 20 per cent increase in interstate commuter fares, as recommended by William A. Disque, an ICC examiner.

Increase Held Unnecessary.

Harry R. Booth, attorney for OPA and OES, upheld the administration's position, contending the proposed increase was "neither necessary nor justifiable" in view of the railroad industry's improved financial status. The increase would conflict with the government's program for keeping living costs down, he added.

The increase would apply to commuter rates between Chicago and points outside Illinois, principally towns along Lake Michigan in Wisconsin and Indiana. Altho interstate business comprises only a small part of the commuter service of Chicago railroads, the lines are pressing for approval of the recommended increase as a wedge in their fight for higher rates within Illinois.

The Illinois commerce commission has blocked their efforts to increase fares generally on the bulk of suburban business within the state, and only the North Western and Illinois Central have succeeded in obtaining court injunctions protecting 10 per cent increases already in effect on the two lines.

Insists Fares Are Too Low.

Quirk asserted fares now charged commuters do not cover service costs. He was supported by other railroad attorneys, including P. F. Gault, for the North Western and the Milwaukee lines, and Harry E. Boe, representing the Rock Island. They cited Supreme court decisions to the effect that railroads should not be forced to handle a particular type of traffic at the expense of others, which was the position taken by Disque in his recommended increase.

W. C. Wines, assistant Illinois attorney general, joined Booth in the opposition. He contended that approval of the interstate boost would "adversely affect" intrastate fares. The Chicago roads' suburban fare fight, which has been before the Illinois commission more than two years, is not expected to be decided until the current hearing has been concluded.

STOCK MARKET RISES ON GAINS BY SPECIALTIES

New York, March 2 (AP).—Buyers again leaned toward specialties in today's stock market and advances exceeded declines by a substantial margin.

Dividends and annual statements were the principal reasons for the return of modest amounts of investment capital. A number of rails, up at the start, slipped toward the last. Liquors, amusements, and assorted favorites closed with gains of fractions to a point or more, a number at new peaks for the year.

The Associated Press 60 stock average ended up 0.1 at 51.4, just 0.1 under the 1944 top. Transfers totaled 705,850 shares compared with 632,590 Wednesday.

CARRIERS PUSH BONDS UP.

New York, March 2 (AP).—Railroad securities supplied the main driving power in today's bond market. Some rose fractions to 2 points as most of the list lingered in a narrow range without a definite trend.

The advance was sufficiently broad to lift the Associated Press average 0.4 to 86.0, equalling the highest mark since 1937.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS AGAIN.

Chicago and North Western railway voting trust certificates yesterday were traded on the Chicago Stock exchange for the first time on a when issued basis. Four hundred shares were sold, reaching a high of 27 and closing at 26¾. The general list was higher again, altho transactions declined to 21,000 shares.

WFA Will Allocate Wheat; Report Efforts to Corner Rye

Bread Ration Step

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Allocation of wheat—the first step toward bread rationing—will be started before the harvesting of the 1944 crop begins in June, war food administration officials disclosed tonight.

Price Administrator Bowles at the same time told a press conference that actual bread rationing is not expected before June. He would make no predictions beyond that date.

Reserves Reported Low.

An official spokesman for the food distribution branch of WFA said that the nation's wheat reserves have shrunk to the point where allocation will be necessary to conserve supplies. It will be started in time to guide the movement of this year's crop, an official in the grain branch of WFA reported, and will be directed in such a way as to meet food, feed, alcohol, commercial export, lend-lease, and war relief needs as equitably as possible.

The allocation will be directed by M. Lee Marshall, head of food distribution, assisted by Edward J. Murphy, chief of the WFA grain branch and a veteran employe of the department of agriculture.

Confirms O'Brien's Statement.

The WFA grain branch confirmed the statement of Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, to a senate investigating committee yesterday that the nation is consuming four bushels of wheat now for every three bushels it can produce.

The department of agriculture reported that a crop of 836 million bushels of wheat was harvested last year but that a much smaller crop is in prospect this year. It said America consumed more than 670 million bushels of wheat in the last half of 1943 and well over a billion bushels in the whole year. In December it was estimated that a 750 million bushel crop was in prospect for 1944.

Trading at Record

Trading in rye futures reached record high levels on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, with prices up ⅞ to 1 cent a bushel. The action of the market and the fact rye has moved within a range of 10 cents a bushel in the last few weeks gave credence to reports of an attempt to corner the rye market, according to some brokers.

Holdings estimated at 7 to 10 million bushels were credited in commission house reports to General Foods corporation, which operates large flour mills in connection with its extensive food business.

The holdings were understood to represent grain taken on delivery on future contracts in 1943 as a hedge against the company's grain requirements.

Find No Basis for Action.

Altho reports have been current that the market was being manipulated by a few strong Chicago and eastern operators, the exchange's business conduct committee and the war food administration reputedly found no basis for action after an investigation begun last December.

Another factor in the action of rye has been the belief that the war production board will order distillers to use that grain in the production of industrial alcohol as a step in the conservation of wheat.

Rye, which has made up two-thirds of the trading in Chicago grain futures, closed at the top. Oats closed ¼ to 1¼ cents higher; wheat advanced ⅜ to ¾ cent, and barley gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent.

Rye Supply Decreases.

A department of agriculture survey showed 37 million bushels of cash rye on hand as of Dec. 1, 1943, or 20 million bushels less than a year earlier. There is no ceiling price on rye as on other grains and rye is the only grain selling relatively below farm parity price.

Besides the large holdings of cash rye by General Foods, much cash grain was reportedly paid for last year by other interests, resulting in reducing hedging pressure to some extent.

Terms Clearer Federal Plans Builders' Need

BY AL CHASE.

Prompt settlement of the public housing controversy so that private interests will know just what role the federal government is planning for itself in the home building field was urged yesterday by Harold G. Woodruff, of Detroit, president of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America. He opened a two day conference of the association in the Drake hotel.

"Today practically all government officials are adamant in asserting that they are for private initiative in construction except any particular field which private capital cannot enter," Woodruff said. "Yet we see evidence that many Washington officials and others are planning a vast federal effort in housing."

Plans Too Far Advanced.

Housing and new building were termed by Woodruff the economic field where the largest part of the nation's post-war planning could be done with the possibility that it would produce the quickest reëmployment of veterans after the war.

He said that much of the present post-war planning "is getting ahead of itself with the hardest part of the war still ahead." More planning should be concentrated on activities which are likely to absorb the largest number of workers in the shortest time, he contended.

He considered new building such a field. "We can start building houses almost immediately after the end of the war," he said. "That's not true of most other great industries employing large numbers of workers.

Terms Predictions Extreme.

"With demobilization, we will face the reverse in employment of today's conditions. No other field offers such excellent prospects of employment for returning veterans as does building.'

Woodruff said that tho there is no question that a vast pent-up demand for new construction, especially residential units, exists, he believes most predictions of post-war needs are fantastic. He pointed out that the best year for residential building was 1925 when fewer than 940,000 units were built.

Heavy Building Awards Show Increase for Week

New York, March 2 (AP).—Engineering construction awards this week totaled $39,411,000 compared with $22,161,000 in the preceding week and $85,809,000 a year ago.

GOVERNMENT TO TURN PART OF VAST POTATO SUPPLY INTO ALCOHOL

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The government is completing arrangements to convert approximately 18 million bushels of lower grade white potatoes into industrial alcohol for war purposes. The action was taken to prevent their possible waste and a drop in growers' prices.

The potatoes will be dehydrated at idle midwestern sugar beet plants and then shipped to alcohol plants for processing. The WFA said the decision to use the potatoes for alcohol was made because last year's bumper crop had provided more than could possibly be consumed before this year's spring and early summer crops reach the market.

MIDLAND PLAN GETS APPROVAL OF SEC DIVISION

Philadelphia, Pa., March 2 (AP).—The public utilities division of the securities and exchange commission today recommended that the joint plan of reorganization for Midland United and Midland Utilities companies be found "in its major aspects" fair and equitable, and in compliance with requirements of the holding company act.

The plan, if approved by the commission, will break the deadlock which has kept this complex remnant of Samuel Insull's "utility empire" in litigation under the bankruptcy act for the last 10 years. Oral argument will be held before the commission in April. Details of the plan were announced last November.

PRICES OF MEAT ANIMALS STEADY AS RECEIPTS EBB

Movement of meat animals from farms continued to ebb yesterday, but further price increases were prevented when buyers balked at rising costs. Twenty leading markets received 29,000 cattle and 148,000 hogs, compared with 34,000 and 172,000 a week ago.

Brisk competition held most good cattle on a fully steady price basis, but weakness appeared in the trade for some of the plainer classes, especially those selling for less than $14.

CHICAGO BANKS SET TO FINANCE FOREIGN TRADE

Expect Large Gain in Volume.

Imports Are Heavy

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—United States imports from Latin America last year exceeded exports to those nations by a record $524,634,000—42 per cent above the 1942 net import balance, the census bureau reported today. Merchandise accounted for $493,746,000 or 94 per cent of the import balance with the remainder in gold and silver. War time regulations restrict trade figures to export and import balances, thus cloaking the actual volume of trade.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Chicago bankers are preparing to finance an expanding volume of foreign trade after the war, Harry Salinger, vice president of the First National bank, said yesterday. He predicted that the Chicago area position in world trade will be vastly enhanced after the war.

Harry Salinger.

Salinger, in charge of the bank's foreign department, reputedly the oldest in the country, asserted that American success in world trade will depend largely on wise government policy and a minimum of federal controls.

He warned against a repetition of the government's "unfortunate" loan policy following World War I., and said that America's expanding creditor nation position demands a recognition of world trade as "two way traffic."

Position Is Better Now.

Chicago world trade interests are in a better position than they were during World War I., when a shortage of ships forced many corporations to establish export departments in New York for the primary purpose of bidding on the scene for the few ships that became available, he said.

"Since then, there has been a gradual return to Chicago, and companies that have plants and headquarters in this area find no advantage in directing their export operations from New York," Salinger said. "Chicago has been put on the world trade map for thousands of foreign business men who used to limit their visits to the seaboard cities."

Chicago's position in this respect parallels its experience in railroading. Until a few years ago, a number of Chicago lines were dominated by New York interests, displaced since then by Chicago directors and Chicago banks which have been named transfer agents and given similar fiduciary positions.

Latin America Attractive Field.

"Chicago banks are prepared to finance all desirable foreign business," Salinger said. "Latin American countries, with more than 1½ billion in gold and dollar balances awaiting the opportunity to be spent, offer a particularly attractive field.

"Some of these countries are becoming industrialized, which should increase their foreign trade potentialities. Chicago companies with established pre-war lines of merchandise are anxious to resume exports, and other companies plan to enter the export field with new products.

"In considering the vast quantities of food products and manufactured goods of all descriptions exported from this area, we often overlook the midwest's importance as a distributing center. Actually, about 40 per cent of all items imported into the United States is distributed in the Chicagoland area.

Foreign Trade Termed Need.

"We must realize, too, that after the war this country will be the biggest creditor nation in history, and that this demands broad scale international business. We cannot have or develop a worthwhile and expanding export trade if buyers cannot pay for their purchases. We must either buy from them or grant them loans to liquidate our export sales."

HOUSE APPROVES ABSORPTION OF CHECK CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The house passed today a bill permitting federal reserve member banks to absorb check exchange and collection charges of country banks which have funds on deposit with the larger institutions. The measure, adopted by voice vote, now goes to the senate.

The bill would reinstate what has been a common practice among many banks for years. The issue was brought to a head early this year, when the federal reserve board moved to stop the absorption of the exchange charges by starting to enforce its "Regulation Q" which has been on the books since 1935.

The regulation, never before invoked, prohibits federal reserve member banks from absorbing the exchange fees in return for the use of smaller banks' funds on deposit.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

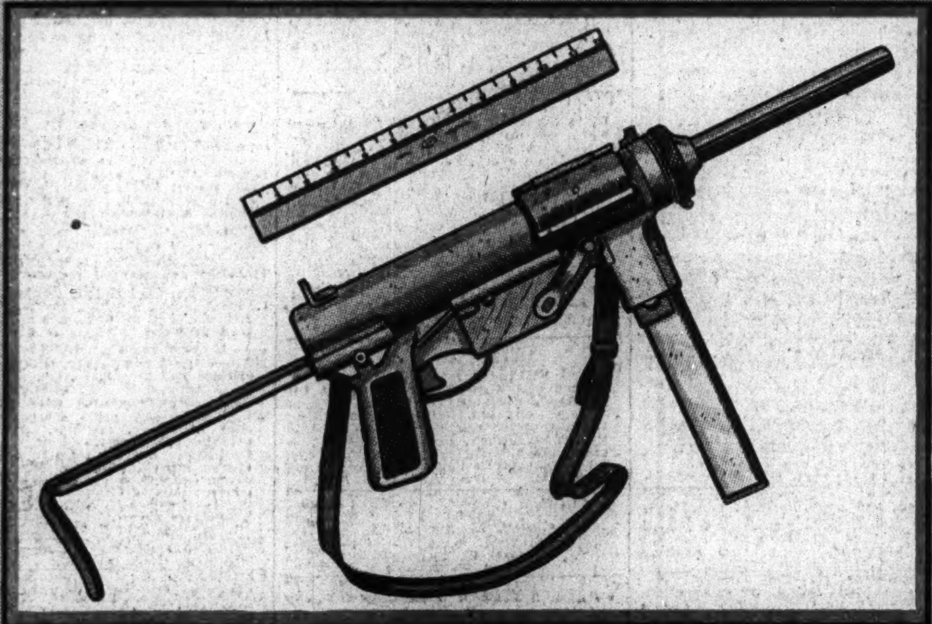
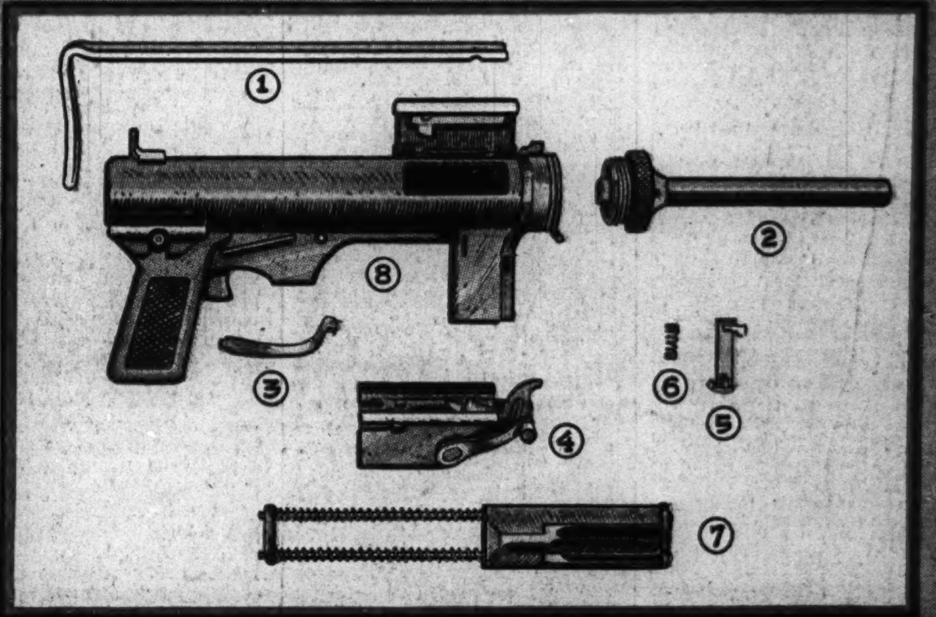
By RICHARD FLETCHER

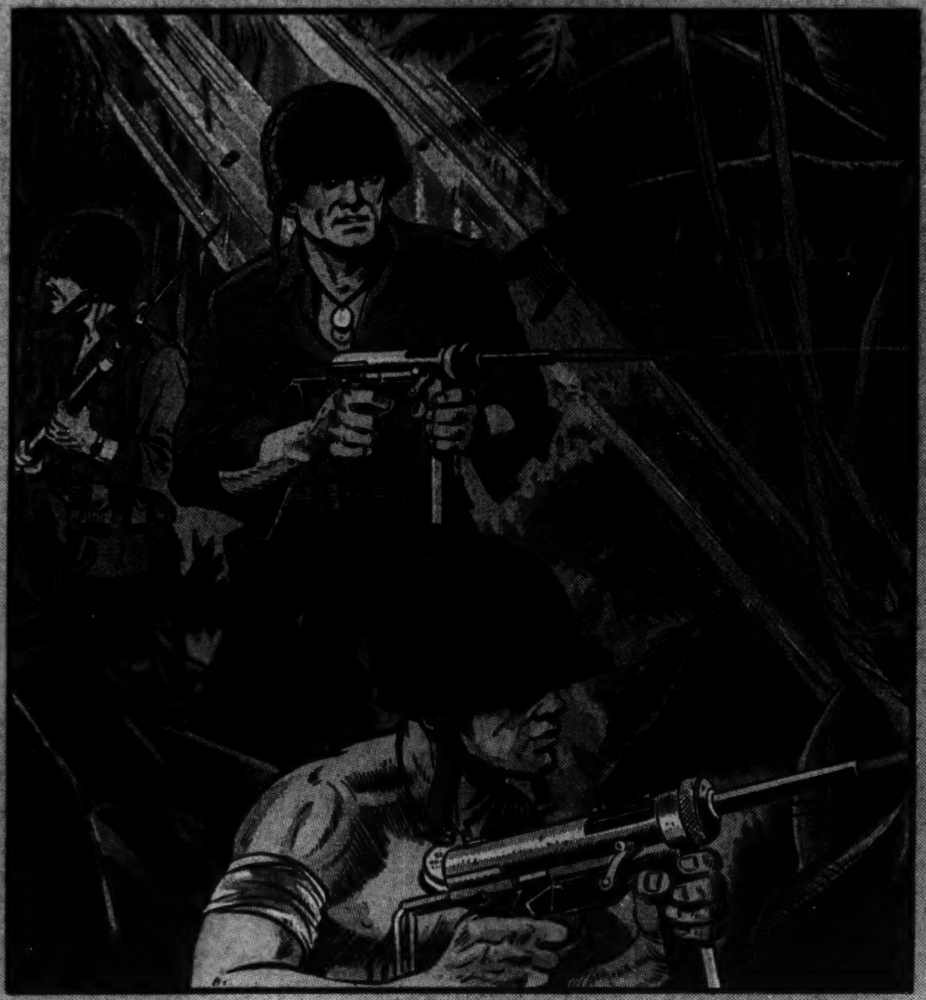


America's all metal submachine gun, the M3. It takes standard .45 caliber automatic pistol ammunition, its magazine holds 30 rounds, and it fires at the rate of 450 rounds a minute. No tools are required to take the gun apart or assemble it.

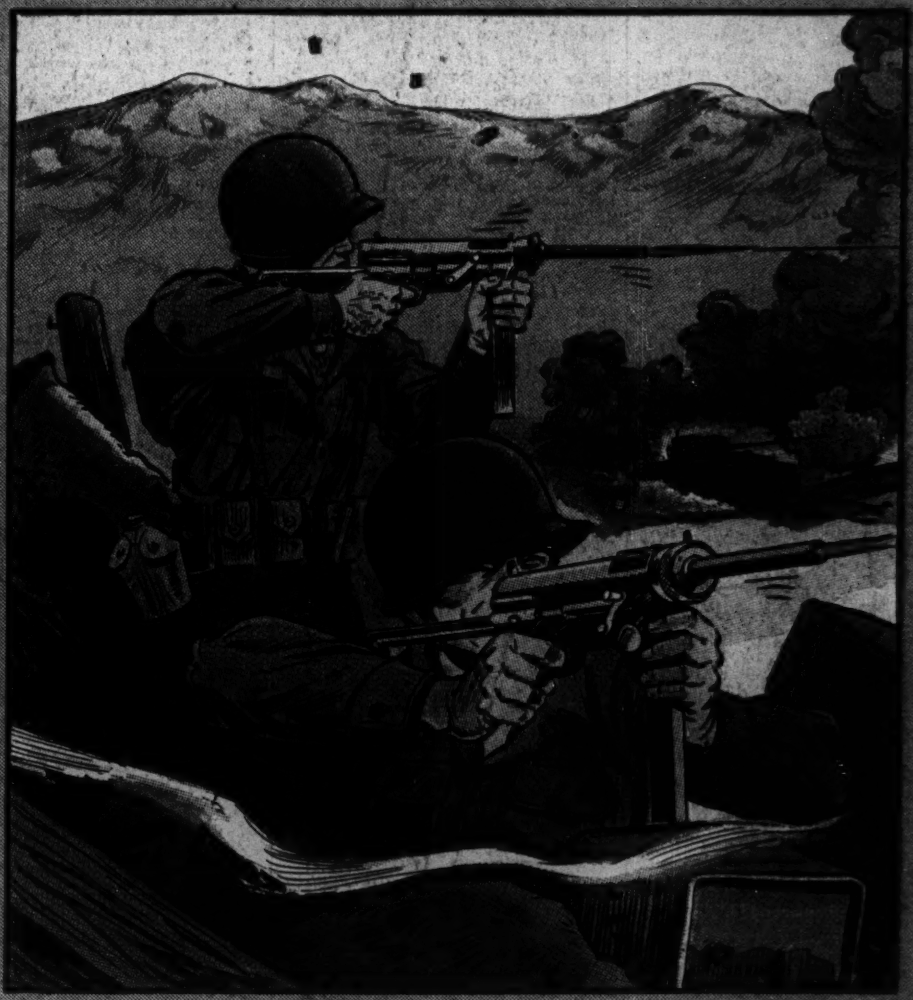
The M3 is commonly called the "brief case" gun, from the fact that it can be taken down to fit into an ordinary brief case. It can be packed in a box 12¾ by 7½ by 3⅜ inches. It is shown here lying upon a brief case. The weapon, with magazine, weighs less than 9 pounds. The first experimental gun of the type was tested in the autumn of 1942, and in April, 1943, the first of the new guns came off the production line. In mass production they cost less than $20 apiece.



The M3 stripped down (as in the field). The numbered sections are (1) stock, (2) barrel, (3) trigger guard, (4) cocking lever assembly, (5) magazine catch, (6) magazine spring, (7) guide rod assembly, (8) housing. The gun has 73 parts, not counting magazine.



At left: Artist's conception of the M3 in use in jungle warfare. Here it is being fired in the manner of a pistol, without the employment of the shoulder stock. The M3 has been tested and found satisfactory by the infantry, the parachute troops, the amphibious troops, the armored force, and the tank destroyer command. The weapon is fabricated mainly from stamped metal parts, to take advantage of speed and economy in manufacture and assembly.



At right: The M3 pictured in use as a shoulder weapon. It employs the straight-blowback full automatic principle of operation. Single shots can be fired from the gun by the quick depression and release of the trigger. It has an 8-inch barrel, a sliding removable skeleton stock, and all working parts are fully inclosed to protect them from dirt and water.

Jennifer Jones and Paul Lukas, named winners of awards last night for best motion picture performances in 1943. Miss Jones was chosen for work in "The Song of Bernadette," and Lukas for role in "Watch on the Rhine."
